Laetrile Ban Heads For Court Showdown

By GIL BRIDGES
Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The growing clamor of cancer patients for the illegal substance laetrile heads for a showdown in federal appeals court this week as a three-judge panel prepares for arguments over whether the Food and Drug Administration has the right to ban the product. The specific case which will be heard July 30 in Santa Fe, N.M., by a panel of the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals involves a ruling by an Oklahoma City federal judge who allowed the importation of laetrile by individual patients from Mexico, where it is legal.

U.S. District Court Judge Luther Bohanon has allowed more than a dozen cancer patients to obtain laetrile, which is synthesized from apricot seeds which the Food and Drug Administration said have been responsible for several fatal and nonfatal cyanide poisoning cases. Alaskan doctors, meanwhile, can administer laetrile since the state legislature passed a bill opening the way for its use and it became law when the Gov. Jay Hammond neither signed nor vetoed the measure. Laetrile still could be banned, however, if the state medical board rules that it is harmful.

The FDA ban affects interstate shipments of the substance. Individual states can regulate its use within their own borders. Bohanon's first ruling — the one under appeal by the FDA — came in 1975. He ordered that Kansas cancer patient Glen L. Rutherford could import a six-month supply of the substance, also marketed as Vitamin B17 and amygdalin. Rutherford, of Conway Springs, Kan., says, "I owe my life to it."

Bohanon has since granted requests from other cancer patients, saying it would be "out and out cruelty" to deny the people a chance to use laetrile. His orders have prohibited the FDA from interfering with the importation of laetrile for the individuals and have granted the patients' physicians immunity from prosecution in administering the substance.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Bill Price of Oklahoma City, presenting the government's case, contends that the courts have no jurisdiction in the matter because persons desiring laetrile have not followed guidelines established by Congress for getting a "drug" approved.

"Congress has designated that a drug is not to be marketed in this country unless it is approved by one agency and one agency only — and that is the FDA," Price says.

Attorneys for the cancer victims contend that laetrile is not in a strict sense a drug, but a food or a food supplement, and therefore should not be prohibited by the FDA. Price says it is "represented as a cure for disease, which is the legal definition of a drug." Price says companies which wish to market laetrile in the United States should submit proof of its remedial properties to the FDA, which could review the study and approve or disapprove of Laetrile. If the FDA denied such evidence, then the marketers of laetrile could

Stockman Replies To 'Liberal' Stamp

Dave Stockman of St. Joseph, candidate for the Republican nomination for the Fourth District congressional seat, charged today that his campaign issues have been distorted by "innuendo, half-truths and downright falsehoods."

Stockman did not mention any opponents by name but his remarks were aimed principally at Atty. Lee Boothby, Berrien Springs, who attacked Stockman in a recent mailing to district voters.

Stockman had a less sharp reference to David Frazer, Benton Harbor, another candidate. There was no reference in Stockman's release to Miss Helen Take, St. Joseph, also a GOP candidate for the nomination.

Stockman said: "While cam-paing, I have consistently stressed three themes: fiscal responsibility, welfare reform, and a drastic reduction in red tape and bureaucratic controls.

"But now I find that by means of innuendo, half-truths and downright falsehoods, my opponents would have the public believe otherwise. One has even gone to the trouble of mailing a three-page letter to thousands of Fourth District voters purporting to explain my positions on welfare and health care," Stockman said in referring to a mailing by Boothby.

Stockman said: "Resorting to back-room style politics, he cut and pasted, deleted words, took sentences out of context, and supplied ample interpretative comment to my writing in an attempt to prove that I support a guaranteed annual income for not working."

Stockman continued, "I abhor the concept of giveaways to able-bodied people. I am committed to completely scrapping the current work-killing, family-destroying, bureaucracy-ridden welfare system, and replacing it with a stringent welfare plan that will not give a dime to an employable person until he sweats out 40 hours per week in

REAGAN PICKS RUNNING MATE Republicans Debate Strategy

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Ronald Reagan's strategists say the selection of Sen. Richard S. Schweiker as vice presidential running mate has strengthened Reagan's presidential campaign and broadened his political base.

But backers of President Ford called the Reagan announcement a desperate play for delegates by a losing candidate. Reagan named the Pennsylvania lawmaker — one of the most liberal members of the Senate — in a surprise move Monday.

Just three weeks before opening of the Republican National Convention, Ford is 36 delegates away from the nomination with 1,084, in The Associated Press survey. Reagan trails with 1,025 and 169 delegates were uncommitted, including 28 in Schweiker's home state.

Reagan backers were generally mum about the announcement. Spokesmen for the Reagan campaign emphasized points where Schweiker agrees with the former California governor's conservative philosophy.

The consensus was that Reagan stands to gain in the Northeast, where he is weakest.

But he may suffer in the South and West, where his support rests in large part with legally uncommitted delegates.

"I think it broadens our base noticeably," Lyn Nofziger, a close political confidant of Reagan, said of the Schweiker announcement.

"This is a guy who has won elections statewide in a tough state for Republicans. He undoubtedly is going to go up there and work hard to win those delegates. Schweiker will work throughout the Northeast into the Ohio Valley."

"I think it's much too early to tell whether it's going to hurt us in the South or the West. I think by the time many of those delegates in the South have looked the situation over and looked at Schweiker, I'm not sure there will be any hurt there."

Ford's backers initially were cautious in their reaction. But they quickly raised a counteroffensive.

"It appears to be an effort to exchange the second highest office in the land for a handful of delegates," said Ford campaign manager Rogers C.B. Morton.

Florida State GOP Chairman Bill Taylor, a Ford supporter, said Schweiker is farther to the left than Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

"The people I've talked to are aghast. I sense that in the South it will have an adverse effect,"

Fugitive Sought In Death Of M.D.

SOUTHFIELD, Mich.

(AP) — The FBI is seeking a Southeastern Michigan Prison escapee for questioning in the July 18 shooting death of Dr. Cynthia Miller, medical director of the Detroit House of Corrections. A federal fugitive warrant was issued Monday for Gordon D. Wingard, 27, who fled the Jackson prison June 29 and was believed by authorities to have left the state. Wingard, who was serving a 1½ to 5 year sentence for attempted murder, was a first-aid nurse in the Jackson infirmary during a several month period last year when Dr. Miller worked there, authorities said.

Dr. Miller was found dead at the wheel of her car on a Southfield expressway 10 days ago. Southfield police investigating the case said Monday Dr. Miller was romantically linked with Southeastern Michigan Prison inmate Larry Wells, who is named as beneficiary in her handwritten will. Wells, 24, who is serving a 15-to-30 year sentence for armed robbery, was a lab technician in the infirmary while Dr. Miller served there, prison officials said.

At Brown, Southfield police spokesman, said authorities have not tied Dr. Miller's relationship with Wells into the case. The Detroit Free Press reported that other sources inside the investigation said Wingard, who knew both Dr. Miller and Wells, may have convinced the woman he could put a "fix" in to get Wells out of prison. Brown refused to say why police were specifically seeking Wingard. He said police were looking for "a number of people who had contact with Dr. Miller."

Investigators say that on the day of her death Dr. Miller withdrew $5,000 from her account in an Ann Arbor bank. When her body was discovered less than an hour later, the money was not found. Dr. Miller's will, filed in Washtenaw County Probate Court, leaves to Wells all the money in her bank accounts, all salary due her, the proceeds from the sale of her car, and a $10,000 stock security. The rest of her belongings are left to her mother and sisters. The handwritten will, which is neither witnessed nor notarized, was found in Dr. Miller's bank deposit box.

Chrysler Reports Record Earnings

DETROIT (AP) — There was more evidence of a dramatic turnaround for automakers Monday as Chrysler Corp. reported all-time record earnings of $155.1 million for the second quarter of 1976, compared with a $58.7 million loss in the same 1975 quarter.

The nation's No. 3 automaker also reported record quarterly sales of $4.1 billion, up 41 per cent from $2.9 billion from last year's April-June quarter.

Chrysler said its net profits, equal to $2.58 a share, included an extraordinary tax credit of $39 million, or 50 cents a share. Even without the credit, the firm's earnings were the highest for any quarter in its 51-year history.

The company's previous second-quarter earnings record was $108.6 million in the boom year of 1973. The previous record for any quarter was $112.3 million in the fourth quarter of 1968.

For the first six months of the year, Chrysler reported record net earnings of $227.2 million, or $3.78 a share, on sales of $7.7 billion. First-half profits, which include $45 million in tax credits, surpassed the previous record of $198.3 million set in the first six months of 1973.

The firm had net losses of $132.8 million in the first half of 1975 on sales of $5.5 billion.

Chrysler's second-quarter earnings, substantially higher than most financial analysts had predicted, provided another indication of the firm's dramatic recovery from record losses during last year's industry recession.

Chrysler had lost money for six consecutive quarters until turning a $73 million profit in the first quarter of this year. Prior to that, the firm had built up total losses of $112 million since mid-1973, including a record $29.5 million loss for 1975.

Analysts attributed the firm's profit resurgence to a robust recovery in the U.S. new car

Charge Dropped Against BH Man

A charge of receiving and concealing stolen property was dismissed Monday in Berrien Fifth District court against a Benton Harbor man in whose home police reported finding property valued at an estimated $100,000.

Earnest Givens, 52, of 817 Buss avenue, was released after the prosecutor's office requested the case be dismissed without prejudice, according to Judge Ronald J. Taylor. Givens had been charged with receiving and concealing two bicycles.

Asst. Prosecutor Scott Beatty said the request was made to give the prosecutor's office and Benton Harbor police more time for investigation. Dismissal of charges "without prejudice" means charge can be reinstated by the state.

Meanwhile, Benton Harbor Police Lt. Al Edwards said police are continuing to investigate the case, and 20 truck loads of merchandise confiscated from Givens' house will still be held by police.

"We are not through investigating it, far from it," Edwards said.

Givens was charged with possession of two stolen bicycles July 14.

Edwards said an arrest warrant charging possession of two stolen bicycles was issued against Givens after officers executed a search warrant at Givens' house.

Edwards said that warrant specifically listed a search for a shotgun, but Givens was arrested on possessing two stolen bicycles when officers observed two bikes that had been previously reported as stolen.

Edwards said officers then obtained a second search warrant covering contents of the house which were confiscated.

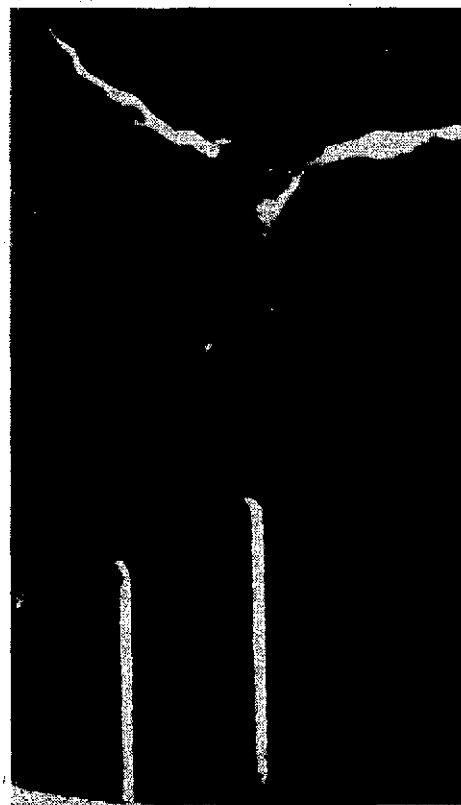

Police reported when they went to the house to execute the first search warrant, they found guns, radios, tape players, appliances and other merchandise "literally piled wall to wall" on the main floor and basement of the bungalow.

Another search warrant was obtained then and the merchandise confiscated, according to Edwards.

No formal charges were made against Givens, however, in connection with the merchandise other than the two bicycles.

Tot Suffocates On Swallowed Balloon

COVERT — A four-year-old Covert boy suffocated when he swallowed a balloon while playing in the backyard of a Covert township home yesterday, Covert township police reported.

The boy, Andrew DeLany, was pronounced dead on arrival at South Haven Community hospital where he was rushed after he fell off a swing and collapsed. When taken to the hospital, police said, it was not known that the boy had swallowed the balloon. The balloon was found after an autopsy was performed.

According to police, the child was brought to the hospital because of the head injury caused in the fall.

Police said the child fell off the swing at the Little Flower Brown residence, M-140, Covert, where he was staying as a foster child.

Witnesses told police the boy had been playing on the swing set in the backyard of the Brown home when he fell, striking his head on a rock.

The witnesses said the child ran into the house after the fall and collapsed inside.

A neighbor, Samuel Carter, took the child to the hospital.

According to police, the autopsy was ordered because it was determined the head injury was not serious enough to cause death. An autopsy performed by Dr. Daniel Glaser located a balloon caught in the trachea. Death was ruled to be from suffocation.

Charles Kehoe, director of the Berrien county juvenile court services which includes the foster care program, said the child's natural parents could not be located by mid-morning today. The child had been placed in the foster home through the Berrien services because of the child's residence when the case went to juvenile court. The residence was in Benton Harbor, Kehoe said. The names of the parents are being withheld pending notification of the death.

Reflections Upon One-Term Presidency

Starting with the Founding Fathers and continuing off and on through the years to Richard Nixon's turbulent final days in the White House, the idea has cropped up to limit the Presidency to one term, preferably of six years duration.

The Founding Fathers did adopt the thought partially.

They created a bicameral federal legislature wherein one house, the Senate, was put on a six-year basis. They reasoned this could give a continuity to Congress and still keep Congress tied to popular wishes of the moment by confining the House of Representatives to a two-year status. They did not, however, extend the concept to the Senate of one term and out.

The single six-year Presidency received some attention, but failed to overcome an apprehension that a term of office of such extension could take on some of the attributes of the lifetime monarchical system from which the embattled colonists had only recently divorced themselves by force of arms.

Andrew Jackson, no stranger to strongly flavored partisan politics, was the first President to toss out the thought for public reaction.

Nothing came of it and the proposition lay dormant for a century until revived by Herbert Hoover in the early 1930s.

The strongest arguments against a single term Presidency run in this vein:

It taxes the electorate's faith in the candidates for the White House. The same can be said for all candidates running for the first time, but when a President stands for re-election, his first term results are available to the voter in deciding whether he is qualified to succeed himself or should be thrown out of office.

Without the pressure of running for re-election, a one-term President is or could turn accountable to no one but himself. He might conduct the office so as to pave the way someone in his own party to succeed. Then again, he might not. In any event, opponents of the single term view it as an opportunity for a President to develop delusions of grandeur or worse, and creative of a situation whereby getting rid of a failure would be almost impossible.

While those considerations are not to be dismissed lightly, the experience with the Presidency in modern times does not back them up.

As Lyndon B. Johnson put it so astringently, a President spends his first term trying to get re-elected to a second. His decisions and actions during the first four years tend to be taken with the public opinion polls first in mind and the country's best interests receiving secondary attention.

Even FDR, consistently the most formidable vote puller of all Presidents saving George Washington who had no opposition, spent his first three terms pre-occupied in large measure with measuring the effect of what he did in one term would have in a subsequent campaign.

Another advantage to the single six-year term would be to average out the public's own doubts and fears as to where the nation may be heading at any given moment.

Only a few years ago foreign policy, basically how to deal with Russia and Red China, weighed heavily upon the man in the street.

Double digit inflation, the result of trying to fight in Viet Nam on a guns and butter theory, then took over as a major concern.

Today, employment ranks uppermost in mind.

Tomorrow, unless past patterns are outmoded as guides, some other consideration will receive the greatest attention.

The trouble in trying to isolate the problem of the day is in overlooking the interrelation of many other problems of lesser dramatic effect of the moment yet all steaming from cause and effect matrices which are not separated from one another.

A President elected under the current system is almost forced to tackle the problem of the day if he holds thoughts on a second term and in the process overlook or neglect other difficulties of a more severe, longer term significance.

The one-term President would be in a position to evaluate the total picture and to move accordingly.

The difference in the two is fighting one brushfire after another without getting at the tinder fueling the blazes.

It's The One Battle No President Wins

Except to those who become embroiled in its never-ending network of duplication, complexity and meddlesomeness, bureaucratic paperwork is one of the most hilarious facets of big government.

Many are the tales of paper-shuffling in government behemoths where it is standard procedure to communicate an idea from one desk to an adjoining one by way of memorandum.

Much of the humor involving mounds of paperwork being routed through the myriad channels of government is lost to the public because they are few individuals remaining outside the limits of government regulation. It is difficult to enjoy a comedy in which the joke is on you.

Business, of course, has greater strain placed upon it by government questionnaires, reports, summaries and inquiries than do individuals.

The trend is to require as much information from industry as possible, regardless of the time-consuming efforts required to assemble it, on the premise that the more statistics produced, the greater the regulatory efficiency.

What has become of the order from the White House that each department is to reduce the number of forms it originates by at least 10 per cent? No one is holding his breath in anticipation. That is one battle no president in recent history has won.

Mars Nitrogen Confirmed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — An automated "sniff" of the Martian air has confirmed the presence of nitrogen, eliminating what had long been considered a major obstacle to the possibility of life on the Red Planet. Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here said Monday that a device aboard the Viking 1 lander, called a mass spectrometer, tested the atmosphere on Mars and found that 3 per cent of it is nitrogen. The same measure had been found by a simpler version of the instrument as Viking descended to its desert landing site last week. Nitrogen had never before been detected on Mars, and scientists said its presence increased the chance that life will be found.

Prosecutor Asks New Trial

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A prosecutor who convinced a jury that a 26-year-old man should be electrocuted for murder now says the condemned man deserves a new trial. Clifford Hallman is on Florida's Death Row, convicted of slaying a barmaid, Eleanor Jean Groves, in April 1973. He had slashed her throat with a jagged beer glass. But a doctor's testimony in a separate malpractice case indicates that Mrs. Groves, who was 45, died because of inadequate medical care. "I think under the circumstances a new trial is in order," said former Asst. State Atty. Robert Nutter, who prosecuted Hallman. "I think the jury should have been aware of it."

Progress In Strike Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government mediators closed in on a settlement of the California cannery strike and renewed efforts to get more than 60,000 rubber workers back on the job before their shutdown damages other segments of the economy. As the cannery strike began its second week today, the mediators reported steady progress after overcoming a snag on money issues. Meanwhile, officials of the rubber industry were hopeful the resumption of talks today at the Federal Mediation Service will lead to a settlement of their 88-day dispute, one of the longest in the industry's history. "There is room for compromise," United Rubber Workers President Peter Bonmarito said Monday. But he added that a settlement will depend on "what attitude the companies take."

Arrests Stun Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Former Prime Minister Kakei Tanaka, the rag-to-riches political maverick who resigned under a cloud of suspicion 18 months ago, was arrested today on charges of being involved in the Lockheed payoff scandal. The public prosecutor said Tanaka and Toshio Enomoto, his secretary when he was prime minister, were accused of receiving $1.7 million (500 million yen) from an official of the Marubeni trading, Lockheed's agent at the time. The arrests stunned Japan's closely related political and business worlds. The yen dropped 55 points, from 283.55 to the dollar to 294.10. Prices also dropped on the Tokyo stock exchange, but they recovered before the market closed.

Conventions Are Giant Trade Fairs

WASHINGTON — National political conventions are giant trade fairs.

John Gardner was at the recent Democratic national meeting from Common Cause. Not to boost Jimmy Carter — Gardner is a Republican. But, with a bevy of assistants numbering between 15 and 25, he was there to buttonhole the estimated 400 to 500 Common Cause members at the Convention from all over the nation, whip them into a concerted 50-state campaign to get through two measures Gardner is pushing now — bills that would require detailed reports by lobbying organizations and thorough financial disclosures by congressmen.

The Gardner campaign was as organized as Carter's. Each Common Cause member was to make it personally clear to his congressman that he was expected to work to get these bills out of committee unscathed and vote for them on the floor. Each senator was to be pressured on the financial disclosure bill, the lobbying measure having passed that chamber.

Congressmen up for election were to be told that if they did not cooperate, their lack of effort, or their negative vote would be used against them publicly in the campaigns this fall.

Gardner and his group have a powerful lever in that several hundred of the delegates and alternates, many politically prominent at home, and numbers of the candidates and their wives, are Common Cause members, including Mrs. Jimmy Carter and her husband.

Whether or not the Gardner-Common Cause effort will succeed is another matter. Members of Congress have been notoriously coy about revealing their financial holdings, their business connections, their stock and commodity trading, their legal clients and incomes in detail — and it is likely in the minds of most observers I've talked to that the financial disclosure bills will remain stalled in committee or emasculated before they reach the House and Senate floors.

The same fate may be in store for the publicity — for — lobbyists bill in the House, though there's a little more hope here in that the measure did get through the Senate.

But Common Cause was not the only group offering wares at the convention. Also pressing their special interests were the Labor Council, National Amnesty Council, Black Leaders Democratic Caucus, Italian American Committee, Right to Life, Gay Rights Caucus, New Democratic Coalition, National Organization for Women, Americans for Democratic Action, the Ralph Nader organizations, National Abortion Rights Action League, Energy Action Caucus, United Farm Workers, Machinists, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Longshoremen, Electrical Workers, National Education Association and the Friends of Animals, Inc. (advocating a boycott of tuna).

A bookers group was on the fringe.

Though the Democratic presidential nomination had been sewn up well before the convention, a bevy of men and women were there establishing a base for future years.

Jerry Brown of California was campaigning for Brown, building contacts and setting alliances virtually until the last delegates headed for home — more than a day after Carter had received the formal votes, the nomination and the Brown oath of allegiance.

Mo Udall's withdrawal, his releasing of delegates pledged to him and his personal pledge to become a Carter worker were as much a plea for Udall votes at the convention as a concession of defeat.

But Brown and Udall were not alone. The lobbies of the convention hotels were filled with candidates for almost every conceivable office, future candidates and those desiring to move up in the party structure, each seeking to make his name known to those in power and to others who might be useful in the future.

In short, it was a typical convention.

The Legendary Super Star

I have just read one of the saddest but also most moving of books, Frank Deford's "Big Bill Tilden," about the greatest tennis player who ever lived.

Tilden was a freak, a gargoyle. However, in his extreme artistic specialization and isolation, he has something in common with more accepted American heroes such as Ernest Hemingway and Joe DiMaggio.

My own life touched Tilden briefly and marginally in the summer of 1946, and here the name DiMaggio has a certain appropriateness.

To my 13- and 14-year-old cronies, Tilden and DiMaggio were comparable figures. We used to go up to Yankee Stadium to see the graceful, loping DiMaggio. We were also playing in junior tennis tournaments. Tilden was another such god; and that summer he took to hanging around at our local club in Forest Hills.

We kids knew that Tilden was more than 50 years old and that earlier in the summer he had blasted the current champion Frankie Parker off the court and that he had done the same thing to a former champion and current contender, Ted Schroeder.

If Tilden could do that when he was practically an old man we figured that he must have been totally uncontainable 20 years earlier, and we were right.

Tilden struck us as excessively flamboyant and theatrical. In my own boyish mind, I attributed this to the fact that he had played in Paris, London, on the Riviera, even in California, and other mythical places.

I remember playing set after set one weekday morning with a young protegee Tilden had brought with him from the West Coast. Tilden sat above us on the clubhouse porch loudly coaching his young player, Lobi! Lobi! The backhand! Now! Now! It all seemed rather overdone, as did the tennis shirts Tilden then favored — very broad black and white stripes, in a day when everyone wore pure white.

One piece of personal advice Tilden gave me that summer struck me as heroic, and still does. In July, eager for my junior tournaments, I pulled a muscle in my arm. It was painful to play. All the coaches counseled rest.

"Play right through it," Tilden said. "Dominate it." Tilden indicated that nothing like a mere muscle had ever stood in his way, and as Frank Deford's book shows, Tilden could dominate extraordinary pain. In my own case, Tilden turned out to be correct. I "played right through it" and the arm healed.

Nursing Home Legislation

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation cracking down on nursing home abuses and improving patient care will be introduced in the state Senate in September. Its sponsor, Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, conceded he may not achieve passage in the brief fall session of the legislature. But he predicted the bill will be approved eventually. Generally, his bill addresses patients' rights, institutional staffing and safeguards against fraudulent practices. It includes, he said, "strong sanctions for a wide variety of abuses," and he predicted stiff opposition from much of the nursing home industry.

Reflections Upon One-Term Presidency

Starting with the Founding Fathers and continuing off and on through the years to Richard Nixon's turbulent final days in the White House, the idea has cropped up to limit the Presidency to one term, preferably of six years duration.

The Founding Fathers did adopt the thought partially.

They created a bicameral federal legislature wherein one house, the Senate, was put on a six-year basis. They reasoned this could give a continuity to Congress and still keep Congress tied to popular wishes of the moment by confining the House of Representatives to a two-year status. They did not, however, extend the concept to the Senate of one term and out.

The single six-year Presidency received some attention, but failed to overcome an apprehension that a term of office of such extension could take on some of the attributes of the lifetime monarchical system from which the embattled colonists had only recently divorced themselves by force of arms.

Andrew Jackson, no stranger to strongly flavored partisan politics, was the first President to toss out the thought for public reaction.

Nothing came of it and the proposition lay dormant for a century until revived by Herbert Hoover in the early 1930s.

The strongest arguments against a single term Presidency run in this vein:

It taxes the electorate's faith in the candidates for the White House. The same can be said for all candidates running for the first time, but when a President stands for re-election, his first term results are available to the voter in deciding whether he is qualified to succeed himself or should be thrown out of office.

Road Job, Lawsuit On Agenda In SJ

St. Joseph city commissioners last night passed the first of three readings of a resolution for the widening of Cleveland avenue and learned the city is being sued over its restrictions on billboards.

The construction project on Cleveland will be from Lake Shore drive to Hilltop road and will include widening, curb and gutter work.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said a public hearing on the project will be held in three weeks, after which a second reading of the resolution will be acted upon.

A third reading of the resolution will be held three weeks after the public hearing. The project will require setting up a special tax assessment roll for residents who live along that section of Cleveland to pay for part of the project. The city will pay for the rest, Hepler said.

Hepler said there is presently no cost estimate on the project. Cleveland is scheduled to be widened from its present 28 feet to 38 feet. Hepler said if all goes well work on the project could begin this fall.

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr. told the commission a suit was filed in Berrien circuit court yesterday by Central Advertising of Lansing against the city's sign code on nonconstruction of billboards.

An amendment to the uniform sign code restricting billboard construction was passed last year by the commission. The amendment does three things:

—Requires people who want to put up a billboard over 100 square feet to get a permit.

—Requires a billboard be 100 feet from the street if not attached to a building.

—Requires a billboard attached to a building to advertise the business housed in the building.

The Lansing firm contends the amendments are too restrictive.

Preston said the Lansing firm wants to put up four billboards at 342 Main street, 1021 Main (corner of Main and Niles), 1127 Main (corner of Main and Central avenue) and 1719 Lake Shore drive (corner of Lake Shore and Howard avenue). The signs would be two sizes, 300 square feet and 750 square feet, according to Preston.

The suit was filed in the court of Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns who said he denied a temporary restraining order sought by the firm against the city but did grant a hearing to be scheduled on why an injunction shouldn't be issued.

Byrns said the advertising company actually seeks one of two actions — a writ of mandamus requiring the city to grant a permit for signs or an injunction prohibiting the city from denying permits for the signs.

Byrns said the company contends the sign code restrictions are a violation of constitutional rights to property.

Preston said to his knowledge there are three billboards presently in the city all put before the ordinance was passed.

Also last night Commissioner Warren Gast asked Hepler to look into developing a program that would allow the city commission to put some kind of pressure on city landlords, especially absentee landlords, to keep their property up. Gast suggested possibly the commission sending letters to the landlords with substandard housing.

Commissioner Joseph Hanley, who chaired the meeting in the absence of Mayor Frank Smith, also noted that James Talbot, director of public works, has sent a letter to the Grand Rapids office of C&O railroad asking them to make improvements on three railroad crossings in the city. The crossings are at Hilltop, Upton drive and at the railroad bridge near Silver beach.

Hanley voiced concern a number of meetings ago about recent train derailments. Talbot is a former railroad engineer, Hepler said.

Also last night:

—The commission referred a lot split request from Karl Gersonde to the planning commission. The lot is just south of Gersonde's bowling alley on Cleveland avenue, according to Hepler.

—Hanley proclaimed Aug. 4 U.S. Coast Guard day in the city in recognition of the guard's 100th anniversary.

Goldblatt's Remodeling, Expanding Plaza Store

"Goldblatt's is completely remodeling its Fairplain Plaza store and providing an additional 10,000 square feet of selling space," announced Stanford J. Goldblatt, president and chief executive officer of the 46-store Midwest department store chain, headquarters in Chicago.

The extensive remodeling program is scheduled for completion in late August. A special grand opening program of activities is planned for Saturday, Sept. 11, including free gifts, entertainment and ribbon-cutting ceremonies.

"Although the entire store will be remodeled, there will be extraordinary emphasis, enlargement and modernization in the women's men's and children's fashion departments," Goldblatt said. "Also completely remodeled will be a coordinated area featuring fashions for the home. This will include the most up-to-date linen and domestic departments, gourmet cookware, and an extensive floor covering department, including a broad selection of fine area rugs."

Existing space will be restructured to provide additional selling area from present utility and stock space. Expansion of many key departments and the addition of new departments are included in the firm's extensive plans.

"Goldblatt's has been successful in Fairplain Plaza from the day we opened back in 1963," Goldblatt said.

"The entire Goldblatt's organization is proud to bring to Berrien county a most outstanding fashion headquarters," he concluded. "We are very happy to realize our plans and are grateful to our store manager, James Hiert, and his dedicated staff of employees all of whom are from the Berrien county community. Many of them have been with us from the day we opened and are well known by our customers."

Retired Bendix Exec Dies In Atlantic Boat Mishap

A retired South Bend executive, formerly of Bendix Harbor, was found dead in a lifeboat last Thursday in the Atlantic Ocean after a sailing accident in the vicinity of the Bermuda Triangle.

Edward J. Martin, 63, of 1408 North Iowa street, retired director of factory accounts for The Bendix Corp., South Bend, was in a lifeboat also occupied by a friend who survived the ordeal.

Martin and the friend set sail about July 14 from Grand Bahama Island heading for West Palm Beach, Fla., aboard Mr. Martin's sailboat, the Wind Jammer II.

Details of the incident won't be known until the survivor, Rodney Waite, 51, of Columbus, Ohio, recovers from exposure to the elements and can be interviewed. He is currently in a Chester, Pa., hospital.

A relative of Martin's has received word that death was caused by drowning.

The small lifeboat was picked up off the coast of North Carolina, 500 miles north of the men's destination, by the crew of a Liberian tanker. The ship docked near Philadelphia and Waite was taken to the hospital.

Authorities were continuing to search for the 35-foot sailboat, which may have sunk. Martin had reportedly planned to spend a good portion of the next two years sailing in the Bermuda region.

The Bermuda Triangle of the ocean is the scene of unexplained disappearances of ships and aircraft.

Mr. Martin was born in Benton Harbor and worked here with an accounting firm before moving to South Bend about 33 years ago. He retired from Bendix in South Bend last January.

Surviving are his widow, Helen; a daughter, Miss Marilyn Martin, at home; two sons, Edward, East Lansing, and Donald, Denver, Colo.; a sister, Mrs. James M. Warner, St. Joseph, and a brother, Francis B. Martin, East Lansing.

A funeral mass will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Thursday in St. John's Catholic church, South Bend. Burial will be in South Bend.

The rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Weisheimer funeral home, 521 North Williams, South Bend.

Memorials may be made to St. Vincent DePaul Society, St. John's Catholic church, Benton Harbor or to St. John's Catholic church, South Bend.

Thirteen Local Firms Complain Of Ad Plan

Thirteen businesses in the Twin City area have filed complaints with the Berrien prosecutor's office alleging they paid for an advertising promotion that hasn't been delivered.

Two men have been arrested on one charge in connection with the promotion, according to Asst. Prosecutor Quinton Fulkner.

Timothy G. Welsh, 47, South Bend, Ind., and Ralph P. Ralston Jr., 44, of 111 North street, Dowagiac, demanded examinations when arraigned last week in Berrien Fifth District court on charges of obtaining money over $100 under false pretenses from Turner Furniture warehouse, 2320 Plaza drive, Benton township.

They were released on bonds pending preliminary examinations scheduled July 28 in District court.

Trooper James Bos of the Benton Harbor state police post reported that beginning in March two men solicited area businesses for advertising to be printed on the back of cash register tapes, according to Bos.

Bos said Turner Furniture paid the men $119 in advance, and other businesses paid similar amounts. When the tapes allegedly were not delivered after an almost two-month delay, some of the businesses called police, Bos said.

Bos said other businesses listed in complaints are:

Aide Of Ex-Mayor Still Drawing Pay

Benton Harbor City Manager James Peeples, Jr., said last night city payments of about $345 a week to Mrs. Donna Cooke can't be halted unless the city commission raises a quorum to act on it.

Former City Commissioner Carl Brown last night questioned the authority under which Mrs. Cooke, legislative coordinator for the mayor-commission office, is receiving "compensatory payments" from the city.

"It appears to be a clear violation of the city charter," Brown told commissioners last night. "It should have been approved by both the city commission and the mayor."

According to city hall records, the payment for more than 1,250 hours Mrs. Cooke claims she has accumulated in overtime, sick pay and vacation time was authorized by former Mayor Charles Joseph in a letter dated May 17 — the day before Joseph and three city commissioners were recalled from office by city voters.

Brown questioned last night whether Joseph had the right to sign the order for Mrs. Cooke's compensatory time, saying, under the city charter, Joseph was not a "department head" and thus, did not have the authority to grant the compensatory payment under the city's wage and compensation plan.

Peeples said last night that Mrs. Cooke has continued to receive the compensatory payments since the May 17 order and, to his knowledge, has not worked at city hall since that time.

City hall records show Mrs. Cooke submitted documentation of her hours which claimed she had accumulated 1,255 hours in overtime, sick pay and vacation time over the three years she worked for the mayor-commission office.

Mrs. Cooke originally was hired by the city commission for the mayor-commission office. A commission resolution of Oct. 24, 1974, then put her "under the guidance of the mayor." She is not under civil service or accountable to the city manager, according to Peeples.

Three Hurt In Two Smashups

Three people sustained apparently minor injuries Monday in a car-bicycle collision and a three-car accident reported to Berrien sheriff's deputies and Benton township police.

Released after treatment at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, was Jose Frankie Hernandez, 18, of 1236 Naomi road, Sodas, who was struck while riding his bicycle on Naomi road west of Pipestone road, Sodas township. Deputies identified the driver of the car as James Rodgers Peck, 29, of 3101 River road, Sodas, who was unhurt. Deputies said no tickets were issued in the collision shortly after noon.

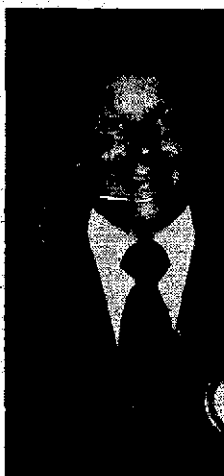

Benton township police said the three-car collision occurred about 11:30 p.m. at the intersection of Crystal avenue and Council drive. Injured drivers were Dianna Joyce Sturgeon, 27, of 1855 Merrimac road, Benton township, who sought her own treatment, and Stephen Anthony Parker, 22, of 1946 East Britain avenue, Benton township. He was released after treatment at Mercy hospital. The third driver was identified as Herman Orville Kent, 46, of 3036 Theresa drive, Stevensville. He was unhurt and police said no citations were issued.

Mrs. Cooke claims as compensatory time will extend another six months and will cost the city an additional $5,880.

"It's a question over who has the power and authority to grant the payment," Eaman said last night. "It's a question that will have to be decided when the commission can meet again."

Only three commissioners — Eaman, Arnold Bolin and Alfred Williams — appeared at the commission meeting last night and the meeting was again adjourned for lack of a quorum. Absent were Commissioners Helen Ford and Charles Yarbrough.

The city commission has not been able to conduct business since the May recall election because all five remaining commissioners required for a legal quorum have not all attended one meeting. Only one scheduled commission meeting remains before the Aug. 3 election in which three commissioners and a mayor will be chosen to fill the four recalled commission seats.

Cutting Torch Blamed For Old Grocery Fire

Benton Harbor firemen Tuesday extinguished a fire in second-story window sills at the former Angelo's grocery store, 282 Territorial road, which is in the process of being torn down. Firemen said the 10:30 p.m. blaze was believed to have been started by workmen using cutting torches earlier in the day. The fire apparently smoldered for sometime before flaming up, firemen reported.

Road Job, Lawsuit On Agenda In SJ

St. Joseph city commissioners last night passed the first of three readings of a resolution for the widening of Cleveland avenue and learned the city is being sued over its restrictions on billboards.

The construction project on Cleveland will be from Lake Shore drive to Hilltop road and will include widening, curb and gutter work.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said a public hearing on the project will be held in three weeks, after which a second reading of the resolution will be acted upon.

A third reading of the resolution will be held three weeks after the public hearing. The project will require setting up a special tax assessment roll for residents who live along that section of Cleveland to pay for part of the project. The city will pay for the rest, Hepler said.

Hepler said there is presently no cost estimate on the project. Cleveland is scheduled to be widened from its present 20 feet to 28 feet. Hepler said if all goes well work on the project could begin this fall.

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr. told the commission a suit was filed in Berrien circuit court yesterday by Central Advertising of Lansing against the city's sign code on nemstruction of billboards.

The Lansing firm contends the amendments are too restrictive.

The signs would be two sizes, 300 square feet and 750 square feet, according to Preston.

The suit was filed in the court of Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns who said he denied a temporary restraining order sought by the firm against the city but did grant a hearing to be scheduled on why an injunction shouldn't be issued.

Byrns said the advertising company actually seeks one of two actions — a writ of mandamus requiring the city to grant a permit for signs or an injunction prohibiting the city from denying permits for the signs.

Byrns said the company contends the sign code restrictions are a violation of constitutional rights to property.

Preston said to his knowledge there are three billboards presently in the city all put before the ordinance was passed.

Old St. Joseph Documents Have Stories To Tell

Michigan Was Territory Then

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of three articles about the history of St. Joseph based on original documents owned by Ronald Rutz of Warren, a former St. Joseph resident.

By SAN DEE WALLACE
Staff Writer

One hundred and 42 years ago the founding fathers of St. Joseph gathered to write an Act to Incorporate the Village of St. Joseph.

The founding fathers of the community have passed into history, but their names remain well-known.

The act to incorporate the Village of St. Joseph became the first government of the town and became effective even before Michigan was a state.

The act is dated as approved, March 7, 1834.

When the act was approved, Michigan was still a territory ruled by a Legislative Council.

An amendment was added to the act in 1836 and the act and the amendment were registered by Michigan's first Secretary of State, Kintzing Prichette.

The Act to Incorporate the Village and other papers pertaining to early St. Joseph are owned by a former St. Joseph man and reveal a glimpse of life as it was nearly a century and a half ago.

The owner is Ronald Rutz of Warren, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rutz, reside in St. Joseph.

Ronald Rutz says his father found the papers in a cardboard box in the basement of the St. Joseph Savings and Loan building, 301 State street, St. Joseph, when Walter Rutz, a former secretary-treasurer of the association, was in charge of a remodeling project during the 1950s.

The elder Rutz found the papers in the box in the basement vault. Rutz says no one knew why they were there and there was only one envelope in the box. Rather than discard the papers, he took them home to his son who has had them since that time.

The younger Rutz says he is trying to decide what to do with the papers. If a museum were to be started in St. Joseph and if the papers would be preserved, put on display and made available to local residents, Rutz says he would donate the papers to such a project.

He said he has contacted the State Historical Library at Lansing and that officials there have expressed interest because of Prichette's signature. Rutz is a graphic designer for Chrysler Corporation.

The first white settlement at the mouth of the St. Joseph River was in the late 1820s and the place was first known as Saranac.

The name was later changed to Newburyport. Two versions of the name are given in history books. One version says the town was named Newburyport after Newburyport, Mass., and other says the town was named Newberryport after Oliver Newberry of Detroit.

The Act to Incorporate the village also changed the name of the community to St. Joseph.

Many of the bylaws included in the act still could apply today, while others have perhaps, lost their usefulness.

According to the act, an annual meeting was to be held each year with officers to hold office for a period of one year.

Voting was to be by ballot to elect a president, five trustees, marshal and treasurer.

The act gave the officials power to levy taxes and the marshal to collect the taxes.

The act gave the village the power to make bylaws relative to:

— Streets and highways, nuisances, wharves, bridges, fences, mill races, canals and streets.

— Trees, planted for shade, ornament, convenience, public or private, and the fruit of such trees.

— Bread, weight and price; trespass in gardens, walks and buildings, public or private; shooting of firearms; sweeping of chimneys; preserving the village from fire, procuring fire buckets and engines, and burial of the dead.

— Restraining horses, cattle, sheep, swine and geese from going at large in the village, and to inflict penalties for breaches of said bylaws, not to exceed $15 for one offense.

The village was given the sole right of licensing and regulating groceries and alehouses and of licensing and regulating any shows or other public exhibitions.

The village was given the right to regulate the size of bricks, drains and sewers, lumber, firewood and the weighing of hay.

And — the village was to have use of the common jail of Berrien county.

The amendment to the act was approved March 21, 1836.

The act and amendment were registered with the new state of Michigan March 13, 1837. Michigan was admitted as a state Jan. 26, 1837.

The registration of the act stamped with the Michigan seal, was handwritten by Kintzing Prichette, first secretary of state as follows:

"This shall certify that the within and foregoing, are true and faithful copies of the act, entitled, 'An Act to Incorporate the Village of St. Joseph' and the act entitled, 'An Act to Amend an Act Entitled An Act to Incorporate the Village of St. Joseph,' now remaining on file and of record in my office."

When the Michigan Territory was created in 1805, Detroit was designated as the seat of the government. In 1847, a law was passed to locate the state capital at Lansing.

Bicentennial Weekend Planned In Lakeside

LAKESIDE — Three days of Bicentennial activities, sponsored by the Lakeside Association, are scheduled Friday, July 30, through Sunday, Aug. 1.

From 5 to 9 p.m. Friday, the annual ice cream social will be held at the United Methodist church Youth Center, Lakeside. There will be ice cream, cake and beverages for a donation of 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children under 12 and senior citizens.

A hobby show and flea market will be held Saturday in Lakeside Park. In case of rain, the event will be held in the United Methodist Youth Center.

Anyone interested in having a booth may contact Bill Patrick.

Sunday's events will include a Bicentennial hymn sing during the 8:30 a.m. worship service at Lakeside United Methodist church. Music will also be provided by the "Harbor Lights" of New Buffalo.

Also on Sunday, the United Methodist church is sponsoring a home tour from 2 to 5 p.m. Homes will include those of the Allen Harringtons, the Harold Gridleys, the Robert McIntosh and the Thomas Barboes.

Following the tour, refreshments will be served at the church, where there will also be a display of old toys and pioneer family heirlooms.

Tickets are on sale by members of the church. Lakeside centennial books and clins are still available at the Lakeside Post Office, according to Ed Leonard, president of the Lakeside Association.

A special sale of the centennial paperback books will be held during the weekend when they will be offered at half price or $2.50 each.

Fresh Lemonade Still Favorite

There's no drink product on the market today that tastes as good as old-fashioned lemonade made from fresh lemons, says Maryann Beckman, District Food Marketing Agent.

That not-too-surprising fact, plus many others, was uncovered in a small survey conducted by Ada Shinabarger, Grand Rapids District Consumer Marketing Agent.

In her survey she tested taste, cost and quenchability. Since fresh lemons are in peak supply this month and next, cost is low, quality and flavor are there and the quenchability is good, now's the time to get out your lemon squeezer.

When it comes to a drink that really quenches thirst best, the drink is water, for the primary requirement for quenchability is high water content. Thus, 100 per cent water is the most thirst quenching. Club soda rates next in quenchability. Mixing another beverage with the club soda may improve the flavor, but it also lowers its ability to quench thirst.

Sweet drinks are not as thirst-quenching as non-sweet drinks. This is why diet drinks generally have more quenchability than regular drinks. Tartness is a factor too (which makes homemade lemonade shine). A tart lemonade is a better thirst quencher than some of the sweeter lemonade mixes or sweet soda, even though they have about the same amount of sugar (12 per cent) and water (88 per cent).

Beer contains more water than milk, lemonade and non-diet colas. However, diet drinks, coffee and iced tea contain more water than beer. A beer, though, may not quench your thirst as well as other drinks containing less water, because beer contains alcohol, which has a dehydrating effect.

Drink mixes may also be good thirst-quenchers. When you check the nutrition labeling information on drink mixes, you'll also find that most of them contain sugar and/or non-nutritional sweeteners. Aside from the calories, sweetness and flavor, the most you can expect is 10 to 15 per cent of the daily vitamin C requirement from a glass of any of them. Therefore, shoppers may as well buy the one they like best and the one that costs the least.

If you've purchased a canister of some product and found it too sweet, and/or lacking in flavor, don't throw it away or give up on it completely. Add a little fresh lemon juice. The added fresh lemon juice dramatically improves the flavor of some of the more "watery-sweetish-tasting" products.

If you don't have a lot of fresh lemons on hand to hand-squeeze your own lemonade, you might be interested in the new frozen lemon juice that's now appearing in local markets. The plastic bottle of frozen lemon juice is 100 per cent pure lemon juice with no preservatives added. Package directions say it will keep 12 weeks in your refrigerator once thawed.

Besides making lemonade, of course, the pure lemon juice can be used to add additional flavor to other dishes and taste treats. When it comes to quenchability, there's another fact that needs to be considered. Most Americans think a drink must be ice cold to quench their thirst, but this is purely a matter of habit and culture, says retired Extension foods and nutrition specialist, Dr. Portia Morris. Dr. Morris says temperature of a beverage has nothing to do with its thirst-quenching properties. So pick the drinks that are the best quencher and then drink them hot, lukewarm or cold for best quenchability.

Production Curbs Prices

In 1950, there were more than twice as many farmers and ranchers than there are today.

But farm production in terms of bushels per acre and livestock per man-hour of labor is running at more than twice the level of 1950. The dramatic increase in productivity by farmers and ranchers has helped curb increases in food prices.

A willingness to use new and better techniques for production, investments in large, more efficient equipment and continual improvement in the quality of livestock and crops are the major reasons for the surge in agricultural productivity.

Construct Portable Benches

Portable benches that will look handsome and fit anywhere in the yard are easy to construct and easy to store when not in use.

The bench seat is made of three eight-foot two-by-sixes in any easy-to-work species, such as fir, hemlock, pine or cedar.

The two-by-sixes are spaced an inch apart and nailed to two pairs of two-by-four crosspieces 15 inches long. Between each pair is an eight-inch long one-by-two that fits in the slot between two concrete blocks standing on end.

The H-shapes formed by the two-by-fours and the one-by-twos fit around the blocks and hold the bench top securely in place.

The benches are easily moved from place to place in the yard and can be stored in the winter. Or the blocks can be set in the ground or patio for permanent use.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

HEALTH TIPS FOR A GOOD VACATION
Many a vacation trip has been ruined because some simple advance precautions were overlooked. Here are a few tips that will help avoid possible problems.

1. If you wear glasses or contact lens, carry an extra pair of set.
2. If you take regular medication, be sure you have enough to last the entire trip.
3. Get vaccinations early so you can minimize the chance of suffering a reaction when you are away.
4. If you have allergies, check the climate you can expect to encounter.
5. Try to come back a day early, don't rush home at the last minute and then rush off to work.

Old St. Joseph Documents Have Stories To Tell

ACT OF INCORPORATION: Ronald Rutz of Warren looks at the "Act to Incorporate the Village of St. Joseph," which is dated as approved March 7, 1834.

The act is one of several documents owned by Rutz which relate to early St. Joseph. (Staff photo)

Michigan Was Territory Then

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of three articles about the history of St. Joseph based on original documents owned by Ronald Rutz of Warren, a former St. Joseph resident.

By SAN DEE WALLACE
Staff Writer

One hundred and 42 years ago the founding fathers of St. Joseph gathered to write an Act to Incorporate the Village of St. Joseph.

The founding fathers of the community have passed into history, but their names remain well-known.

The act to incorporate the Village of St. Joseph became the first government of the town and became effective even before Michigan was a state.

The act is dated as approved, March 7, 1834.

When the act was approved, Michigan was still a territory ruled by a Legislative Council.

An amendment was added to the act in 1836 and the act and the amendment were registered by Michigan's first Secretary of State, Kintzing Prichette.

The Act to Incorporate the Village and other papers pertaining to early St. Joseph are owned by a former St. Joseph man and reveal a glimpse of life as it was nearly a century and a half ago.

The owner is Ronald Rutz of Warren, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rutz, reside in St. Joseph.

Ronald Rutz says his father found the papers in a cardboard box in the basement of the St. Joseph Savings and Loan Building, 301 State street, St. Joseph, when Walter Rutz, a former secretary-treasurer of the association, was in charge of a remodeling project during the 1950s.

The elder Rutz found the papers in the box in the basement vault. Rutz says no one knew why they were there and there was only one envelope in the box. Rather than discard the papers, he took them home to his son who has had them since that time.

The younger Rutz says he is trying to decide what to do with the papers. If a museum were to be started in St. Joseph and if the papers would be preserved, put on display and made available to local residents, Rutz says he would donate the papers to such a project.

He said he has contacted the State Historical Library at Lansing and that officials there have expressed interest because of Prichette's signature. Rutz is a graphic designer for Chrysler Corporation.

The first white settlement at the mouth of the St. Joseph River was in the late 1820s and the place was first known as Saranac.

The name was later changed to Newburyport. Two versions of the name are given in history books. One version says the town was named Newburyport after Newburyport, Mass., and other says the town was named Newberryport after Oliver Newberry of Detroit.

The Act to Incorporate the village also changed the name of the community to St. Joseph.

Many of the bylaws included in the act still could apply today, while others have perhaps, lost their usefulness.

According to the act, an annual meeting was to be held each year with officers to hold office for a period of one year.

Voting was to be by ballot to elect a president, five trustees, marshal and treasurer.

The act gave the officials power to levy taxes and the marshal to collect the taxes.

The act gave the village the power to make bylaws relative to:

— Streets and highways, nuisances, wharves, bridges, fences, mill races, canals and streets.

— Trees, planted for shade, ornament, convenience, public or private, and the fruit of such trees.

— Bread, weight and price; trespass in gardens, walks and buildings, public or private; shooting of firearms; sweeping of chimneys; preserving the village from fire, procuring fire buckets and engines, and burial of the dead.

— Restraining horses, cattle, sheep, swine and geese from going at large in the village, and to inflict penalties for breeches of said bylaws, not to exceed $15 for one offense.

The village was given the sole right of licensing and regulating groceries and alehouses and of licensing and regulating any shows or other public exhibitions.

The village was given the right to regulate the size of bricks, drains and sewers, lumber, firewood and the weighing of hay.

And — the village was to have use of the common jail of Berrien county.

The amendment to the act was approved March 21, 1836.

The act and amendment were registered with the new state of Michigan March 13, 1837. Michigan was admitted as a state Jan. 26, 1837.

The registration of the act stamped with the Michigan seal, was handwritten by Kintzing Prichette, first secretary of state as follows:

"This shall certify that the within and foregoing are true and faithful copies of the act, entitled, 'An Act to Incorporate the Village of St. Joseph' and the act entitled, 'An Act to Amend an Act Entitled An Act to Incorporate the Village of St. Joseph,' now remaining on file and of record in my office."

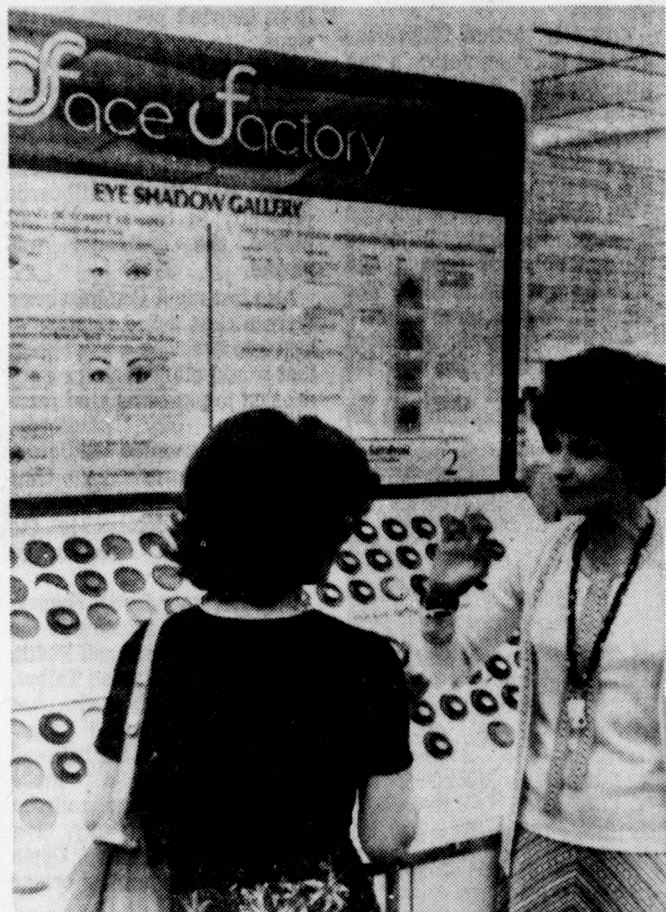

"The testimony whereof have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Great Seal of the State done at the City of Detroit this thirteenth day of March in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty seven and of the Independence of the United States the sixty-first."

When the Michigan Territory was created in 1805, Detroit was designated as the seat of the government. In 1847, a law was passed to locate the state capital at Lansing.

Anyone having knowledge of class members who have not been informed of the reunion is asked to contact Jim Morlock, Coloma; Bill Stowers, Coloma; or Mrs. Tom (Val Page) Bury, Hartford.

Theatres Feature Musicals

Also Offer Comedies

HOPE THEATRE

The dashing and funny musical "Dames at Sea" opens Friday, July 30, at the air-conditioned DeWitt Cultural Center as the third entry into the repertory for the Hope Summer Theatre.

Continuing their runs on alternate evenings are "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Arsenic and Old Lace." The entry of "Dames at Sea" marks the first time that Hope has offered two musicals. In addition, the theatre's Children's Performance Troupe is presenting a musical version of "Tom Sawyer" on Saturdays.

"Dames at Sea," with its 16 songs and tap-dance production numbers, has been the delight of drama critics since its opening in New York in 1968. The musical recaptures innocent happy moments from the Hollywood-Busby Berkeley-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell musical extravaganza of the 30s.

"Dames at Sea" has all the character elements needed to put together the typical on-again-off-again love plots embedded in Hollywood musicals of the 1930s.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

CANTERBURY: Bob Tetrick and Tess Balingit appear as Lt. Cable and Liat in the Canterbury Summer Theatre production of "South Pacific." The show will be presented at the Michigan City, Ind., theatre through Saturday, July 31.

Prince version. Originally produced on Broadway in 1956, with a musical score by Leonard Bernstein, the book was shaped by Lillian Hellman. The show closed after a relatively short run in 1973, Harold Prince re-worked the show with a new book by Hugo Wheeler and the result was a hit winning five Tony awards, the Outer Monday through Friday.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" will be presented tonight and Thursday, July 29; "Fiddler on the Roof" will be presented Wednesday, July 28, and "Dames at Sea," will be presented Friday and Saturday, July 30 and 31 and Aug. 1.

CANTERBURY

Canterbury Theatre in Michigan City, Ind., is currently presenting the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "South Pacific."

The show will be presented tonight through Saturday, July 31.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday. All times are Central Daylight Savings Time.

A dinner theatre package is available through the Canterbury Inn. Students and senior citizens may receive a discount Tuesday through Thursday.

BARN THEATRE

The musical, "Candide," with a brilliant score by Leonard Bernstein and a story that dates back to Voltaire's classic tale of an innocent abroad in a wicked world, opens tonight at the Barn theatre, Augusta.

The show will be presented through Aug. 8. Curtain times are 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, 7 and 9:45 p.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Sunday.

The Barn's production of "Candide" will be the Harold

Critics award and the New York Drama Critics award as best musical of 1974.

Following "Candide," and opening Tuesday, Aug. 10, will be Frank Loesser's hit, "Guys and Dolls." Newly added to the schedule by producer Jack Ragotz, "Guys and Dolls" will play for two weeks through Aug. 22.

SISTER LAKES

"Under Papa's Picture" (That's Where Mama Did It) opens Wednesday, July 28, at Sister Lakes Playhouse, Sister Lakes, and will run through Sunday, Aug. 1.

Curtain times for the adult comedy are 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. A reserved seat policy is available and special prices are available for senior citizens on Wednesday nights.

The plot concerns a stuffy and conservative young businessman, married and with one child, who works for a stuffy and conservative company. Just before he closes an important business deal, his widowed mother unexpectedly shows up — unexpectedly expectant — and without benefit of clergy.

In a frantic attempt to hide the situation in order to preserve his corporate image, the young businessman invites the father-to-be, a wild Italian artist, to his home in an attempt to persuade him to marry the mother. In the midst of the confusion, the boss shows up just as mama goes into labor, and the painter prepares to deliver it himself.

Cast as the mother is Linda Kennedy Nemitz. Mike Lampl of Benton Harbor is the son and Bob Cooper Jr., is the Italian artist. John F. Scott is the director.

are being presented each week at the Tin Tree Theatre in New Buffalo.

The "The Sound of Music" is presented each Wednesday at 2:30 and 8:45 p.m.

"Oklahoma" and "Carousel" play each weekend alternating days Thursday through Sunday. Curtain time is 8:45 p.m.

This week "Oklahoma" will be presented Thursday and Friday and "Carousel" is planned Saturday and Sunday.

SCOTT'S

"South Pacific" is being presented each Friday and Saturday night at Scott's Dinner Playhouse, New Buffalo, through Saturday, Aug. 14. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Featured in the lead roles are Tanya Chipman and Robert Sill. The next production will be "The King and I" which opens Friday, Aug. 6, and will continue for six weeks.

DUNES THEATRE

Third presentation of the season at the Dunes Summer Theatre, Michiana Shores, is the comedy-farce, "Scapino," which will play Wednesday through Saturday, July 28-31. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. (CDST)

"Scapino" is comic madness, based on the Moliere delight and was first staged at the Young Vic in London.

CHERRY COUNTY

Pat Paulsen will star in "Norman Is That You" at the Cherry County Playhouse, Traverse City, tonight through Aug. 1.

Written by Ron Clark and Sam Bobrick, "Norman Is That You" is a mature comedy in which Paulsen plays a drycleaning man from Dayton, Ohio, who is jolted by an encounter with Manhattan's mod mores when he pays a surprise visit to his son.

His attempt to straighten things out results in confusion and farce.

Paulsen, who is the producer of Cherry County Playhouse, is well known for his "non-campaigns" for President.

Curtain times are Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 6 and 9:45 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. There is a 2 p.m. matinee Thursday.

Theatres Feature Musicals

Also Offer Comedies

HOPE THEATRE

The dashing and funny musical "Dames at Sea" opens Friday, July 30, at the air-conditioned DeWitt Cultural Center as the third entry into the repertoire for the Hope Summer Theatre.

Continuing their runs on alternate evenings are "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Arsenic and Old Lace." The entry of "Dames at Sea" marks the first time that Hope has offered two musicals. In addition, the theatre's Children's Performance Troupe is presenting a musical version of "Tom Sawyer" on Saturdays.

"Dames at Sea," with its 16 songs and tap-dance production numbers, has been the delight of drama critics since its opening in New York in 1968. The musical recaptures innocent happy moments from the Hollywood-Busby Berkeley-Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell musical extravaganzas of the 30s.

"Dames at Sea" has all the character elements needed to put together the typical on-again-off-again love plots embedded in Hollywood musicals of the 1930s.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

CANTERBURY: Bob Tetirick and Tess Balingit appear as Lt. Cable and Liat in the Canterbury Summer Theatre production of "South Pacific." The show will be presented at the Michigan City, Ind., theatre through Saturday, July 31.

CANDIDE: Tom Wopat and Lisby Larson appear as Candide and Cuneyonde in the Barn Theatre's production of "Candide." The show will be presented at the Augusta theatre through Sunday, Aug. 8.

Prince version. Originally produced on Broadway in 1956, with a musical score by Leonard Bernstein, the book was shaped by Lillian Hellman. The show closed after a relatively short run in 1973, Harold Prince re-worked the show with a new book by Hugo Wheeler and the result was a hit winning five Tony awards, the Outer Monday through Friday.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" will be presented tonight and Thursday, July 29; "Fiddler on the Roof" will be presented Wednesday, July 28, and "Dames at Sea" will be presented Friday and Saturday, July 30 and 31 and Aug. 1.

Critics award and the New York Drama Critics award as best musical of 1974.

Following "Candide," and opening Tuesday, Aug. 10, will be Frank Loesser's hit, "Guys and Dolls." Newly added to the schedule by producer Jack Ragotzy, "Guys and Dolls" will play for two weeks through Aug. 22.

SISTER LAKES

"Under Papa's Picture" (That's Where Mama Did It) opens Wednesday, July 28, at Sister Lakes Playhouse, Sister Lakes, and will run through Sunday, Aug. 1.

Curtain times for the adult comedy are 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. A reserved seat policy is available and special prices are available for senior citizens on Wednesday nights.

The plot concerns a stuffy and conservative young businessman, married and with one child, who works for a stuffy and conservative company. Just before he closes an important business deal, his widowed mother unexpectedly shows up unexpectedly expectant — and without benefit of clergy.

In a frantic attempt to hide the situation in order to preserve his corporate image, the young businessman invites the father-to-be, a wild Italian artist, to his home in an attempt to persuade him to marry the mother. In the midst of the confusion, the boss shows up just as mama goes into labor, and the painter prepares to deliver it himself.

Cast as the mother is Linda Kennedy Nemitz. Mike Lampl of Benton Harbor is the son and Bob Cooper Jr., is the Italian artist. John F. Scott is the director.

BARN THEATRE

The musical, "Candide," with a brilliant score by Leonard Bernstein and a story that dates back to Voltaire's classic tale of an innocent abroad in a wicked world, opens tonight at the Barn theatre, Augusta.

The show will be presented through Aug. 8. Curtain times are 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, 7 and 9:45 p.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Sunday.

The Barn's production of "Candide" will be the Harold

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Messed Up Kids To Blame Too

Dear Ann Landers: What wisdom, consolation or advice can you give parents in their 40s who have worked hard to achieve the American dream, loved their kids and tried to give them the best world ever? We are also the unhappiest.

Many of our children are on drugs, unemployed drop-outs, migrants, drifters, angry with the world, hostile toward us and out-of-joint with society.

How much and for how long should parents pay, in terms of self-recrimination, worry, disappointment and financial support? How can we enjoy the years that are left to us now that we have more money, fewer business pressures and are still in fairly good health?

It's heart-breaking to see our kids maladjusted, disoriented and unable to cope. We can't help but feel we are to blame. After all, they are our sons and daughters. We raised them. Where is the cutoff line? Do you have any answers? — Meant Well Parents

Dear Meant Well: To you and the thousands of other parents who are miserable because of "what you have done" to your children, I say this: Stop beating yourselves. You did the best you could with the tools at hand — inexperience, clay feet, the works. No one knows why some children turn out to be champions in spite of parents who provided precious little emotional nourishment, while other kids — loved, wanted, tenderly nurtured, with all the so-called advantages — turn out perverse, estranged, and unable to cope.

ANN LANDERS

harsh blows and emerge the stronger for it. Others crumble in the face of minor adversity. The same fire that melts butter can make steel strong.

And let us not overlook personal responsibility. I am sick of hearing children blame their parents for their messed-up lives. People with all sorts of handicaps can and do make it in this demanding and competitive world.

For those who are hooked on dope, there are drug abuse centers with trained personnel, eager and waiting to help. For individuals who need professional counseling, there are mental health clinics. The self-help groups do a remarkable job — and they are free. Alcoholics Anonymous, Gamblers Anonymous, Recovery, Inc. The list is endless.

Enough of this "You damaged me, now take care of me" nonsense. It's a cop-out. Parental guilt laid on by our kids is so thick you can cut it with a knife. It serves no purpose except to perpetuate financial and emotional dependence and create a climate of hostility, punishment and ultimate failure. God helps those who help themselves.

CONFIDENTIAL to The Best Is Yet to Come? Well, maybe it came and you were out. Success is that point in life at which opportunity and preparation meet. The reason some people don't recognize opportunity is because it often comes disguised as hard work.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

GLIDDENBURG LADIES AID 84th Anniversary

DESCENDANTS: Five members of the Gliddenburg Ladies Aid Society, currently celebrating its 84th anniversary, are direct descendants of original members. Four of the members are, from left, Mrs. John (Verna) Holland, Mrs. Fred (Grace) Schallhorn, Mrs. Leonard (Bernadette) Lanphear and Mrs. Glen (Winifred) Holland. LAWRENCE — The Gliddenburg Ladies Aid Society will celebrate its 84th anniversary with its annual homecoming picnic Sunday, Aug. 1.

The potluck picnic will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lanphear.

A group of literary minded women in the community of Gliddenburg organized in 1892 under the leadership of Mrs. Jennie Buskirk for the purpose of cultural advancement.

Twenty-six women met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Sheldon on April 6, 1892, and began to raise funds for the work of the church. At the following meeting the membership rose to 33.

During the first three months of their existence, the members had raised $18 by piecing quilts and sewing many pounds of carpet rags.

In addition to helping with the minister's salary, financial assistance was given the Sunday school and people in need. One-tenth of the earnings were donated to missions.

Money raised by making quilts is now donated to the Rural Bible camp in Kalamazoo, Van Buren county Association for Retarded Children school in Bangor, Cancer Society, Crippled Children's Society, March of Dimes and Unit 1 at Lake View Community hospital at Paw Paw.

The society has a current membership of 26 including five direct descendants of original members. The descendants include Mrs. John (Verna) Holland, Mrs. Fred (Grace) Schallhorn, Mrs. Leonard (Bernadette) Lanphear, Mrs. Glen (Winifred) Holland and Mrs. Earl (Ethel) Thomas.

For its Bicentennial project, the society made a quilt showing each member's family tree, including all names. The project was under the direction of Mrs. Roy Moore with all members participating. Mrs. Leonard Lanphear is current president of the society.

MRS. ROY MOORE Initiated Project

What is your opinion on ear piercing? I read in the American Indian book, "History, Manners and Customs of the Indian Nations," that Indians stopped piercing their ears because it stopped blood circulation to the lower face and when frostbite occurred the face would drop off. — Mr. H. C., Pa.

Dear Mr. C.: Had there been any truth to this myth many distortions of the ear lobe would have been visible to all of us.

I have never seen this anatomical disfigurement.

There is no way that piercing of the ear can interfere with the blood circulation unless a severe infection occurred as a result of piercing.

I do have special feelings about ear piercing. I do not believe that lay people who perform this procedure, (and I might say that many do this very well) should be permitted to pierce the ears of a young child without the specific written consent the parent or guardian.

Eggs are my favorite food. I don't feel satisfied unless I have two or more every day. Isn't there any egg-eating diet that can be used to lose weight? — Mr. J.F., Wash.

Mr. F.: You are trying to find some way to substantiate a fundamental error in your diet.

What is your opinion on ear piercing? I read in the American Indian book, "History, Manners and Customs of the Indian Nations," that Indians stopped piercing their ears because it stopped blood circulation to the lower lobe and when frostbite occurred the lobe would drop off. — Mr. H. C., Pa. Dear Mr. C.:

Had there been any truth to this myth many distortions of the ear lobe would have been visible to all of us.

I have never seen this anatomical disfigurement.

There is no way that piercing of the ear can interfere with the blood circulation unless a severe infection occurred as a result of piercing.

I do have special feelings about ear piercing. I do not believe that lay people who perform this procedure, (and I might say that many do this very well) should be permitted to pierce the ears of a young child without the specific written consent the parent or guardian.

Eggs are my favorite food. I don't feel satisfied unless I have two or more every day. Isn't there any egg-eating diet that can be used to lose weight? — Mr. J.F., Wash. Mr. F.:

You are trying to find some way to substantiate a fundamental error in your diet.

To begin with, it is acknowledged that eggs present a special problem that must be considered important. Their high cholesterol content increases the cholesterol level in the blood thus plays an important role in the development of atherosclerotic changes in the blood vessels.

In addition to the basic error in your diet, you are seeking to increase the egg intake as a means of losing weight. It is true that eggs by themselves are not particularly high in calories, but with the bread, butter, bacon or ham that usually accompany egg dishes, the total caloric intake can be enormous.

My suggestion is that you limit your egg intake to two or four a week and that you find a much more sensible dietary regime weight control.

Is there any danger in giving children booster shots during summer months? — Mrs. E. L., N.C. Mrs. L.:

Prior to the discovery and use of the Salk polio vaccine booster shots were not generally given during the summer months.

Today, pediatricians and family physicians are not hesitant about doing so. The only time there may be some restriction is following a severe cold, or when recovering from some other illness.

Senate Candidate Elsmann Is 'Nonpolitician'

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Bespectacled, serious-looking James Leonard Elsmann is an unorthodox U.S. Senate campaigner, even for a self-styled "non-politician."

Unlike those he chides as "professional politicians," the balding 39-year-old Birmingham attorney is paying all his own expenses in his campaign for the Senate seat being vacated by Democrat Philip Hart.

Elsmann says the Democratic primary election race will cost him about $16,500. He says he has returned between $1,000 and $2,000 in unsolicited donations. Spurning an expensive television-radio campaign as "brain-washing," his main campaign tactic has been to deluge news agencies with press releases and to make as many appearances as possible on broadcast news and discussion shows.

In this way, he helped generate what for a time was the only visible issue of the campaign: the decades-old fee branch manager system in the office of the Michigan secretary of state, currently held by Richard Austin, Democratic frontrunner in the Senate race.

Publicity forced Austin to abolish the patronage system, even though the two other Democratic candidates — Congressmen Donald Riegle and James O'Hara — took a hands-off position, fearful of possibly hurting the party's chances against a Republican in November.

If polls are any indication, however, Elsmann isn't in line to capture the Democratic nomination in the Aug. 3 primary. The latest Detroit News survey gives him about one per cent of the vote.

Elsmann first tried for the Senate in 1966, when he was only 29. But he failed to collect the required 19,300 nominating petition signatures, and the Supreme Court turned down his request to order his name placed on the ballot.

He ran into a similar snag running in 1970 for the Democratic congressional nomination in western Oakland County.

As further evidence of his unorthodoxy, Elsmann was arrested by Troy Police July 22 for violating a city sign ordinance by refusing to remove a red, white and blue campaign sign from a vacant lot he owns.

The city claims it allows such signs only on industrial property, but Elsmann said the city breached his right of free speech. He pleaded innocent and posted a $100 bond. Trial was set for two days after the election and the sign will remain up until then.

Elsmann, whose wife Janice is a lobbyist for Michigan Common Cause, has proposed a "public lying statute" with a penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The law would bar elected or appointed public officials from "making a representation of fact which he knows to be untrue to the American public with the intent to deceive on a substantial issue."

Elsmann claims he is not a politician, defining the term as "somebody who seeks public office for a financially enhancing and ego-rewarding career." He says since he can make more money as a lawyer than as a politician, he will not have to concentrate on salvaging a political career.

"Our system does not attract Washingtons and Jeffersons anymore in the sense of men who make a financial sacrifice for public duty. It attracts drain commissioners," he says.

Other main issues Elsmann sees in the campaign:

GOVERNMENT SPENDING — "I would cut all budget items 10 per cent. I'm particularly concerned with defense and welfare. I'll just let the bureaucrats scream. We have a $70 billion deficit. I would want to eliminate that and run the government like I run my household. Riegle, O'Hara and Austin talk about national health care that costs $100 billion. I ask where are you guys going to get the money and they can't answer."

BUSING — "I am the only Democrat (in the campaign) to favor a constitutional amendment to stop forced busing."

ABORTION — "I favor a constitutional amendment to stop abortion on demand. O'Hara favors a state-by-state determination and Riegle and Austin do not consider it an issue."

Elsmann, a onetime Harvard Divinity School student who is raising his children in his wife's Catholic faith, says he opposes abortion because of "a personal religious belief in the sanctity of life."

FULL EMPLOYMENT — Should be accomplished by tax incentives to private industry rather than through "inflationary" jobs program.

Must Pay Up Any Bad Checks

A Niles man was sentenced Monday in Berrien Circuit court to 10 days in jail for writing a no account check and ordered to make restitution for any other bad checks he may have issued.

Sentenced to two years probation by Judge Chester J. Byrns was Robert L. Warner, Jr., 22, of 1518 North 12th street, who was told to make restitution for the bad check for which he was sentenced and any others for which he was not charged.

Warner on Sept. 24, 1975, wrote a no account check for $25 at Mott's Apple Core, US-31, Niles township.

In arraignments before Byrns:

Ricky G. Welch, 17, of 1350 Norman road, St. Joseph, pleaded innocent to charges of first and second degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly statutory rape and indecent liberties) stemming from an alleged assault on a five-year-old girl March 13 in Benton township.

House Ponders Mine Safety Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is taking up legislation to strip the Interior Department of its authority over mine safety and transfer enforcement powers to the Labor Department.

After 26 men were killed in two explosions in March at the Scotia Coal mine at Owen Fork, Ky., United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said the job of enforcing mine safety laws "should not rest with the same department that is responsible for mineral production."

Motive Of Fatal Run Is Mystery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester M. Plummer Jr., the intruder who was shot and killed by a White House guard, was described by a psychiatrist five months ago as being inclined to act impulsively.

That report was as close as police were able to come Monday to explain why Plummer, after stalking nervously for 45 minutes on the sidewalk outside 1000 Pennsylvania avenue, climbed a White House fence clutching a three-foot lead pipe and dashed toward the executive mansion Sunday night.

A guard dropped Plummer with a single bullet when the husky former high school football standout ignored repeated commands to stop. He died 90 minutes later in a hospital. His car was parked nearby.

There were no notes or other clues to shed light on what triggered Plummer's fatal run. He harbored no known political grievances, and was never involved in any previous intrusion at the White House.

One man who worked with Plummer noted that he refused to stop and commented, "There's a possibility that it was a suicide."

His father, Chester Sr., said he spoke well of President Ford during a Fourth of July celebration with relatives here.

His mother said Chester, one of nine children, was a decorated Army veteran who "had no intention of doing anything to anybody."

But court records spoke of a troubled man who lived on the edge of anger. His father filed, but later dropped, an assault charge against Chester in 1972. The records indicate he used heroin at the time, although he was not known to be an addict. He was checked at a local mental hospital and released.

In February a judge placed him on one-year's probation for the indecent exposure incident, which took place last fall.

Plummer allegedly walked up nude to two women on a city street grabbed one and asked her to perform a sex act. She broke away and later identified Plummer from police mug shots.

Dr. James L. Evans, the psychiatrist who examined him recently, wrote, "There was no indication that he suffered from a mental disorder." He suggested that Plummer's problems grew out of marital anxieties.

Canada Barred Suspect

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) — A young man who is among those being sought in the nationwide hunt for the Chowchilla kidnapers was turned away from the Canadian border four days after the abduction because he was carrying firearms.

James Schoenfeld, 24, who was not a subject of the investigation at the time, tried to cross the border from Washington state at Cascade, B.C., according to Constable Ken Yeager of Grand Forks, B.C.

Yeager said Monday that authorities found a rifle and three handguns in Schoenfeld's car.

Canadian authorities checked to see if Schoenfeld was wanted by American authorities and if the guns and auto were stolen. Yeager said. Then they escorted him back to the U.S. customs office in Laurier, Wash., where he was released.

Yeager said Schoenfeld was traveling alone.

He said Schoenfeld was carrying his own identification cards, plus those belonging to Frederick Newhall Woods IV, the other person sought in the kidnapping, and a Ralph Lester Snyder, 22, a new name in the case.

Yeager said Schoenfeld also carried California and Montana license plates in the beige 1962

Chrysler he was driving. The automobile matched the description of a car Schoenfeld was known to drive.

According to Alameda County, Calif., Sheriff Tom Houchins, Schoenfeld told customs officers he was going to the Olympics.

Schoenfeld and Woods are named in local and federal arrest warrants in connection with the kidnapping. Both are sons of wealthy San Francisco Peninsula families. Schoenfeld's 22-year-old brother, Richard, surrendered to police last Friday.

The school children and their bus driver were abducted at gunpoint July 15 and held captive in a moving van buried in a Livermore rock quarry, 100 miles northwest of Chowchilla. The quarry is owned by the Woods' father.

N-Waste Test Drilling Could Start In October

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A federal spokesman says test drilling in northeast Michigan could start in October to determine whether the site is a good one for a nuclear dump.

But Clayton Zerby said Monday that the federal government has more research to do before the Alpena area could become a dumping ground for radioactive wastes. He said the government also would study other areas of the state.

Zerby and other spokesmen for the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) told the Michigan Environmental Review Board (MERB) they want to study the northeast, northwest and southeast portions of the state as possible locations for a nuclear waste dump.

ERDA officials noted the salt deposits in the "greater Detroit area" have been extensively mapped and mined, but they stopped short of saying the area was under active consideration as a nuclear dumping site.

Zerby, director of the Office of Waste Isolation at ERDA's Oak Ridge, Tenn., facility, said ERDA hopes to begin test core drilling in October in the northeast area.

The area — comprising Presque Isle, Montmorency and Alpena counties, is the only Michigan site where there's already been preliminary research.

Michigan is being considered as a site because of its enormous salt deposits, which scientists feel might make a stable container for nuclear wastes.

Zerby said the administration will comply with state requirements and file an environmental assessment statement to qualify for a drilling permit.

Bill McClain, of the same department, said Michigan's northeast area is the only one that's been researched enough to make core drilling a feasible next step in the research.

He said that the Salina Basin, extending across Pennsylvania and Michigan, contains "one of the greatest salt deposits in the world." Zerby said ERDA will also study sites in Pennsylvania as potential dumps.

ERDA plans to construct six pilot dump sites throughout the country, Zerby said, the first two in salt deposits, the rest in various other rock formations.

The first two facilities will be built by mid-1985, he added.

300 Evacuated From Lebanon

By FARMER NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The U.S. Navy evacuated some 300 Americans and other foreigners from Beirut without a hitch today while President Ford and top Pentagon officials stayed up most of the night in Washington to monitor the operation. The 16,000-ton amphibious transport ship Coronado anchored off Beirut's seaford before dawn, and by 10 a.m. (3 a.m. EDT) all of the evacuees were aboard. The Coronado was to land them in Athens on Thursday. Among those leaving was U.S. Ambassador Takott W. Sweeney, whose departure was a closely guarded secret until the last moment. The embassy said he was going to Washington for consultations and would return to Beirut.

An embassy official said 100 Americans and about 300 others signed up for the evacuation, but closer to 400 — "less than half" of them Americans — showed up this morning. However, to persons watching the departure it looked more like 250 to 300 persons, and the White House said there were about 300.

About 1,000 other American citizens remained in Lebanon despite warnings from the White House and the embassy that it was the last evacuation the U.S. government would organize. Most of those remaining are of Lebanese birth and have dual Lebanese and American citizenship.

President Ford kept abreast of the evacuation in a White House situation room, flanked by senior advisers. He was in telephone contact with Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld and his chief military and civilian advisers at the Pentagon.

Rumsfeld sent Ford's "thanks for a good job" to the Coronado.

"The President wants to congratulate the officers and men of the Sixth Fleet and the officials of the embassy in Beirut for arranging the safe evacuation of Americans and foreign nationals," White House Press Secretary Ron Neusen told reporters in Washington.

"The President also wants to express his gratitude and sincere thanks to all others who gave their cooperation to facilitate this departure."

The latter group included heavily armed soldiers of Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization and leftist Modern Lebanese police who stood guard as the evacuees boarded an unarmed U.S. landing craft at the former military officers' swimming club.

The PLD also guarded the previous U.S. evacuation of 110 Americans and 157 others on June 26. This time, as then, one Palestinian standing on the seawall above the loading dock caused a brief stir by firing several shots into the air. There was no explanation.

UAW Presents Its Economic Blueprint

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers have presented Chrysler Corp. and General Motors with a general economic blueprint, including improved cost-of-living protection and an increase in base wages.

UAW Vice President Doug Fraser admitted Monday the current cost-of-living-adjustment (COLA) formula is "the best that exists in collective bargaining."

But he said auto workers' buying power has not increased as it should have under goals set in the 1973 contract agreements.

"Theoretically, we should be increasing buying power at a rate of three per cent per year, but that hasn't happened over the past (three) years as a result of the imperfections of COLA," Fraser said.

Auto worker wage increases since 1948 have been negotiated on two levels: the Annual Improvement Factor, aimed at increasing real buying power; and the COLA formula, which is supposed to safeguard that buying power.

But since COLA doesn't fully cover the impact of inflation, Fraser said, "We haven't achieved a gain in purchasing power of much more than one per cent" annually since 1973.

The current contract, which expires Sept. 14, called for base increases of three per cent in each of the past three years, and included a COLA formula that boosted wages one cent an hour for every .3 rise in the Consumer Price Index.

Without naming a specific target for this year's bargaining, Fraser said the union wants the .3 figure in the COLA formula "moved down considerably."

Amoco Won't Post Bond On Gas Well

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A decision whether to open an Amoco natural gas well near Williamsburg has reached a "stalemate," company attorneys say.

The plant has been closed since 1973 when a blowout forced 88 families to evacuate their nearby homes. State officials say something must be done about a temporary plug in the well because pressure is building up that could cause another blowout. The Michigan Environmental Review Board approved Monday an environmental impact statement that sets up guidelines, emergency procedures and safeguards that would let Amoco Production Co. reopen the well, insert pipes to drain off gas that is building pressure up to a dangerous point, and resume drilling.

The statement now requires the approval of the director of the Department of Natural Resources. But the impact statement, approved unanimously, requires the company to post a $1 million bond to compensate the public and state for any damages arising because of the reopening and completion of the well.

Attorney Guy Buell of Houston, Tex., representing Amoco, said the company has agreed that it will not post the bond, which he said would be "just like hanging money on a tree. Anyone could come along and pluck it at it without showing negligence."

Recent Car Safety Devices Ineffective

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal automobile safety regulations put into effect since 1970 apparently have done little to reduce deaths and serious injuries although earlier regulations were highly beneficial, a General Accounting Office study has concluded.

However, the agency acknowledged its report is based on numerous assumptions and that a "credible nationwide evaluation of the effectiveness of motor vehicle safety standards cannot be made due to the present lack of adequate accident data."

The study found that safety regulations set by the federal government between 1966 and 1970 resulted in between 15 to 25 per cent fewer deaths and serious injuries in 1966 to 1968 model cars and from 25 to 30 per cent fewer deaths and serious injuries in 1969 and 1970 cars.

However, it adds "There was little, if any, further improvement in 1971 to 1973 model cars." The study acknowledges that some of its data indicate an improvement in the safety of those cars also but concludes "most of our analyses showed little or no improvements in the 1971 through 1973 models over the 1970 model."

Auto safety standards put into effect from 1966 to 1970 include padded dash, head restraints, impact absorbing steering wheel, door locks, seatbelt assemblies, fuel system improvements to reduce the chances of an explosion and standards for wheels.

Standards put into effect since 1970 include improving the ability of doors to absorb crashes and of the roof to resist crushing in a rollover accident. They also include standards dealing with the flammability of interior materials and with child seating systems.

The 16,900-ton amphibious transport ship Coronado anchored off Beirut's seaport before dawn, and by 10 a.m. (3 a.m. EDT) all of the evacuees were aboard. The Coronado was to land them in Athens on Thursday.

Among those leaving was U.S. Ambassador Talcott W. Seelye, whose departure was a closely guarded secret until the last moment. The embassy said he was going to Washington for consultations and would return to Beirut.

An embassy official said 160 Americans and about 390 others signed up for the evacuation, but closer to 400 — "less than half" of them Americans — showed up this morning. However, to persons watching the departure it looked more like 250 to 300 persons, and the White House said there were about 300.

About 1,000 other American citizens remained in Lebanon despite warnings from the White House and the embassy that it was the last evacuation the U.S. government would organize. Most of those remaining are of Lebanese birth and have dual Lebanese and American citizenship.

President Ford kept abreast of the evacuation in a White House situation room, flanked by senior advisers. He was in telephone contact with Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld and his chief military and civilian advisers at the Pentagon.

Rumsfeld sent Ford's "thanks for a good job" to the Coronado.

"The President wants to congratulate the officers and men of the Sixth Fleet and the officials of the embassy in Beirut for arranging the safe evacuation of Americans and foreign nationals," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters in Washington.

"The President also wants to express his gratitude and sincere thanks to all others who gave their cooperation to facilitate this departure."

The latter group included heavily armed soldiers of Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization and leftist Moslem Lebanese police who stood guard as the evacuees boarded an unarmed U.S. landing craft at the former military officers' swimming club.

The PLO also guarded the previous U.S. evacuation of 110 Americans and 157 others on June 20. This time, as then, one Palestinian standing on the seawall above the loading dock caused a brief stir by firing several shots into the air. There was no explanation.

UAW Presents Its Economic Blueprint

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers have presented Chrysler Corp. and General Motors with a general economic blueprint, including improved cost-of-living protection and an increase in base wages.

UAW Vice President Doug Fraser admitted Monday the current cost-of-living-allowance (COLA) formula is "the best that exists in collective bargaining."

But he said auto workers' buying power has not increased as it should have under goals set in the 1973 contract agreements.

"Theoretically, we should be increasing buying power at a rate of three per cent per year, but that hasn't happened over the past (three) years as a result of the imperfections of COLA," Fraser said.

Auto worker wage increases since 1948 have been negotiated on two levels: the Annual Improvement Factor, aimed at increasing real buying power, and the COLA formula, which is supposed to safeguard that buying power.

But since COLA doesn't fully cover the impact of inflation, Fraser said, "We haven't achieved a gain in purchasing power of much more than one per cent" annually since 1973.

The current contract, which expires Sept. 14, called for base increases of three per cent in each of the past three years, and included a COLA formula that boosted wages one cent an hour for every .3 rise in the Consumer Price Index.

Without naming a specific target for this year's bargaining, Fraser said the union wants the .3 figure in the COLA formula "moved down considerably."

Amoco Won't Post Bond On Gas Well

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A decision whether to open an Amoco natural gas well near Williamsburg has reached a "stalemate," company attorneys say.

The plant has been closed since 1971 when a blowout forced 88 families to evacuate their nearby homes. State officials say something must be done about a temporary plug in the well because pressure is building up that could cause another blowout. The Michigan Environmental Review Board approved Monday an environmental impact statement that sets up guidelines, emergency procedures and safeguards that would let Amoco Production Co. reopen the well, insert pipes to drain off gas that is building pressure up to a dangerous point, and resume drilling.

The statement now requires the approval of the director of the Department of Natural Resources. But the impact statement, approved unanimously, requires the company to post a $1 million bond to compensate the public and state for any damages arising because of the reopening and completion of the well.

Attorney Guy Buell of Houston, Tex., representing Amoco, said the company has agreed that it will not post the bond, which he said would be "just like hanging money on a tree. Anyone could come along and pluck at it without showing negligence."

Recent Car Safety Devices Ineffective

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal automobile safety regulations put into effect since 1970 apparently have done little to reduce deaths and serious injuries although earlier regulations were highly beneficial, a General Accounting Office study has concluded.

However, the agency acknowledged its report is based on numerous assumptions and that a "credible nationwide evaluation of the effectiveness of motor vehicle safety standards cannot be made due to the present lack of adequate accident data."

The study found that safety regulations set by the federal government between 1966 and 1970 resulted in between 15 to 25 per cent fewer deaths and serious injuries in 1966 to 1968 model cars and from 25 to 30 per cent fewer deaths and serious injuries in 1969 and 1970 cars.

However, it adds "There was little, if any, further improvement in 1971 to 1973 model cars." The study acknowledges that some of its data indicate an improvement in the safety of those cars also but concludes "most of our analyses showed little or no improvements in the 1971 through 1973 models over the 1970 model."

Auto safety standards put into effect from 1966 to 1970 include padded dash, door locks, impact absorbing steering wheel, door latches, seatbelt assemblies, fuel system improvements to reduce the chances of an explosion and standards for wheels.

Standards put into effect since 1970 include improving the ability of doors to absorb crashes and of the roof to resist crushing in a rollover accident. They also include standards dealing with the flammability of interior materials and with child seating systems.

Covert Trio Hailed As Girl's Rescuers

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

COVERT — The seriousness of three Covert men is being credited by authorities here with the quick apprehension of a man in connection with the alleged kidnapping and rape of a 13-year-old Covert girl yesterday afternoon.

Covert township police said the girl was forced at knifepoint to get into a car as she walked along 32nd avenue east of M-140 with two friends about 3:25 p.m.

Police said the girl yelled to her friends to get help and that they ran approximately a quarter mile to the Lorraine Hollin residence where Larry Magett was in the front yard. Magett, 31, said he drove his car into Covert where he summoned two friends, Terry Hale, 31, and Clarence Peterson, 27, to help him conduct a search. The police, meanwhile, had also been notified.

Acting on a hunch, the men decided to check a secluded wooded area on 34th avenue near 77½ street, approximately three miles from the alleged abduction scene.

There the men said they saw a car matching the description of the vehicle driven by the alleged abductor. The men said that as they approached the vehicle they saw a man assaulting the girl on the front seat.

The man tried to flee on foot, but was caught after a brief chase.

"I just yelled 'stop or I'll shoot' and he stopped," said Peterson who was not armed.

The men brought the man and girl back to the Covert township police station about 4 p.m.

Arrested on a charge of first degree sexual conduct (rape) and kidnapping was Leonard Shepherd, 46, of Detroit.

Covert police said Shepherd was also wanted on a warrant from Detroit on a charge of failing to appear in court on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

The friends of the girl who witnessed the alleged abduction told police that the man appeared to be fixing a tire on his car when he grabbed the girl.

Police said they confiscated a 12-inch long kitchen knife from the car.

The victim was released after treatment at Watervliet Community hospital where it was determined she had been sexually assaulted. She suffered no other injuries, police said.

Shepherd was to be arraigned in Seventh District court at South Haven today.

Showdown Near On Laetrile Ban

appeal to federal district court, Price says.

"The drug has been around for 25 years and the people who make it in Mexico have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on propaganda saying it's great," Price adds. "But they haven't done anything about having it proved."

Persons who have been allowed to import laetrile say they are charged between $6 and $11 per bottle, the daily dosage in some cases. Medical authorities say the cost of synthesizing laetrile could vary greatly, depending on purity. "As we see it, laetrile is still an unproven drug," says Jerry Henderson, FDA program manager for consumer affairs in Region Six headquartered in Dallas. "It has never been shown to be effective in any study against cancer."

Henderson cites reports of negative tests of laetrile by the National Cancer Institute in its search for a cancer cure. The NCI has conducted laetrile tests with animals in 1957, 1960, 1968, 1973, 1975 and is currently testing it against a mouse lung tumor, but officials say all "have failed to produce evidence of anticancer activity."

"We have the deepest sympathy for individuals suffering from cancer, and we join with all Americans in hoping for a breakthrough in the search for a cure," Henderson says. "We regret Judge Bohannon's ruling because it may cause some patients to skip recognized drugs and go directly to laetrile."

An Oklahoma City attorney who represented his father in an effort to be allowed to legally use laetrile says his family had tried chemotherapy and cobalt treatments without success against lymph system cancer before turning to the contraband substance. Michael Gassaway says his father, Charles, died June 7 after a series of strokes and a kidney malfunction. His father had begun using laetrile in late April.

"I believe in the use of laetrile," Gassaway says. "My father's death has not changed that position."

"There is no proof that laetrile is harmful," Bohannon said in court. "Anyone suffering with this horrible disease of cancer should have everything they want that is not harmful."

Price contends that, as the law now stands, citizens "have no constitutional right of freedom of choice of drugs. If they did, marijuana and heroin and a whole range of drugs might be legal."

Top Trooper Named

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Police trooper Ronald E. VanderMolen of Ypsilanti has been chosen the top trooper of 1975 for his work with young people both on and off duty. VanderMolen, 29, was selected from among seven finalists by a three-man committee. He is a counselor, coach and liaison officer between youth and the police. A five-year veteran of the State Police, VanderMolen takes more than 100 young people roller skating each month. But he also works with adult groups giving talks on drugs and other police-related, said State Police Director Col. George Halverson. VanderMolen will win $1,000 for the honor, given every year since 1961.

Terror-Filled Minutes

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A 5-month-old baby boy was released unharmed after a terror-filled 90 minutes in which his 19-year-old father allegedly threatened to cut the baby's throat. Michael Zaruba of Flint Township was arraigned Monday on felonious assault charges in the incident, which began Sunday night when his wife, Robbin, called Flint Township police to report that Zaruba had stormed out of the house with their infant son, Michael Jr. Mrs. Zaruba, 15, told police her husband had been drinking.

Innocent Plea After Fire

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A former Air Force policeman has pleaded innocent Monday to charges stemming from a fire which destroyed the clubhouse on the golf course at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base. James Francis Zeiger, 22, of Alexandria, Va., was charged with destruction of government property and concealing knowledge of a felony in the Sept. 5, 1975, blaze. Authorities said damage from the fire, which leveled the clubhouse, was assessed at $94,918. The base is located outside Marquette. Zeiger, who was indicted last month, was freed on his own recognizance. No trial date was set.

Kalkaska Man Charged

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A 30-year-old Kalkaska man has been charged with two counts of manslaughter in Monday's highway deaths of a Traverse City brother and sister. Charles Ray's bond was set at $5,000 when he appeared for a hearing before a District Court magistrate. He was charged in the deaths of 22-year-old Mark Jones and his 19-year-old sister, Jennifer, during a crash between their motorcycle and Ray's auto.

Senate OKs Anti-Bribe Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — American firms that boycott Israel or use bribery as a foreign-sales tool stand to lose millions of dollars in tax benefits under a provision approved by the Senate. Business executives would be subject to up to a year in jail for failing to report any corporate income derived as a result of a bribe or earnings in any country that requires participation in a boycott. The provisions, far tougher than the Ford administration has recommended but still subject to House consideration, were added to a multibillion-dollar tax bill. The anti-boycott and anti-bribe provisions were part of a package, approved 86 to 1, that affects tax treatment of income earned by Americans or U.S. businesses abroad. There was no debate on the sanctions, which were written by the Finance Committee.

Stockman Replies To Charges

any available job."

Stockman also stressed the inconsistency of charges being levied, noting that "one camp (Frazier) has accused me of being in the hip-pocket of the medical-dental lobby, while the other (Boothby) has said that I am for socialized medicine. Even Jimmy Carter couldn't straddle a gap that wide."

"I absolutely oppose compulsory national health insurance and have said so repeatedly in this campaign. It would raise the average family's taxes $2,000 per year, created a gigantic new $120 billion federal health bureaucracy, and eliminate freedom of choice for both doctors and patients."

"Finally," Stockman said, "I deeply resent the innuendo (in a Boothby mailing) that I have been running for Congress on the Congressional payroll. This charge is absolutely false and without foundation."

"The public records of the clerk's office in the House of Representatives will show that I have not drawn one cent since Oct. 1, 1975. Prior to this time, I worked long hours to further the cause of Republicans in the House of Representatives, while gaining valuable insight into the Congressional process."

"In the spring of 1975, I was honored with a teaching fellowship at the Harvard University Institute of Politics. Even then I was on the job in Washington 20 hours per week and at only one-third salary."

"A kid from a small Berrien County farm who did not know a single soul in Washington does not rise from the bottom of the ladder to one of the key Republican staff positions in the U.S. House except through hard work and conscientious effort. And the slanderous newspaper reprint included in my opponent's mailing, written by one of the vipers of the Washington press corps without a single attributed source, will not change that fact," Stockman said.

He concluded, "I will continue to hit hard at the issues during the last week of the campaign and avoid the mud-slinging approach preferred by my opponents. Undoubtedly there will be more charges and distortions. But I think the people of this district know where I stand without benefit of any 11th hour elaboration by my opponents. I would urge them to concentrate on getting their own messages to the voters."

Handwriting Gives 'Em Away

CHICAGO (AP) — Handwriting analysts say Jimmy Carter's penmanship shows he is very ambitious — sometimes to the point of being unrealistic.

President Gerald Ford is friendly and doesn't give up easily. Ronald Reagan is more independent than Ford, and likes to see things objectively, the analysts say.

Town Has A Change Of Heart

DURHAM, Conn. (AP) — Residents of this central Connecticut town have voted to approve the Constitution, 187 years after it was ratified by the fledgling United States. At a town meeting Monday, Durham residents voted 329 to 6 to approve the document. The last vote in Durham on the Constitution was taken Nov. 12, 1787, when residents decided to reject it. One voter told the audience in a crowded high school auditorium, "If we look at the names on the town green of those who have paid to defend the Constitution and for the rights we enjoy tonight, we will vote to approve this document."

Reagan Selects Partner

Taylor said.

The announcement marked an abrupt about-face for Reagan on several counts.

For weeks, Reagan has been telling supporters that it would be "presumptuous" and possibly illegal for him to name his vice presidential preference prior to the national convention.

And he repeatedly assured supporters that his choice would be someone compatible with his own conservative philosophy.

"I don't believe in the old tradition of picking someone at the opposite end of the political spectrum because he can get some votes you can't get yourself," Reagan said as recently as July 9 in Colorado.

Schweiker, who last year received an 80 per cent approval rating from the liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and a 100 per cent score from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, does not fit the profile Reagan had outlined for his supporters.

On Monday, Reagan described only very general areas of agreement between himself and Schweiker and said the Pennsylvania was a man of "broad general appeal" whose "basic beliefs were compatible with my own."

Reagan said they agreed on basic values preserving "a strong America ... a compassionate America willing to care for those of its people unable to care for themselves ... a moral and decent America ... an America governed by the rule of law, not by men ..."

market since last fall.

General Motors and Ford Motor Co., which release their second-quarter results later this week, also are expected to report record profits.

"The company is in solid financial condition," Chrysler Chairman John J. Riccardo and President Eugene A. Caferio said in a statement accompanying the earnings report.

The two executives said the firm reduced its debt by $25 million in the past 18 months, including $225 million in the first half of 1975.

"The economy is making a broad-based recovery with nearly all the traditional indicators at favorable levels, including demand for new cars and trucks," Riccardo and Caferio added.

Worldwide unit sales of motor vehicles in the second quarter were 862,194, compared with 641,181 a year ago. Sales in the U.S. were 482,738, up from 318,353 in 1975.

Newborn Is Under 3 Pounds

SOUTH HAVEN — A girl weighing a mere 2 pounds 13 ounces was born to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Strickfaden of South Haven at 11:45 p.m. Sunday at Community hospital here.

The baby was transferred to Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo, intensive care nursery, where she was reported in stable condition this morning, according to a Bronson hospital spokesman.

A nurse at Community hospital's maternity ward said the baby was born three months premature.

Covert Trio Hailed As Girl's Rescuers

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
COVERT — The alertness of three Covert men is being credited by authorities here with the quick apprehension of a man in connection with the alleged kidnapping and rape of a 13-year-old Covert girl yesterday afternoon.

Covert township police said the girl was forced at knife-point to get into a car as she walked along 32nd avenue east of M-140 with two friends about 3:25 p.m.

Police said the girl yelled to her friends to get help and that they ran approximately a quarter mile to the Lorraine Hollin residence where Larry Magett was in the front yard. Magett, 31, said he drove his car into Covert where he summoned two friends, Terry Hale, 31, and Clarence Peterson, 27, to help him conduct a search. The police, meanwhile, had also been notified.

Acting on a hunch, the men decided to check a secluded wooded area on 34th avenue near 77½ street, approximately three miles from the alleged abduction scene.

There the men said they saw a car matching the description of the vehicle driven by the alleged abductor. The men said that as they approached the vehicle they saw a man assaulting the girl on the front seat.

The man tried to flee on foot, but was caught after a brief chase.

"I just yelled 'stop or I'll shoot' and he stopped," said Peterson who was not armed.

The men brought the man and girl back to the Covert township police station about 4 p.m.

Arrested on a charge of first degree sexual conduct (rape) and kidnapping was Leonard Shepherd, 46, of Detroit.

Covert police said Shepherd was also wanted on a warrant from Detroit on a charge of failing to appear in court on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

The friends of the girl who witnessed the alleged abduction told police that the man appeared to be fixing a tire on his car when he grabbed the girl.

Police said they confiscated a 12-inch long kitchen knife from the car.

The victim was released after treatment at Watervliet Community hospital where it was determined she had been sexually assaulted. She suffered no other injuries, police said.

Shepherd was to be arraigned in Seventh District court at South Haven today.

appeal to federal district court, Price says.

"The drug has been around for 25 years and the people who make it in Mexico have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on propaganda saying it's great," Price adds. "But they haven't done anything about having it proved."

Persons who have been allowed to import laetrile say they are charged between $6 and $11 per bottle, the daily dosage in some cases. Medical authorities say the cost of synthesizing laetrile could vary greatly, depending on purity. "As we see it, laetrile is still an unapproved drug," says Jerry Henderson, FDA program manager for consumer affairs in Region Six headquartered in Dallas. "It has never been shown to be effective in any study against cancer."

Henderson cites reports of negative tests of laetrile by the National Cancer Institute in its search for a cancer cure. The NCI has conducted laetrile tests with animals in 1957, 1960, 1969, 1973, 1975 and is currently testing it against a mouse lung tumor, but officials say all "have failed to produce evidence of anticancer activity."

"We have the deepest sympathy for individuals suffering from cancer, and we join with all Americans in hoping for a breakthrough in the search for a cure," Henderson says. "We regret Judge Bohanan's ruling because it may cause some patients to skip recognized drugs and go directly to laetrile."

An Oklahoma City attorney who represented his father in an effort to be allowed to legally use laetrile says his family had tried chemotherapy and cobalt treatments without success against lymph system cancer before turning to the contraband substance. Michael Gassaway says his father, Charles, died June 7 after a series of strokes and a kidney malfunction. His father had begun using laetrile in late April.

"I believe in the use of laetrile," Gassaway says. "My father's death has not changed that position."

"There is no proof that laetrile is harmful," Bohanon said in court. "Anyone suffering with this horrible disease of cancer should have everything they want that is not harmful."

Price contends that, as the law now stands, citizens "have no constitutional right of freedom of choice of drugs. If they did, marijuana and heroin and a whole range of drugs might be legal."

Top Trooper Named

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Police trooper Ronald E. VanderMolen of Ypsilanti has been chosen the top trooper of 1975 for his work with young people both on and off duty. VanderMolen, 29, was selected from among seven finalists by a three-man committee. He is a counselor, coach and liaison officer between youth and the police. A five-year veteran of the State Police, VanderMolen takes more than 100 young people roller skating each month. But he also works with adult groups giving talks on drugs and other police-related, said State Police Director Col. George Halverson. VanderMolen will win $1,000 for the honor, given every year since 1961.

Terror-Filled Minutes

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A 5-month-old baby boy was released unharmed after a terror-filled 90 minutes in which his 19-year-old father allegedly threatened to cut the baby's throat. Michael Zaruba of Flint Township was arraigned Monday on felonious assault charges in the incident, which began Sunday night when his wife, Robin, called Flint Township police to report that Zaruba had stormed out of the house with their infant son, Michael Jr. Mrs. Zaruba, 15, told police her husband had been drinking.

Innocent Plea After Fire

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A former Air Force policeman has pleaded innocent Monday to charges stemming from a fire which destroyed the clubhouse on the golf course at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base. James Francis Zeiger, 22, of Alexandria, Va., was charged with destruction of government property and concealing knowledge of a felony in the Sept. 5, 1973, blaze. Authorities said damage from the fire, which leveled the clubhouse, was assessed at $94,918. The base is located outside Marquette. Zeiger, who was indicted last month, was freed on his own recognizance. No trial date was set.

Kalkaskas Man Charged

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A 30-year-old Kalkaska man has been charged with two counts of manslaughter in Monday's highway deaths of a Traverse City brother and sister. Charles Ray's bond was set at $5,000 when he appeared for a hearing before a District Court magistrate. He was charged in the deaths of 22-year-old Mark Jones and his 19-year-old sister, Jennifer, during a crash between their motorcycle and Ray's auto.

Senate OKs Anti-Bribe Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — American firms that boycott Israel or use bribery as a foreign-sales tool stand to lose millions of dollars in tax benefits under a provision approved by the Senate. Business executives would be subject to up to a year in jail for failing to report any corporate income derived as a result of a bribe or earnings in any country that requires participation in a boycott. The provisions, far tougher than the Ford administration has recommended but still subject to House consideration, were added to a multibillion-dollar tax bill. The anti-boycott and antibribe provisions were part of a package, approved 86 to 1, that affects tax treatment of income earned by Americans or U.S. businesses abroad. There was no debate on the sanctions, which were written by the Finance Committee.

Stockman Replies To Charges

any available job."

Stockman also stressed the inconsistency of charges being levied, noting that "one camp (Fraser) has accused me of being in the hip-pocket of the medical-dental lobby, while the other (Boothby) has said that I am for socialized medicine. Even Jimmy Carter couldn't straddle a gap that wide."

"I absolutely oppose compulsory national health insurance and have said so repeatedly in this campaign. It would raise the average family's taxes $2,000 per year, created a gigantic new $120 billion federal health bureaucracy, and eliminate freedom of choice for both doctors and patients."

"Finally," Stockman said, "I deeply resent the innuendo (in a Boothby mailing) that I have been running for Congress on the Congressional payroll. This charge is absolutely false and without foundation."

"The public records of the clerk's office in the House of Representatives will show that I have not drawn one cent since Oct. 1, 1975. Prior to this time, I worked long hours to further the cause of Republicans in the House of Representatives, while gaining valuable insight into the Congressional process."

"In the spring of 1975, I was honored with a teaching fellowship at the Harvard University Institute of Politics. Even then I was on the job in Washington 25 hours per week and at only one-third salary."

"A kid from a small Berrien County farm who did not know a single soul in Washington does not rise from the bottom of the ladder to one of the key Republican staff positions in the U.S. House except through hard work and conscientious effort. And the slanderous newspaper reprint included in my opponent's mailing, written by one of the vipers of the Washington press corps without a single attributed source, will not change that fact," Stockman said.

He concluded, "I will continue to hit hard at the issues during the last week of the campaign and avoid the mud-slinging approach preferred by my opponents. Undoubtedly there will be more charges and distortions. But I think the people of this district know where I stand without benefit of any 11th hour elaboration by my opponents. I would urge them to concentrate on getting their own messages to the voters."

Handwriting Gives 'Em Away

CHICAGO (AP) — Handwriting analysts say Jimmy Carter's penmanship shows he is very ambitious — sometimes to the point of being unrealistic.

President Gerald Ford is friendly and doesn't give up easily. Ronald Reagan is more independent than Ford, and likes to see things objectively, the analysts say.

Town Has A Change Of Heart

DURHAM, Conn. (AP) — Residents of this central Connecticut town have voted to approve the Constitution, 187 years after it was ratified by the fledgling United States. At a town meeting Monday, Durham residents voted 320 to 6 to approve the document. The last vote in Durham on the Constitution was taken Nov. 12, 1787, when residents decided to reject it. One voter told the audience in a crowded high school auditorium, "If we look at the names on the town green of those who have paid to defend the Constitution and for the rights we enjoy tonight, we will vote to approve this document."

Reagan Selects Partner

Taylor said.

The announcement marked an abrupt about-face for Reagan on several counts.

For weeks, Reagan has been telling supporters that it would be "presumptuous" and possibly illegal for him to name his vice presidential preference prior to the national convention.

And he repeatedly assured supporters that his choice would be someone compatible with his own conservative philosophy.

"I don't believe in the old tradition of picking someone at the opposite end of the political spectrum because he can get some votes you can't get yourself," Reagan said as recently as July 9 in Colorado.

Schweiker, who last year received an 89 per cent approval rating from the liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and a 100 per cent score from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, does not fit the profile Reagan had outlined for his supporters.

On Monday, Reagan described only very general areas of agreement between himself and Schweiker and said the Pennsylvania was a man of "broad general appeal" whose "basic beliefs were compatible with my own."

Reagan said they agreed on basic values preserving "a strong America ... a compassionate America willing to care for those of its people unable to care for themselves ... a moral and decent America ... an America governed by the rule of law, not by men ..."

Reagan did not permit questions from reporters. Instead, he read a prepared 350-word statement and immediately departed for vacation at his Santa Barbara, Calif., ranch, leaving questions to his aides.

Chrysler Earnings Hit All-Time High

market since last fall.

General Motors and Ford Motor Co., which release their second-quarter results later this week, also are expected to report record profits.

"The company is in solid financial condition," Chrysler Chairman John J. Riccardo and President Eugene A. Cafiero said in a statement accompanying the earnings report.

The two executives said the firm reduced its debt by $525 million in the past 18 months, including $228 million in the first half of 1976.

"The economy is making a broad-based recovery with nearly all the traditional indicators at favorable levels, including demand for new cars and trucks," Riccardo and Cafiero added.

Worldwide unit sales of motor vehicles in the second quarter were 862,194, compared with 641,181 a year ago. Sales in the U.S. were 492,738, up from 318,353 in 1975.

For the first half of the year, the firm had world-wide unit sales of 1,604,352 vehicles, up from 1,200,939 in 1975. U.S. sales were 907,190, compared with 566,219 the year before.

Riccardo and Cafiero said Chrysler's overseas operations also returned to the black, producing $72.4 million in net profits during the first six months of the year, compared with a $22.2 million loss in the first six months of 1975.

"While some countries outside North America and Europe continue to show the effects of political uncertainty and inflation, most major world markets are recovering sharply from the combination of forces that depressed sales and earnings for most of 1975," the two officers said.

Chrysler's record profits this year will cheer the United Auto Workers union as well as the company. The UAW, which opened talks with Chrysler last week on a new contract, has warned the firm not to use its losses of last year as an excuse to deny union demands.

"Had we met in 1975 rather than 1976, the company's financial problems might have been a factor," UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser said. "But Chrysler has come back strongly. They will have no grounds whatsoever to plead poverty, and I don't think they will."

The current three-year agreement covering 115,000 Chrysler workers expires Sept. 14.

Riccardo and Cafiero said Monday that despite the improvement in sales, the industry continues to face "the difficult and persistent problem of rising costs for labor and materials."

"Despite our best efforts," they added, "we expect this trend to continue as a result of higher material and labor costs."

Newborn Is Under 3 Pounds

Rent Payment Plan Gets Nod In South Haven

By TOM KENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A rent payment policy for tenants of South Haven's public housing program was endorsed by the housing commission during its regular monthly meeting last night.

The policy was suggested by executive director Dennis DeVinney in order to specifically detail for tenants their responsibilities for paying rent. DeVinney reported that some tenants were becoming habitually tardy in paying rent, but that he lacked authority to take action because of a lack of a policy.

The proposed policy would allow tenants to make two equal payments per month. If a tenant is late three times within a six-month period then payments would have to be made once per month and if the tenant is delinquent three more times in the next year they would be subject to eviction.

The policy is subject to review by the commission's attorney. In other matters, the commission approved the installation of smoke detectors in its 50 family housing project units.

Named tenant representatives from the family project were Shirley Jackson, Annie Franklin, Wilma Jordan, Mary Stewart, Helen Booth, Bernice Franklin and Irene Brunt. Appointed tenant representatives from the senior citizens apartment building were Alice Ewers, Evelyn Janosky and Lillie El.

The commission set its next meeting for Aug. 30, a week later than normal due to vacation schedules.

Hard-Earned Bicycle Stolen, Girl, 9, Reports

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Michelle Huffman, 9, worked a year and a half to save $110 to buy a bicycle.

Monday, she told St. Joseph township police the bicycle was stolen by two boys who pushed her off the bike and rode it away.

Michelle's mother, Mrs. Diane (John) Burkhard, 2946 Gerald street, Fairplain, said the incident occurred about 2:30 p.m. as her daughter rode near Fairplain West elementary school, 1901 Fairplain avenue.

Mrs. Burkhard said Michelle worked at odd jobs around the home and the service stations the Burkhard's own as well as doing small jobs for neighbors to earn the $110 for the bike she bought in May.

The Burkhard's own Standard Oil service stations in Benton township and St. Joseph township.

"Michelle can get another bike," her mother said, "but it won't be the same because she worked and saved to buy this one that she picked out herself."

The blue bike is a Schwinn girl's model Stingray and is a three-speed.

The Burkhard's told police the two boys, who appeared to be between 12 and 14, rode up on one bike and asked if they could borrow her bike. When she hesitated, one boy knuckled her off the bike and the two rode away on Fairplain avenue, Mrs. Burkhard reported.

Michelle wasn't injured, but it hurts all the same.

The main channel of the St. Joseph river will be closed to boat traffic Wednesday, Thursday and Friday while construction workers continue to install 26-ton leaves on the new Main-Wayne street bascule bridge, according to the state highway department. Ernest Malikewitz, project engineer for the highway department, said river traffic will be detoured through the Morrison channel while the leaves, which lift up to let large boats through, are hoisted into place. The installation of the leaves this week is the second section to be installed. The channel was closed earlier to install the first section. The bridge is being built between Benton Harbor and St. Joseph.

Covert Man Is Headed For Court

SOUTH HAVEN — Desi Hall, 19, 7th street, Covert, was to be arraigned today in Seventh District court here on a charge of breaking and entering after officers apprehended a man in a cottage on South Haven's north side yesterday.

City officers said a neighbor reported seeing a man crawl through a window of the Marcella Small home at 268 Park avenue at about 4:15 p.m.

Officers said they found a man in the bedroom in the home. The owners are on vacation, police said.

ed. Troopers said a 1972 Ford, leased by North Central Airlines, was reported stolen from the lot of Ramada Inn across the street from the state police post on Ferguson drive, Benton township.

Inn Manager Joyce Toman reported the theft about 7:30 a.m. after she loaned her car to the flight crew which was scheduled to fly out of Ross field at 7:45. The flight crew was not identified. Troopers said the keys had been reported left in the car.

Benton sheriff's officers reported Monday that two cars listed as stolen were found abandoned. One was a 1967 Chrysler, reported stolen in Chicago and located on Red Arrow highway south of Bridgman. The other was a 1965 Mercury found on I-94 in Coloma township and reported stolen from Romeo, Mich.

Four thefts were reported Monday to Benton township and Benton Harbor police.

Thefts reported to township police were:

The policy was suggested by executive director Dennis DeVinney in order to specifically detail for tenants their responsibilities for paying rent. DeVinney reported that some tenants were becoming habitually tardy in paying rent, but that he lacked authority to take action because of a lack of a policy.

The proposed policy would allow tenants to make two equal payments per month. If a tenant is late three times within a six-month period then payments would have to be made once per month and if the tenant is delinquent three more times in the next year they would be subject to eviction.

The policy is subject to review by the commission's attorney. In other matters, the commission approved the installation of smoke detectors in its 50 family housing project units.

Named tenant representatives from the family project were Shirley Jackson, Annie Franklin, Wilma Jordan, Mary Stewart, Helen Booth, Bernice Franklin and Irene Brunt. Appointed tenant representatives from the senior citizens apartment building were Alice Ewers, Evelyn Janosky and Lillie El.

The commission set its next meeting for Aug. 30, a week later than normal due to vacation schedules.

Hard-Earned Bicycle Stolen, Girl, 9, Reports

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Michelle Huffman, 9, worked a year and a half to save $110 to buy a bicycle.

Monday, she told St. Joseph township police the bicycle was stolen by two boys who pushed her off the bike and rode it away.

Michelle's mother, Mrs. Diane (John) Burkhard, 2046 Gerald street, Fairplain, said the incident occurred about 2:30 p.m. as her daughter rode near Fairplain West elementary school, 1901 Fairplain avenue.

Mrs. Burkhard said Michelle worked at odd jobs around the home and the service stations the Burkhard's own as well as doing small jobs for neighbors to earn the $110 for the bike she bought in May.

The Burkhard's own Standard Oil service stations in Benton township and St. Joseph township.

"Michelle can get another bike," her mother said, "but it won't be the same because she worked and saved to buy this one that she picked out herself."

The blue bike is a Schwinn girl's model Stingray and is a three-speed.

The Burkhard's told police the two boys, who appeared to be between 12 and 14, rode up on one bike and asked if they could borrow her bike. When she hesitated, one boy knocked her off the bike and the two rode away on Fairplain avenue, Mrs. Burkhard reported.

Michelle wasn't injured, but it hurts all the same.

Boaters To Take Detour

The main channel of the St. Joseph river will be closed to boat traffic Wednesday, Thursday and Friday while construction workers continue to install 28-ton leaves on the new Main-Wayne street bascule bridge, according to the state highway department. Ernest Malkewitz, project engineer for the highway department, said river traffic will be detoured through the Morrison channel while the leaves, which lift up to let large boats through, are hoisted into place. The installation of the leaves this week is the second section to be installed. The channel was closed earlier to install the first section. The bridge is being built between Benton Harbor and St. Joseph.

Airline Crew Borrows Car To Make Monday A.M. Flight

A North Central Airlines crew had to borrow a car to get to Ross field for a flight Monday morning because the crew's car had been stolen, state police of the Benton Harbor post reported. Troopers said a 1972 Ford, leased by North Central Airlines, was reported stolen from the lot of Ramada Inn across the street from the state police post on Ferguson drive, Benton township.

Inn Manager Joyce Toman reported the theft about 7:30 a.m. after she loaned her car to the flight crew which was scheduled to fly out of Ross field at 7:45. The flight crew was not identified. Troopers said the keys had been reported left in the car.

Berrien sheriff's officers reported Monday that two cars listed as stolen were found abandoned. One was a 1967 Chrysler, reported stolen in Chicago and located on Red Arrow highway south of Bridgman. The other was a 1965 Mercury found on I-94 in Coloma township and reported stolen from Romeo, Mich.

Four thefts were reported Monday to Benton township and Benton Harbor police.

Thefts reported to township police were:

—A portable television and two tape players, all valued at $280, from the residence of Anna Golber, 120 Frederick.

—A $170 CB radio from the pickup truck of Lloyd Wycoff, 1322 Monroe street, parked in a lot on Plaza drive.

Thefts reported to city police were:

—Cash amounting to $80 from the apartment of Lilly Harris, 695 McGuigan street.

—A portable radio, CB radio, 50 cents and a wrench from two Pyramid Oil company trucks parked in the company lot, 500 Paw Paw avenue.

—A 12-year-old Benton Harbor boy told city police Monday he was robbed of a pack of cigarettes and 25 cents by three other boys, one of whom hit him.

Anthony Holmes, 938 Pavone street, did not require medical treatment after the 2:45 p.m. incident at the corner of Broadway and Empire avenue. He told police he was returning from a store with cigarettes he had purchased for his mother.

Covert Man Is Headed For Court

SOUTH HAVEN — Desi Hall, 19, 76th street, Covert, was to be arraigned today in Seventh District court here on a charge of breaking and entering after officers apprehended a man in a cottage on South Haven's north side yesterday.

City officers said a neighbor reported seeing a man crawl through a window of the Marcella Small home at 269 Park avenue at about 4:15 p.m.

Officers said they found a man in the bedroom in the home. The owners are on vacation, police said.

Jury Deliberates In Police Slaying Case

By LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer

ALLEGAN — Jurors were scheduled to resume deliberations here today at 9 a.m. in the first-degree murder trial of Richard Frederick Dixon, accused of shooting South Haven policeman Michael McAllister Jan. 8.

The jurors were sent home at 8:15 p.m. yesterday after they failed to reach a verdict during almost four hours of deliberations.

Twice yesterday the jurors sent handwritten notes to Allegan Circuit Judge George Carsiglia asking for further instructions, according to Prosecutor Fred Hunter.

The first note asked for another explanation of the difference between first and second degree murder. The second note asked the judge to explain the difference between second-degree murder and voluntary manslaughter, Hunter said.

McAllister, then 39, was slain after he stopped a man for questioning on North Shore drive just outside of South Haven in Allegan county's Casco township. He was investigating a report that a gun had been fired in that area a short time before.

Dixon, 35, of Detroit, was arrested in a nearby cottage a short time later as other officers converged on the area. During the trial, Dixon admitted on the stand that he shot the officer, but he contended the shooting was in self-defense. He claimed he had been struck in the face and did not know at the time the man was a policeman because of the darkness.

A first degree murder conviction would be based on a jury determination of premeditation to kill and carries a mandatory life sentence to prison. Second degree murder conviction is punishable by up to life imprisonment while a manslaughter conviction carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in jail.

In his closing argument, Hunter called for the first degree murder conviction on grounds Dixon knew McAllister was a policeman and had decided to kill him because he was afraid he would be arrested for possession of an unlicensed handgun.

Hunter told the jurors Dixon feared that if he were fingerprinted, his true identity would be revealed.

The jury was not told during the trial that Dixon was being sought for a 1971 skyjacking from Detroit to Havana, Cuba. The jurors only were told Dixon was "hiding out" in South Haven.

Hunter said Dixon had time for premeditation in the moments from when McAllister stepped from his squad car until he started to frisk Dixon.

Hunter told the jury to consider statements Dixon made to officers shortly after his arrest.

Dixon was quoted as repeatedly telling officers, "I'm hiding out here. You all came up on me and I tried to get away and shoot it out and you caught me. What more can I say?"

Hunter told the jurors that bruises which showed up on Dixon after his apprehension could have been caused when Dixon fell down while fleeing through a ravine to the cottage. The statement was in reference to defense claims that Dixon had been struck by McAllister before the shooting.

Defense Atty. Michael Deutsch told the jurors that Dixon did not have enough time in his brief encounter with McAllister for the premeditation needed to substantiate the first degree murder claim.

The defense attorney said Dixon's remarks to officers after his arrest were made under extreme physical and emotional stress.

Deutsch said Dixon feared for his life because the arresting officers had threatened him. He said Dixon made the statements at the South Haven state police post in an effort to appease the officers who were angry because a fellow policeman had been shot.

Deutsch showed the jury a photo of the black eye and bruises Dixon had on the right side of his face when he was arrested.

Deutsch said that since no officer had positively admitted to striking Dixon in the face, the jurors should conclude the bruises were inflicted by McAllister.

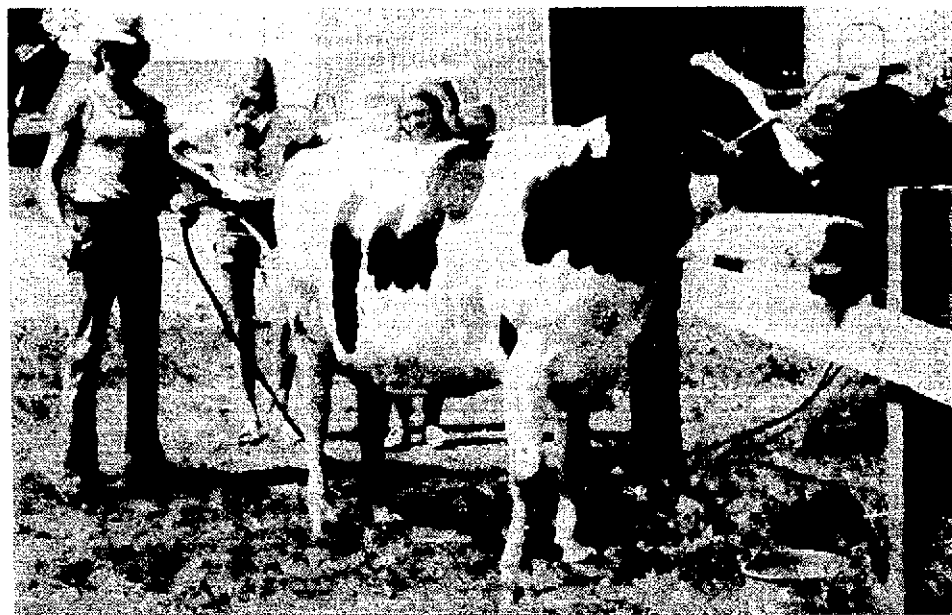

Only one other officer has admitted to striking Dixon, Trooper Ronald Olson, of the South Haven post, testified last week he struck Dixon one time in either the shoulder or the face when Dixon "cocked his left arm" while officers were attempting to handcuff him.

Dixon had been arrested in a nearby basement by officers who followed tracks in the snow.

Yesterday, in his final instructions to the jury of seven men and five women, Judge Carsiglia said the jurors could find Dixon guilty of one of three charges, first-degree murder, second-degree murder or voluntary manslaughter. Or, they could find him innocent, he said.

The judge told the jurors first-degree murder differ from second-degree murder in that premeditation was necessary to commit first-degree murder. He said the law does not define how long this moment of premeditation must last.

A manslaughter conviction would mean the defendant had acted suddenly in the heat of passion, but had not necessarily intended to kill the victim.

More Working, More Jobless In Berrien

Both the number of people working and those unemployed increased in Berrien county during June.

Figures supplied by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) show 63,500 persons had jobs; an increase of 800 over May.

But the MESC also reported 9,100 persons out of work, an increase of 600 over May's total.

There were 74,600 persons available in the labor force, the MESC said. That means a 12.2 per cent unemployment rate compared with an 11.6 per cent rate in May when 73,200 persons were available for work. The commission report said graduating college and high school students and others out of school for the summer added to the labor force.

An improvement in Berrien county's employment picture over the past year was noted in the MESC report.

According to MESC figures, 76,600 were in the labor force in June, 1975, with 11,800 unemployed for a 15.1 per cent rate. Unemployment last year peaked in April when the rate was 15.7 per cent.

There were 2,500 fewer people unemployed last month than in June, 1975.

Manufacturing employment in Berrien last month was reported 22,900 — a drop of 1,000 from June, 1975, attributable in part to a labor dispute which has idled some 1,000 workers at Whirlpool's St. Joseph division.

Government employment was 8,900 last month unchanged from May, 1975.

Bangor Will Seek Voter Approval Of 2.42 Mills

BANGOR — The Bangor school board last night in special session formally approved asking for a 2.42-mill property tax levy for school operations for one year in a special school election slated for Sept. 8.

Fred Stap, acting superintendent, said the 2.42 mills, if approved, would raise around $28,000 in local property taxes plus and additional $45,000 in state aid. The motion was approved by a 6-0 vote. Board member Dr. Frederick Durham was absent.

Last year, the school district levied 25.88 mills for operations and debt retirement. The last three extra-voted millage proposals have been defeated by district voters.

Otto Watkins Jr., board president, said a detailed explanation of why the extra money is needed will be presented at the next regular board meeting. The district's proposed 1976-77 budget has been pegged at $1,786,000.

In other areas, during the brief 18-minute public meeting, the board accepted two low bids for furniture for the new middle school.

Accepted were the low bids of $5,082 for office furniture from Dewel Corp., Holland, and the low bid of $3,005 for stack chairs and tables for the cafeteria from Classroom Inc., Lansing. Two bids were received for the office furniture and three for the chairs and tables.

Watkins named Mrs. Clara Singer, Harold Wright, and Stap, to a special committee to look into the possibility of operating a hot lunch program for senior citizens when the new middle school opens. Stap said that once the new middle school opens the district will again have enough facilities to offer hot lunch to all students.

Mrs. Mildred Royal, board vice president, said that when the district took over the Bredsville school it assumed the school's $14,000 debt and it is the board's opinion it will have to sell the school to offset the debt.

Preliminary blueprints for the proposed new elementary school were also revealed at last night's meeting. The 15-classroom structure will be built on the old middle school site and is expected to take 14 months to complete, once the old building is demolished. The gymnasium at the old school will not be torn down, however. Watkins said he hoped construction could begin by October. The board went into an executive session following its brief public meeting. Watkins said this morning the executive session lasted until midnight, but the board did not reconvene last night and no formal action from last night's executive session materialized.

Watkins would not discuss last night's lengthy executive session.

Bangor Eligible For Cash

BANGOR — The Bangor city council was told last night that the city has qualified for federal funds for improvements to two parks.

Earl Perry, public works superintendent, said the federal government has promised $61,000 if the city can come up with another $15,000 — in cash or services — for improvements for Kiwanis and Lions parks and the cleaning out of Maple creek which runs through Kiwanis park.

Perry said the proposed project has received the approval of the Sauk Trails Resources Conservation and Development district, with funds to come from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In other action, the council set Aug. 23, at 8 p.m., for a public hearing on the proposed city budget still under study and adopted a resolution that will allow the fire department to use city hydrants just outside city limits as water sources for fighting fires at businesses and homes within 1,000 feet of the hydrants.

The resolution will lead to a reduction in fire insurance rates for those properties within 1,000 feet of the hydrants, city officials said.

Four Area 4-H'sers Win State Project Awards

Four southwestern Michigan youths have been named state winners in the 1976 4-H awards program sponsored by the National 4-H Service Committee. All were chosen best in their 4-H project fields.

Two Berrien county youths, Nancy L. Zielke, 17, Ott road, Bridgman, and Arden L. Long, 17, 84 Beechwood circle, Watervliet, were among some 30 winners in this year's competition.

Two Cass county youths were also named winners. They are Berwyn A. Seelye, 16, Finch road, Marcellus, and Dan J. Wyant, 16, Route 1, Dowagiac.

Miss Zielke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zielke, won her honors for work in the foods nutrition program.

Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Long, is Michigan's crafts winner.

Seelye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Seelye, Sr., won his honors for his work in the agriculture program. Wyant is Michigan's winner in the swine project. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Riley Wyant.

The four will receive expense-paid or partially sponsored trips to the 55th National 4-H Congress to be held in Chicago, Nov. 28 through Dec. 2.

Court Action Ends Hassle In New Buffalo Township

A New Buffalo township political hassle which began in 1973 was resolved yesterday in Berrien Circuit court when a prominent Republican agreed not to file suit against the township and two Democrats.

Judge William S. White signed a stipulation which deems the case moot because George Behrends agreed not to challenge the 1973 appointments of Frank Cermak and Joseph Svehla to office.

When former Supervisor Arthur Adamow, a Democrat, resigned in 1973, Svehla, a trustee, was appointed supervisor and Cermak was appointed to Svehla's vacant spot. The appointments for both Democrats ran from April, 1973, through November, 1974, when both won their posts in the general election.

Behrends had threatened a suit, claiming the appointments by the township board were illegal, but yesterday Behrends agreed not to bring any action, although he did not admit or deny the validity of the appointments or the actions of the township board. Behrends never filed the threatened suit, and Township Atty. Tai Parish said the order signed by White prohibits Behrends from filing a future suit in connection with the case.

Watkins named Mrs. Clara Singer, Harold Wright, and Stap, to a special committee to look into the possibility of operating a hot lunch program for senior citizens when the new middle school opens. Stap said that once the new middle school opens the district will again have enough facilities to offer hot lunch to all students.

Mrs. Mildred Royal, board vice president, said that when the district took over the Breedsville school it assumed the school's $14,000 debt and it is the board's opinion it will have to sell the school to offset the debt.

Preliminary blueprints for the proposed new elementary school were also revealed at last night's meeting. The 15-classroom structure will be built on the old middle school site and is expected to take 14 months to complete, once the old building is demolished. The gymnasium at the old school will not be torn down, however. Watkins said he hoped construction could begin by October. The board went into an executive session following its brief public meeting. Watkins said this morning the executive session lasted until midnight, but the board did not reconvene last night and no formal action from last night's executive session materialized.

Watkins would not discuss last night's lengthy executive session.

Bangor Eligible For Cash

BANGOR — The Bangor city council was told last night that the city has qualified for federal funds for improvements to two parks.

Earl Perry, public works superintendent, said the federal government has promised $61,000 if the city can come up with another $15,000 - in cash or services - for improvements for Kiwanis and Lions parks and the cleaning out of Maple creek which runs through Kiwanis park.

Perry said the proposed project has received the approval of the Sauk Trails Resources Conservation and Development district, with funds to come from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In other action, the council set Aug. 23, at 8 p.m., for a public hearing on the proposed city budget still under study and adopted a resolution that will allow the fire department to use city hydrants just outside city limits as water sources for fighting fires at businesses and homes within 1,000 feet of the hydrants.

The resolution will lead to a reduction in fire insurance rates for those properties within 1,000 feet of the hydrants, city officials said.

Hartford Okays Purchase Of Building For City Hall

HARTFORD — The Hartford city council voted last night to sign a preliminary agreement to buy for use as a city hall the building formerly occupied by the A&P and Western Auto stores on West Main street.

Under the agreement, the city is to pay $27,000 to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ament for the building. Included in the preliminary agreement was a stipulation for a down payment of $8,000 and monthly payments of $300. The city would pay 8½ per cent per interest per annum in paying off the mortgage in five years.

Some remodeling would be necessary before city government could be moved into the new offices, Mayor Wayne Nelson said.

City and township administrators have been sharing their present building with the city police department since a March, 1972, fire ruined a building shared by the city-township governments and the fire department.

A new building has been put up for the fire department and the township has proposed a property tax on the Aug. 3 primary election ballot as a method to help finance construction of a new township hall.

In other action last night, the council referred to its ordinance committee a proposal to write a more restrictive anti-burning ordinance. The present ordinance prohibits burning that causes noxious fumes only.

The council also agreed to put up "no parking" signs at both ends of the tree lawn at the Theodore Johnson property at 114 East Oak street, providing Johnson pays the $50 cost for the signs. He had requested the prohibition as a means of settling a neighborhood parking dispute.

The council said it will also look into allegations that too many families are living in the house at 106 South Haver street. Neighbors have complained about rubbish and general appearance of the property.

In a related matter, city officials said that when a new city code was adopted earlier this year, the basic property maintenance code adopted previously was accidentally omitted from the new code.

If a housing maintenance code cannot be incorporated into the present code, a new ordinance will be adopted.

Disenchantment, Disillusionment Sweeps Olympics

MONTREAL (AP) — Hey, what's happening to the Olympics? A respected Russian fencing star is caught double-wiring his blade. A Soviet coach is accused of trying to fix the diving competition. Canada boos little Taiwan out of the Games because it doesn't want to blow a fat wheat deal with Mainland China. Some 30 nations, most of them black African, piqued at New Zealand's sports ties with segregationist South Africa, say "New Zealand goes or we go." The International Olympic Committee says New Zealand stays. So Black Africa, en masse, says "to hell with it" and goes home.

A 65-year-old trapshooter from Monaco is disqualified for taking amphetamines. Maybe he just had the gout. And a Canadian yachtsman is hauled in like a bank robber because he squirted some antihistamine up his nose.

An American discus thrower wins a gold medal, then announces, "I won this medal for myself — not the United States." He proceeds to rap the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Some of his less successful teammates take their defeats with a "So what?" attitude — not what the late Vince Lombardi would have ordered. Remember? "Winning isn't everything, it's the only thing."

Shot putter George Woods said, "The Olympics don't seem the same any more." Al Feuerbach, who also tosses the iron ball, called the Games "insane" and said they were just a big carnival staged for the news media. Kathy Schmidt, a javelin thrower, commented, "I'd rather be competing in an all-coners meet at UCLA."

An air of disenchantment and disillusionment is sweeping the time-honored Games. The erosion of principles — permitted if not promulgated by the sacrosanct IOC — is being followed by a deterioration of spirit.

What's happened?

Before the women's javelin competition, Miss Schmidt walked over to introduce herself to Ruth Fuchs of East Germany, the ultimate winner, to congratulate the husky blonde on her world record.

"I'm Kathy Schmidt of the United States...."

That's as far as she got. Miss Fuchs gave her a stare that penetrated like a stiletto, wheeled and walked away.

Shirley Babashoff, the California water whiz who brought along an extra bag to hold all the medals she was supposed to win in swimming, was completely overshadowed by Kornelia Ender and her East German teammates.

Afterward, Shirley, her pique showing, commented that she didn't envy her conquerors and that she would hate to look like all those masculinized German girls, anyway.

This attitude wasn't exactly what Baron Pierre de Coubertin had in mind when he conceived the idea of resurrecting the Olympic Games in 1896.

How much more decay in the foundations of the great spectacle before the massive columns start tumbling, leaving the Games looking like a hillside in ancient Greece, where they were born?

How many more principles can be compromised by the weak-kneed IOC? How much more doping, political squabbling and flagrant cheating can the Games endure? How much more money must be spent, how much must the event be hyped by commercialism to keep the Games floating on an unrealistic cloud?

Are the Games really facing — as some high-placed Olympic chiefs predict — possible early destruction? If not, where is there a soul as strong as that of de Coubertin or the late Avery Brundage to apply the brakes?

Some of the competitors' disenchantment is understandable. The Games are too big, too expensive, too politically diseased.

They have become hassles for everybody — the organizers, the athletes, the press. They are not fun any more.

Give Feuerbach points on one of his arguments. The Games have become a giant television enterprise — a world-wide spectacular in which millions of dollars change hands.

The competitors' rationale — the rationale apparently of Feuerbach, discus champ Mac Wilkins and Kathy Schmidt, among others: "Why should we go through all this turmoil on a $5 per diem so that TV can sell more automobiles and razor blades?"

The gold medal has lost some of its lustre. Some call the Olympics "just an oversized track meet." There has been a definite decline in the old patriotic fervor.

Americans are bothered because the Russians and East Germans are state-subsidized and are technical pros. They resent losing medals to the East Germans, who turn out champions on an assembly line the way we turn out Fords and Chevrolets.

Yet nothing is ever said about the development of American athletes on free scholarships, costing between $20,000 and $30,000 for four years.

Open Olympics isn't the answer. The answer is less extravagance, less politics, less jealousy, more understanding, more "live and let live," more strong-willed leaders.

Yugoslavia Stuns Russians, Reaches Finals

U.S. Cagers After Gold

By BOB GREEN

MONTREAL (AP) — The United States, which now appears to have very little chance of leading the Olympics in either gold or total medals, looks to its basketball team for the restoration of misplaced prestige tonight.

"We came here to play for the gold medal, and that's what we're doing," said All-American Scott May of Indiana.

"It doesn't matter who we're playing. We didn't come here to play Russia. We came to win the gold."

The Russians, controversial winners over the United States in the 1972 Olympic final — which Americans regarded as an enormous blow to their prestige — will be missing this time. They lost to tough Yugoslavia 88-84 last night shortly before the Americans advanced with a convincing 96-77 decision over Canada in the other semifinal.

"The psychological edge is with Yugoslavia," said American Coach Dean Smith, who observed that several of their players "beking in the NBA."

"I think our players were looking forward to playing Russia, but I told them not to talk about that. I just hope we can play as well against Yugoslavia as we did tonight."

It may have been the Americans' best game. They blew out to an early 22-8 lead and cruised in. They never trailed and led by 17 or more most of the time. May led the balanced American attack with 23 points.

The American women, meanwhile, gained the silver medal with an 83-67 victory over Czechoslovakia while gold-medal winner Russia beat Japan 96-75 in the final games of the round-robin tournament.

The Americans were shut out of victories yesterday, at least partly on Dave Roberts' rain-drenched, unsuccessful gamble in the pole vault that turned gold to bronze. The Yanks now appear destined for a placing behind Russia and possibly East Germany in both gold and total medals.

With the Games more than half over, the United States now holds 21 gold, 23 silver and 17 bronze. Russia has a 27-26-26 count and East Germany has solidified its position as a world athletic power with a 27-17-14 total.

The Americans could make up a little ground — maybe just a little — in today's light schedule.

In addition to their favored basketball team, the Americans have a gold medal possibility in Greg Louganis, a 18-year-old phenomenon from El Cajon, Calif., who qualified first in men's platform diving.

The United States could gain a medal from its equestrian team in Grand Prix jumping, but seemed unlikely to finish higher than second in any of the five yachting classes that are due to end today. The Russians are well-placed in a couple of those events. Russia also figures to gain ground in team saber fencing, superheavyweight weightlifting and light-heavyweight judo. Americans are not expected to score in any of those events.

Track and field athletes have an idle day.

It is in that sport, along with its boxers, that America's slim hopes rest. The boxers have nine men alive with the competition moving into the quarter-finals, but Cuba and Russia also are strong. The prospects in track and field aren't overwhelming.

With 11 men's events completed, the Americans have won only two.

They had a shot at gold in the seven-hour pole vault competition Monday, but Roberts' strategy backfired and the world record-holder at 18 feet, 8 1/4 inches had to settle for the bronze medal.

Roberts, a medical student from Gainesville, Fla., Roberts trailed two men on misses when he chose to pass at 18-2 1/2, figuring he could clear the next height, 18-4 1/2, easily. The five men who vaulted at 18-2 1/2 missed all three tries. As they finished, the drizzling rain became a steady shower. And Roberts missed all three times at 18-4 1/2.

So it went back to the last height cleared, 18-0 1/2. Tadeusz Slusarski of Poland won on fewer misses at that height, with Antti Kalliomaki of Finland second and Roberts third.

In the only other medal events, Bernd Johansson of Sweden won cycling's individual road race and Valentin Khristov of Bulgaria took the heavyweight weightlifting with a total hoist of 600 pounds.

The only other American medals gained in track and field were a silver by 20-year-old Millard Hampton, San Jose, Calif., and a bronze by Phoenix, Ariz., schoolboy sprinter Dwayne Evans, who finished 1-2 behind Jamaica's Don Quarrie, the 200 meter winner in 20.23.

Miklos Nemeth of Hungary set a world record at 310-4 in winning the javelin and Russia's Tatyana Kazankina set another standard with a 1:35.8 time in the women's 800 meters.

Lasse Viren of Finland, winner of the 5,000 and 10,000 meter runs in 1972, made a rare repeat in the 10,000 and now has a chance to become the first man ever to win both the distance races in consecutive Olympics.

Siegmar Siegl led an East German sweep in the women's pentathlon. She and teammate Christine Laser each finished the two-day competition with 4,746 points, and Miss Siegl was declared the winner on the basis of better performances in head-to-head competition.

Al Cange, a bouncer in a bar at Plainfield, N.J., provided the United States with a surprise bronze in the heavyweight judo competition. Sergei Novikov of Russia won the gold.

In the only other medal events, Bernd Johansson of Sweden won cycling's individual road race and Valentin Khristov of Bulgaria took the heavyweight weightlifting with a total hoist of 600 pounds.

Crowds Key Western Am Success

How do you get more than 24,000 spectators to watch an amateur golf tournament?

Just a few years ago that question would have been ridiculous even to ask, but since 1971 when the Western Amateur tournament established a home at Point O'Woods Golf & Country Club, it has become the great mystery of amateur golf.

Nobody really has the answer. "We were surprised when we saw the crowds start to come," admits Marshall Dann, executive director of the Western Golf Association.

"I'd like to think that I was smart enough to have foreseen this happening, but that's not true. It's been a development, rather than something that was planned and plotted."

Whatever the reason, the crowds did start to come in increasingly large numbers.

In 1974 — the fourth consecutive year the Western Amateur was held at Point O'Woods — the tournament in five days attracted a total of 24,231 fans, including a staggering total of 12,548 on the final day.

"On the last day of that tournament, we had more fans than all other amateur tournaments in the country," Dann says with a mixture of pride and disbelief. "People at Point O'Woods have no idea what other amateur tournaments are like."

"When Curtis Strange played Vinnie Giles in the U.S. Amateur there were maybe 100 spectators following them around. For the same match in the Western Amateur, we'd have thousands."

Part of the tournament's success at Point O'Woods certainly stems from the fact that it has found a permanent home, giving residents of the area the chance to become increasingly familiar with the high quality of amateur golf and its constantly-changing galaxy of stars.

But in a very real sense, Point O'Woods and fans from the surrounding area earned the right to call the Western Amateur their own.

"There was a lot of thought against having a permanent site for the tournament," Dann says. "We always had moved it around the country and we never had the slightest idea of going to a course every year."

"In 1963 and 1965 the attendance was good, but we still didn't come back again until 1971. But once we saw the crowds starting to come, we changed our thinking."

"It now would look absurd to move the tournament in there every other year of every fifth year. We're happy, I think the club is happy and I know the golfers are happy."

Success breeds success, and it has been for the Western Amateur. Increasing crowds and the spreading reputation of the beautiful and challenging Robert Trent Jones course have attracted larger and larger numbers of entries — a record 515 last year.

And as more and more of the leading amateurs — most from the college ranks — have entered the tournament each year, it has become an increasingly popular attraction for sports fans.

It has also soared in prestige.

"The prestige of a tournament is something people give you — you don't reach out and grab it," Dann says. "There's no doubt the prestige of the Western Amateur has grown tremendously since we've started coming to Point O'Woods."

"Everybody says the U.S. Amateur is the No. 1 amateur tournament and we're No. 2, but I know we play on a better golf course, I think we run the tournament better and now we're getting the best players."

"As long as Point O'Woods will have us, I can't imagine ever moving somewhere else."

"In 1963 and 1965 the attendance was good, but we still didn't come back again until 1971. But once we saw the crowds starting to come, we changed our thinking. "It now would look absurd to move the tournament in there every other year of every fifth year. We're happy, I think the club is happy and I know the golfers are happy." Success breeds success, and it has been for the Western Amateur. Increasing crowds and the spreading reputation of the beautiful and challenging Robert Trent Jones course have attracted larger and larger numbers of entries — a record 515 last year. And as more and more of the leading amateurs — most from the college ranks — have entered the tournament each year, it has become an increasingly popular attraction for sports fans. It has also soared in prestige.

"The prestige of a tournament is something people give you — you don't reach out and grab it," Dann says. "There's no doubt the prestige of the Western Amateur has grown tremendously since we've started coming to Point O'Woods. "Everybody says the U.S. Amateur is the No. 1 amateur tournament and we're No. 2, but I know we play on a better golf course, I think we run the tournament better and now we're getting the best players. "As long as Point O'Woods will have us, I can't imagine ever moving somewhere else."

MSU GREETING: Ed Tiscornia, Twin Cities Rotary Club July program chairman, greets Michigan State athletic director Joseph Kearney Monday after the Rotary Club meeting. Kearney, picked as the new Spartan AD in April, was the featured speaker at Monday's meeting. (Staff photo)

Kearney Plans To Improve Spartans New MSU AD Positive Thinker

By JACK WALKER

Staff Sports Writer

New Michigan State athletic director Dr. Joseph Kearney has been characterized by some as the new Messiah for the Spartan athletic program.

And despite MSU's current problems, including football probation, Kearney is positive the program can be turned around.

Michigan State's football program received three years of probation following recruiting violations. But Kearney, here for Monday's Twin City Rotary Club meeting, said his goal is to "come out of probation stronger than we went in."

"The situation is not as big as people think," he said. "I think when you come in, you become fully apprised of the negative aspects. We cannot be on television. There will be no bowl appearances. And next year we will have five less scholarships."

"But then you have to start sorting out the positive aspects, too. Really the probation is not three years anymore, anyway. It's two years and six months and counting down. The toughest sales job was last year. This year's class will be on probation for only half of their college careers. And next year it will only be for their freshmen year."

"Since coming here I've gotten a distinct feeling of coming together. This probation is not a mortal wound, but just a flesh wound. With our new look, new program and new staff, we have new enthusiasm."

Kearney, a positive thinker, has already made changes in MSU's athletic structure, especially along the lines of recruiting, hiring and women's sports.

He hopes to develop a recruiting system which will be "uniquely ours" and one which will keep the present problem in football from happening again.

"We would like to develop a system of communication with all of our alumni," he said. "We want a good communication which is credible so that there is no misunderstanding in the way we operate. We want to organize all of our resources and get people working in the fashion that we outline. That should make us competitive with every school which we're recruiting against."

Kearney feels that MSU's recruiting base must be built in the state of Michigan.

Named athletic director in April, Kearney's first job was to hire two new coaches — one in football and another in basketball.

"Our first and foremost goal in hiring is to hire the people who are coaching for the right reason," he said. "We want to get a guy who when he looks at the team, he sees people and not Xs and Os on a chart."

"Secondly, we want someone who looks at the players as a student because his first and foremost goal at a university is to get an education. And finally we want to provide the best coach, one who knows how to motivate, knows how to teach and will give the youngster a chance to reach his potential."

Kearney believes he hired two such people with his first two appointments. Darryl Rogers from San Jose State got the football job, with Montana's Jud Heathcote named basketball coach.

Rogers is highly sought after even in the professional football circles. He was one of the finalists last summer for the San Francisco 49ers job and according to Kearney "if we lose him to anything in the near future, it will be to pro football."

Heathcote never had a losing season at Montana after taking over a down-graded cage program. When he took over, Montana was averaging just over 1,000 fans per game and when he left that figure had increased to 7,000. Montana's claim to fame last year was a last-minute three-point loss to UCLA in the NCAA regionals.

With Title IX attempting to bring at least partial equalization of women's athletics, Kearney has already started upgrading that program. Last year's budget was more than $170,000 and it will be increased this year.

Kearney also plans to add $30,000 to the women's budget this fall for financial aid.

"For the first time ever we're going to provide financial aid for women's sports," Kearney said. "The money can be provided in whatever style that the women's system wants."

Meanwhile, because of the unsure financial aspects of Title IX, Kearney has been unable to finalize any increase in financial help to the non-revenue sports at MSU.

"We have to decide how well we can meet the Title IX commitments and then decide on other avenues," he said.

Kearney may just be the savior that MSU's athletic program has been looking for.

2,000th Career Strikeout Gives Sutton Needed Lift

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Carl Morton struck out Monday night, he just wanted to forget it.

Don Sutton wanted to remember it, though. It was the 2,000th strikeout of his career.

"I've been thinking about it since last year," said the Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher after reaching the milestone during a 6-2 decision over the Atlanta Braves.

"It's a big thrill — to know that only 27 other guys have done it. It's a shot in the arm and it's nice to get it and have it behind me."

Joining the "2,000 Club" gives Sutton a needed lift. His season has been nothing to write home about so far.

Sutton, 31, fell behind by surrendering two runs in the first inning. But after giving up a harmless leadoff double to Bill Pucoroba in the second, he retired 19 of the next 20 batters. He struck out nine and walked four, finishing with a five-hitter.

Morton, 1-8, was tagged for the loss and was the victim of Sutton's 2,000th strikeout in the second inning.

"He was fighting control early in the game," said Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston of Sutton. "He was running the count full in the first inning or two and it was a hot night to be doing that. But he straightened out and pitched a heck of a game."

In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds beat the San Francisco Giants 9-3; the Philadelphia Phillies triumphed over the New York Mets 4-1; the Houston Astros blanked the San Diego Padres 7-0 and the Montreal Expos took a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and 3-1. The Pittsburgh-St. Louis game was called by rain.

Pete Rose hit his third leadoff home run in a week and Fred Norman pitched a seven-hitter as Cincinnati beat San Francisco. Rose lined the second pitch of the game from John Montefusco, 9-9, over the right field wall to trigger the Cincinnati scoring and George Foster and Dan Driessen paced the Reds' attack with four hits each.

Mike Schmidt blasted a triple, double and single and scored the winning run on a wild pitch in the sixth inning to lead Philadelphia over New York. Larry Christenson, 8-5, was the winner with relief help from Tug McGraw.

Larry Dierker, making his first Houston appearance since his July 9 no-hitter, fired a two-hitter, leading Houston over San Diego.

Dierker, 10-8, rode a three-RBI performance by Bob Watson in fashioning his third shutout of the season. San Diego starter Dan Spillner, 2-10, absorbed the loss.

Ellis Valentine's two-run homer in the sixth inning backed Don Stanhouse's seven-hitter as Montreal beat Chicago in the first game. Steve Dunning, an American League castoff, and Dale Murray combined to hurl a three-hitter as Montreal stopped Chicago in the second game.

Heritage, owned by Don Wildman of Chicago, was second in, leading a pack of six yachts that all arrived between 5 and 6 p.m. EDT.

In the order they arrived, the boats were: Ranger, owned by P. Craig Welch of Spring Lake, Mich.; Masker, Robert B. Way, Erie, Pa.; Bonaventure V, W. B. Herman, Toronto; Scaramouche, Chuck Kirsch, Chicago; and Sassy, Dutch Schmidt, Detroit.

Adjusted times, which determine winners of the various classes, will be determined later.

Heritage had a 40-mile lead on a group of yachts, including Sassy, Ranger, Scaramouche, Wind Dancer and Tenacious.

The boat race began at noon Saturday in Chicago. The race committee reported Monday that three vessels had withdrawn from the race after losing their masts, and were putting in to port.

Dora IV First In Yacht Race

MACKINAC Island, Mich. (AP) — Lynn Williams' Dora IV is the unofficial winner in her class after being first across the finish line Monday in the Chicago-to-Mackinac yacht race.

Dora IV, out of the Chicago Yacht Club, flew out of the mist and under the Mackinac Bridge riding a 20-knot wind to cross the line at approximately 2:11 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time, nearly three hours ahead of her closest follower.

Heritage, owned by Don Wildman of Chicago, was second in, leading a pack of six yachts that all arrived between 5 and 6 p.m. EDT.

Cage Battle On TV

MONTREAL (AP) — The United States and Yugoslavia, an upset victor Monday over the Soviet Union, will battle for gold in men's basketball tonight as ABC-TV's Summer Olympics coverage continues.

The game begins at 9 p.m. EDT. The network will televise 3 1/2 hours of the Games, from 7:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. EDT, with a 15-minute wrapup at 11:30 p.m.

Exact events to be telecast won't be known until shortly before air time because much of the programming is live.

Other top attractions Tuesday include:

—Boxing quarter-finals, with several U.S. fighters in contention for medals.

—Men's platform diving finals.

—Weightlifting finals, super heavyweight class, starring Russia's world record holder Vasily Alexeev.

—Individual competition in the grand prix jumping portion of the equestrian program.

Kim Doty slammed a home run, a double and a single Monday as Bargain Center clinched the league title with a 19-1 women's softball win over Cavalier's.

Both teams added three doubles to the winner's attack. Betty Wells picked up the win for Bargain Center, now 8-1 in league play.

SJ's Physical Exams Slated

Physical examinations for St. Joseph high school athletes planning to participate in sports during the upcoming school year will be held from 8-8 p.m. today in room 156 of the high school.

Boys and girls in grades seven to nine will have their physicals Aug. 3 and 5, respectively.

There is a $5 fee. High school athletes unable to have physicals this week will be able to report on the Aug. 3 and 5 dates.

Blyleven Enjoys Minnesota Return

FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bert Blyleven still finds Minnesota a nice place to visit, even though he wouldn't want to live there any more.

In his first trip back since Minnesota traded him to Texas almost two months ago, Blyleven silenced the "Twins" bats and their cheering fans by pitching the Rangers to a two-hit 10 victory.

"I am growing up now," said the 25-year-old right-hander, who was sent packing after he failed to come to salary terms with the Twins and issued verbal blasts at their management and supporters.

As well as saluting the fans with an impolite gesture in his final appearance before the deal.

"I am a Texas Ranger and not a Twin," he said. "I was light-headed all day and couldn't wait to get going. I had a feeling I would pitch a shutout."

The only Minnesota hits off Blyleven were an infield single by Steve Braun and a clean single by Craig Kusick. Blyleven struck out nine.

He was booed throughout most of the game and responded by tipping his cap and bowing to the crowd after each inning.

Minnesota's Rod Carew was ejected by umpire Jim Evans for the first time in his 10-year career after he was called out trying to steal second base in the fourth inning and slammed down his helmet. After returning to the dugout, Carew showered the field with bats before being restrained. Then, after things quieted down, Carew tossed a baseball toward Evans, missing the umpire by a few feet.

In other American League action, the Kansas City Royals blanked the California Angels 4-0, the Oakland A's shaded the Chicago White Sox 3-1, the Baltimore Orioles cooled off the New York Yankees 3-1, the Cleveland Indians drubbed the Boston Red Sox 9-4 and the Detroit Tigers nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3 in 13 innings.

Al Fitzmorris hurled a six-hitter and Kansas City got maximum mileage from four scratch hits to hand Norm Sherry his first loss in four games as the Angels' new manager. California's Nolan Ryan, who suffered his fourth loss in a row and 13th in 20 decisions, walked George Brett and John Mayberry with two out in the first inning and Amos Otis drove them both home with a double. In the third, Brett was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and came home on Mayberry's broken-bat single.

Sal Bando hit his 20th home run and Bert Campaneris drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly, giving Paul Mitchell his fourth straight victory with relief help from Rolfe Fingers.

The Baltimore Orioles jumped on Catfish Hunter for three early runs, one a solo homer by Al Bumbry, and beat the Yankees on Ross Grimsley's six-hit pitching. Hunter yielded two first-inning runs on doubles by Bobby Grich and Reggie Jackson and a single by Lee May. Bumbry homered in the third.

Rico Carty drove in four runs with a pair of doubles, Duane Kuiper collected three hits and Rick Manning homered as the Indians banded the staggering Red Sox their sixth consecutive setback. The Indians shelved Luis Tiant, who allowed seven hits and five runs in 11 1/3 innings and failed to finish the second inning for the second game in a row.

Jim Crawford, who replaced starter Frank MacCormack after three walks in the first inning, retired 22 consecutive batters and came within three outs of a combined no-hitter.

Milwaukee didn't get a hit until George Scott opened the night with a single. Crawford allowed three hits in 10 innings but lost a chance at his first triumph of the season when John Hiller allowed a game-tying single to Hank Aaron in the 11th.

Jason Thompson and Rusty Staub homered for the Tigers, who scored the winning run on 13th-inning singles by Staub, Thompson and Ben Ogilvie.

Kearney Plans To Improve Spartans

New MSU AD Positive Thinker

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

New Michigan State athletic director Dr. Joseph Kearney has been characterized by some as the new Messiah for the Spartan athletic program.

And despite MSU's current problems, including football probation, Kearney is positive the program can be turned around.

Michigan State's football program received three years of probation following recruiting violations. But Kearney, here for Monday's Twin City Rotary Club meeting, said his goal is to "come out of probation stronger than we went in."

"The situation is not as big as people think," he said. "I think when you come in, you become fully apprised of the negative aspects. We cannot be on television. There will be no bowl appearances. And next year we will have five less scholarships."

"But then you have to start sorting out the positive aspects, too. Really the probation is not three years anymore, anyway. It's two years and six months and counting down. The toughest sales job was last year. This year's class will be on probation for only half of their college careers. And next year it will only be for their freshmen year.

"Since coming here I've gotten a distinct feeling of coming together. This probation is not a mortal wound, but just a flesh wound. With our new look, new program and new staff, we have new enthusiasm."

Kearney, a positive thinker, has already made changes in MSU's athletic structure, especially along the lines of recruiting, hiring and women's sports.

He hopes to develop a recruiting system which will be "uniquely ours" and one which will keep the present problem in football from happening again.

"We would like to develop a system of communication with all of our alumni," he said. "We want a good communication which is creditable so that there is no misunderstanding in the way we operate. We want to organize all of our resources and get people working in the fashion that we outline. That should make us competitive with every school which we're recruiting against."

Kearney feels that MSU's recruiting base must be built in the state of Michigan.

Named athletic director in April, Kearney's first job was to hire two new coaches — one in football and another in basketball.

"Our first and foremost goal in hiring is to hire the people who are coaching for the right reason," he said. "We want to get a guy who when he looks at the team, he sees people and not Xs and Os on a chart."

"Secondly, we want someone who looks at the players as a student because his first and foremost goal at a university is to get an education. And finally we want to provide the best coach, one who knows how to motivate, knows how to teach and will give the youngster a chance to reach his potential."

Kearney believes he hired two such people with his first two appointments. Darryl Rogers from San Jose State got the football job, with Montana's Jud Heathcote named basketball coach.

Rogers is highly sought after even in the professional football circles. He was one of the finalists last summer for the San Francisco 49er job and according to Kearney "if we lose him to anything in the near future, it will be to pro football."

Heathcote never had a losing season at Montana after taking over a down-graded cage program. When he took over, Montana was averaging just over 1,800 fans per game and when he left that figure had increased to 7,800. Montana's claim to fame last year was a last-minute three-point loss to UCLA in the NCAA regionals.

With Title IX attempting to bring at least partial equalization of women's athletics, Kearney has already started upgrading that program. Last year's budget was more than $170,000 and it will be increased this year.

Kearney also plans to add $30,000 to the women's budget this fall for financial aid.

"For the first time ever we're going to meet the Title IX requirements for women's sports," Kearney said. "The money can be provided in whatever style that the women's system wants."

Meanwhile, because of the unsure financial aspects of Title IX, Kearney has been unable to finalize any increase in financial help to the non-revenue sports at MSU.

"We have to decide how well we can meet the Title IX commitments and then decide on other avenues," he said.

Kearney may just be the savior that MSU's athletic program has been looking for.

2,000th Career Strikeout Gives Sutton Needed Lift

When Carl Morton struck out Monday night, he just wanted to forget it.

The boat race began at noon Saturday in Chicago.

The race committee reported Monday that three vessels had withdrawn from the race after losing their masts, and were putting in to port.

Cage Battle On TV

MONTREAL (AP) — The United States and Yugoslavia, an upset victor Monday over the Soviet Union, will battle for gold in men's basketball tonight as ABC-TV's Summer Olympics coverage continues.

The game begins at 9 p.m., EDT. The network will televise 3 1/2 hours of the Games, from 7:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., EDT, with a 15-minute wrapup at 11:30 p.m.

Exact events to be telecast won't be known until shortly before air time because much of the programming is live. Other top attractions Tuesday include:

—Boxing quarter-finals, with several U.S. fighters in contention for medals.

—Men's platform diving finals.

—Weightlifting finals, super heavyweight class, starring Russia's world record holder Vasily Alexeev.

—Individual competition in the grand prix jumping portion of the equestrian program.

Bargain Center Champ

Kim Doty slammed a home run, a double and a single Monday as Bargain Center clinched the league title with a 19-1 women's softball win over Cavalier's.

Beth Reum added three doubles to the winner's attack. Betty Wells picked up the win for Bargain Center, now 8-1 in league play.

In other action, Monday, Hackers Orchards tripped Midwest 13-7 and Millburg Speedway ripped K.C. Lakers 9-1.

Tammie Vladic posted the pitching win for Hackers. Cindy Maddox slammed three hits for the winners. Val Vincent belted a home run and a triple and Kim Brown had two singles for Midwest.

Karen Leitz collected a triple and a single in Millburg's win. Roberta Salay added a double and a single and Barb Mileski gained the victory. Kitt O'Malley and Cheryl Hemingway each had two hits for KC's.

Blyleven Enjoys Minnesota Return

FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bert Blyleven still finds Minnesota a nice place to visit, even though he wouldn't want to live there any more.

In his first trip back since Minnesota traded him to Texas almost two months ago, Blyleven silenced the Twins' bats and their cheering fans by pitching the Rangers to a two-hit 3-0 victory.

"I am growing up now," said the 25-year-old right-hander, who was sent packing after he failed to come to salary terms with the Twins and issued verbal blasts at their management and supporters, as well as saluting the fans with an impolite gesture in his final appearance before the deal.

"I am a Texas Ranger and not a Twin," he said. "I was light-headed all day and couldn't wait to get going. I had a feeling I would pitch a shutout."

The only Minnesota hits off Blyleven were an infield single by Steve Braun and a clean single by Craig Kusick. Blyleven struck out nine.

He was booed throughout most of the game and responded by tipping his cap and bowing to the crowd after each inning.

Minnesota's Rod Carew was ejected by umpire Jim Evans for the first time in his 10-year career after he was called out trying to steal second base in the fourth inning and slammed down his helmet. After returning to the dugout, Carew showered the field with bats before being restrained. Then, after things quieted down, Carew tossed a baseball toward Evans, missing the umpire by a few feet.

In other American League action, the Kansas City Royals blanked the California Angels 4-0, the Oakland A's shaded the Chicago White Sox 3-1, the Baltimore Orioles cooled off the New York Yankees 3-1, the Cleveland Indians drubbed the Boston Red Sox 9-4 and the Detroit Tigers nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3 in 13 innings.

Al Fitzmorris hurled a six-hitter and Kansas City got maximum mileage from four scratch hits to hand Norm Sherry his first loss in four games as the Angels' new manager. California's Nolan Ryan, who suffered his fourth loss in a row and 13th in 20 decisions, walked George Brett and John Mayberry with two out in the first inning and Amos Otis drove them both home with a double. In the third, Brett was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and came home on Mayberry's broken-bat single.

Sal Bando hit his 20th home run and Bert Campaneris drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly, giving Paul Mitchell his fourth straight victory with relief help from Rolie Fingers.

The Baltimore Orioles jumped on Catfish Hunter for three early runs, one a solo homer by Al Bumbry, and beat the Yankees on Ross Grimsley's six-hit pitching. Hunter yielded two first-inning runs on doubles by Bobby Grich and Reggie Jackson and a single by Lee May. Bumbry homered in the third.

Rico Carty drove in four runs with a pair of doubles. Duane Kuiper collected three hits and Rick Manning homered as the Indians handed the staggering Red Sox their sixth consecutive setback. The Indians shelled Luis Tiant, who allowed seven hits and five runs in 11-3 innings and failed to finish the second inning for the second game in a row.

Jim Crawford, who replaced starter Frank MacCormack after three walks in the first inning, retired 22 consecutive batters and came within three outs of a combined no-hitter. Milwaukee didn't get a hit until George Scott opened the ninth with a single. Crawford allowed three hits in 10 innings but lost a chance at his first triumph of the season when John Hiller allowed a game-tying single to Hank Aaron in the 11th.

Jason Thompson and Rusty Staub homered for the Tigers, who scored the winning run on 13th-inning singles by Staub, Thompson and Ben Oglivie.

All Seasons Set, Except Waterfowl

Michigan hunting seasons for this fall are set, with the exception of waterfowl, traditionally set in late August after federal options are offered.

Most seasons were established last month, but deer regulations were approved only recently at the July meeting of the Natural Resources Commission.

Licensed firearm hunters will be able to stalk bucks statewide during the Nov. 15-30 season, some with special permits will hunt deer of either sex in designated Hunter's Choice areas of southern Lower Michigan between Nov. 15-21 and during Nov. 15-30 in designated areas of the Upper Peninsula and the northern Lower Peninsula.

Above the Straits, the 1976 firearms season will be limited to bucks only hunting except for 951 square miles of Hunter's Choice areas in Menominee and small parts of Dickinson and Delta counties, where Department of Natural Resources biologists say the deer herd is too large for the supply of natural foods.

From a total of 115,590 Hunter's Choice permits authorized for distribution this fall, the Commission accepted a DNR wildlife division recommendation to issue 48,760 permits in the northern Lower Peninsula and 59,450 in the southern Lower Peninsula.

In the Upper Peninsula, 7,380 permits will be issued, 8,520 less than proposed by the DNR staff. The Commission ruled out antlerless hunting this fall in the eastern Upper Peninsula, following the advice of DNR director Howard A. Tanner, who pointed out that "general public acceptance of this harvest under the proposed system is nonexistent."

The Commission also turned down a DNR plan that would have given landowners in specified "drop damage areas" in the Lower Peninsula special privileges to take deer of either sex during the November season. Instead, the Commission increased the Hunter's Choice harvest quota in Lower Peninsula crop damage areas by 6,270.

The fall hunting schedule follows, with Zone 1 referring to the Upper Peninsula, Zone 2 to the northern Lower Peninsula, and Zone 3 to the southern Lower Peninsula.

DEER: Firearms — Nov. 15-30 statewide, limit one antlered buck (unless the hunter possesses a valid antlerless permit); Bow and Arrow — Oct. 1-Nov. 14, Dec. 1-31 statewide, limit one deer of either sex; Muzzle Loading — Dec. 3-12 statewide, limit one antlered buck.

BEAR: Firearms — Sept. 10-Oct. 31, Zone 1; Sept. 17-26, Zone 2; both under special bear license, use of dogs permitted, (3,000 special free permits are required for Zone 2 hunts, limited to Emmet, Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Charlevoix, Osego, Montmorency, Alpena, Kalkaska, Crawford, Oscoda, Alcona, Iosco and Ogemaw counties and Roscommon County, east of US-27); Nov. 15-30, Zone 1, under the firearms deer license; Archery — Oct. 1-Nov. 14, Zone 1, under archery deer license, no dogs allowed; limit is one bear per year.

SQUIRREL: Sept. 15-Nov. 10, statewide limits are five daily and 10 a possession; Fox squirrels are illegal in Zone 1 and no squirrel hunting is allowed on Bois Blanc island.

BOBCAT: Zone 1, Oct. 25-March 31, Zone 2, Jan. 1-Feb. 28 (Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Osego, Montmorency and Alpena counties only); no bag limit.

PHEASANT: (Regular Season): Zone 1, Oct. 10-20 (Menominee County south of US-2 and Delta county, south and west of Escanaba River only); Zones 2 and 3, Oct. 20-Nov. 10; bag limit is two male birds daily, four in possession, birds taken in pull-trap areas count toward the legal bag limit.

PUT-TAKE PHEASANT: Aug. 16-Nov. 14 and Dec. 1-Jan. 2 of Barry, Danville, Detroit, Flat River, Gourdneck, Grafton, Saginaw, Gregory, Lapeer, Portland, Rouge River, Sharonville, Stanton and Three Rivers State Game Areas, Holly Recreation Area and in part of the Tittabawassee State Forest near Gladwin; and Sept. 15-Nov. 14 and Dec. 1-Jan. 2, 1977, in five additional state recreation areas, Bald Mountain, Ionia, Pinckney, Sleepy Hollow and Wetzel. Limit two a day, any sex.

SHARPTAILED GROUSE: Oct. 1-20, Zone 1 only (Alcona, Delta, Iron and Marquette counties, plus Chippewa County, except Drummond Island, part of Dickinson County); bag limit is one daily and two in possession.

RUFFED GROUSE: Zone 1, Sept. 15-Nov. 13; Zone 2, Sept. 15-Nov. 14 and Dec. 1-31; Zone 3, Oct. 20-Nov. 14 and Dec. 1-31 (except portions of the Grafton-Saginaw State Game Area); bag limit is daily, 10 a possession.

RABBIT: Zone 1, Oct. 1-March 31; Zone 2, Oct. 1-March 31; Zone 3, Oct. 20-March 31; bag limit five daily, 10 a possession.

MUSKRAT: (trapping): Zone 1, Oct. 25-Dec. 31; Zone 2, Nov. 1-Jan. 15; Zone 3, Nov. 22-Jan. 31 (several local exceptions, check game digest); no bag limit.

RACCOON: Hunting — Statewide, Oct. 1-Jan. 31; Trapping — Zone 1, Oct. 25-Dec. 31; Zone 2, Nov. 1-Jan. 15; Zone 3, Nov. 22-Jan. 31 (several local exceptions, check game digest); no bag limit.

MINK: (trapping and hunting): Zone 1, Oct. 25-Dec. 31; Zone 2, Nov. 1-Jan. 15; Zone 3, Nov. 22-Jan. 31 (local exceptions); no bag limit.

Outdoor Trail

Thousands of acres of Michigan's wetlands will gradually be saved from destruction by land development if the sales of the state's first waterfowl stamp proves successful, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

A recently approved bill has set up the funding mechanism for the state's wetland protection program, which requires waterfowl hunters to purchase a $2.10 stamp in addition to a small game license and a federal migratory game bird hunting stamp.

Of the money collected for each stamp, $1.90 will be used to inventory and purchase Michigan wetlands. The money will be in addition to regular appropriations for the program. All wetlands purchased would have to be approved by the Legislature.

The remaining 20 cents of revenue from the Michigan stamp will be equally divided to finance an evaluation of the wetlands program and for administration, say the DNR.

All Michigan hunters (except residents age 65 or older) must have the stamp to hunt wild geese, ducks, mergansers, coots, gallinules, jacksnipe or rails.

Michigan waterfowl hunters must use shotgun shells loaded with non-toxic "steel" shot starting in 1977 as a result of Natural Resources Commission action aimed at ending the lethal secondary effect of poisoning of ducks and geese from spent lead shot.

In a unanimous vote, the Commission passed a resolution stating that "steel" or iron shot is "the only non-toxic material presently available that meets acceptable biological, ballistic and cost standards as a substitute for lead."

Continued use of lead shot shells for hunting of waterfowl will "only perpetuate the lead poisoning problem," the Commission noted.

An estimated two to three million waterfowl die annually from feeding on spent lead shot in the U.S., which the Commission declared is a "needless waste."

The Commission action is in line with a recent order by the U.S. Secretary of the Interior, establishing a timetable for conversion to the non-toxic shot in the states of the Mississippi Flyway (which includes Michigan) by 1977. States along the Atlantic Flyway must convert this year.

FIRING LINE: More than 90 shooters participated in a two-day muzzleloading event over the weekend at the Berrien County Sportsman's Club. The event, sponsored by the Gunsmoke Valley Muzzleloaders, saw Maylan Hobday of Union City take overall shooting honors with 135 out of a possible 150 points. A new trophy shoot event was added to the competition this year, and W Pinkerton of Benton Harbor emerged the winner.

MOUNTAIN MEN: Among shooters in the two-day muzzleloading event over the weekend at the Berrien County Sportsman's Club were "mountain men" Dave Schippers (left) and Marc Fox of Kalamazoo.

Fishing Report

The average size of perch being caught in Lake Michigan off southwestern Michigan are larger than last year, according to a Department of Natural Resources report.

Most perch have been in the eight to 10-inch class this season, says the DNR, with some 1½-pound jumbos of 13 inches and longer. Many of the larger fish have been taken from the rock area south of South Haven.

Crawfish is the "in" bait, declares the DNR.

Lake Michigan trawlers continue to take salmon and lake trout off area ports. Many of the coho salmon, which will be part of this fall's spawning runs, are now in the eight-pound range.

The best success, according to the DNR, has been over 55 to 140 feet of water, with the salmon being taken in at the shallower depths.

On inland lakes, underwater lures appear to be best for bass. Better waters have included Osterhout Lake in Allegan county, the St. Joseph River (smallmouths) in Berrien county, Barron and Diamond Lakes in Cass county and Rush Lake in Van Buren.

Fishing with catpaw worms and crickets in deeper water — 18 to 20 feet down — has produced fair to good catches of bluegills in Painter, Juno, Christian and Stone Lakes in Cass county.

Northern pike fishing has generally been slow, but some of the better angling has been in the Paw Paw River in Berrien county.

Michigan Sheriff, Ex-Aide Indicted

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — Eaton County Sheriff Eugene Hoag and one of his primary election opponents have been indicted by a 17-member grand jury over their handling of a 1971 murder investigation.

Hoag, 47, was indicted Monday on three counts of perjury, three of wilful neglect of duty, two counts of perjury before the grand jury itself and one count of obstructing justice.

The grand jury also instructed the special prosecutor to petition Gov. William Milliken for immediate removal of Hoag as sheriff. Milliken can order the removal following a hearing.

The petition was expected to be filed late this week or early next week.

The obstruction charge says Hoag impeded the administration of criminal laws by "suppressing evidence favorable to the accused."

Hoag is known as a tough law-and-order sheriff.

He has been in the department 15 years and his deputies have arrested such notables as Southern Michigan Prison Warden Charles Egeler, for intoxicated driving, and Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, for marijuana possession.

Hoag's former chief of detectives, Larry Lee Hamilton, also was indicted. Now a private investigator, Hamilton is trying to unseat Hoag in next week's primary election. Hamilton was charged with one count of perjury, one count of obstructing justice and one count of perjury before the grand jury.

There is one other Republican seeking the nomination for sheriff, Arthur T. Kelsey. No Democrats have filed for the post.

Hoag and Hamilton demanded examination on the charges at their district court arraignment. They were released on a $20,000 personal recognizance bond each. No hearing or trial date was set.

Perjury charges carry a maximum sentence of life in prison.

The grand jury, requested by special prosecutor Joseph Reid of Lansing, apparently wound up its testimony-taking Saturday but decided to wait until Monday to report its findings.

The jury made its report to Eaton County Circuit Court Judge Richard Robinson.

The charges stem from a 1971 murder case, which involved two trials of Richard Morris of Southfield. Morris was accused of murdering Gary Herrero.

The grand jury said Hamilton and Hoag lied when they testified about police actions taken during the investigation of the murder, including the origins of a blanket — with bloodstains — which was introduced as evidence.

The jury said failure to take action despite knowledge of the truth in the matter amounted to neglect of duty and obstruction of justice.

Morris was first convicted of first-degree murder, but the conviction was overturned by the Court of Appeals. During the second trial, the charges were dismissed by a three-judge panel set up to examine the conduct of law enforcement officials.

Both the Court of Appeals and the three-judge panel were critical of Hoag's conduct during the case. Eaton County Prosecutor Paul Berger asked for a special prosecutor because Berger was involved as a witness in some of the incidents of alleged perjury.

Reid, a Lansing attorney, asked for a grand jury to obtain the power to issue subpoenas and take sworn testimony. The grand jury started taking testimony last week.

Vacationer Killed By Car In Storm

By TOM KENNER

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — A 64-year-old Freesoil woman was killed and her husband was injured when a car struck them as they crossed M-140 during one of several heavy rainstorms which hit this area last night.

Mrs. Katherine Balcom, 64, was pronounced dead on arrival at Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo. Her husband, Larry, 74, was treated for a leg injury at South Haven Community hospital and released. The accident occurred south of Blue Star memorial highway, South Haven township.

Mrs. Balcom's death was the 13th on Van Buren county roads this year and the second in as many days on M-140. Sunday night a 15-year-old Coloma girl, Carolyn Smith, was killed in a car-motorcycle accident on M-140 south of Covert.

In last night's accident, troopers said a southbound car driven by Rhonda Carmichael, 18, route 2, Watervliet, struck the Balcom couple as they crossed M-140 about 10:25 p.m. during a heavy rainstorm.

The vacationing couple had just checked into a nearby motel and were walking to a restaurant when the accident occurred. The driver told police she didn't see the couple on the rain-shrouded two-lane unlighted highway. Balcom told police he didn't see the approaching auto. The accident remains under investigation, police said.

The South Haven Agricultural Experiment station reported that 1.32 inches of rain fell house. The Wilmer Stentz home, 365 Center street, received minor damage to the roof from a hot wire.

In other storm accidents, Brian Anthony, 18, 829 Phillips street, South Haven, escaped injury when a tree fell on his compact car on North Shore drive shortly before 10 p.m.

City board of public utility crews worked through the night restoring power which at one point had darkened the central business district.

between 10 p.m. and midnight. The storm was limited to the South Haven area, causing power outages, fallen trees and flooded streets.

In the storm, two city police officers suffered an electrical shock when lightning struck an antenna outside the police station. Patrolmen William Kronbitter and Jennifer Bradley did not require medical attention. The officers were on telephones when the lightning struck. The department's two-way radio base station was damaged.

The storm also caused firemen to respond to four calls triggered when downed power lines set fire to trees and a

U.S. Is Suing Ship Builder

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is going to bat against George M. Steinbrenner 3d's American Ship Building Co. in a fraud suit that could cost the firm its claim to $5.4 million in cost overruns on a government contract.

The Justice Department contends the Cleveland company tried to recoup illegal campaign contributions by padding the extra expenses that it claimed in 1974 for building an oceanographic research vessel.

Power Firms' Rates Adjusted

By SUSAN AGER

Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Customers of Consumers Power Co. and Detroit Edison Co. will pay bigger bills in August to reflect past expenses for power and fuel, under a decision Monday by the Public Service Commission.

Edison residential customers will pay about 92 cents more in August than in July and Consumers customers will pay about 43 cents more.

The Edison increase — amounting to about $13 million — covers the cost of power bought in May from other utilities.

The Consumers increase comes despite a $1.4 million credit being granted to customers as a result of lower fuel costs. Bills will increase because the credit is smaller than what the company returned to rate-payers in July.

The adjustments are made monthly by the PSC to recoup for the companies 90 per cent of what they spend on readymade power purchases or on fuel they use to generate their own electricity.

In a separate action, the PSC said Edison could write off $6.8 million it spent planning the Enrico Fermi III nuclear generating plant that it never built.

That decision will likely cost Edison customers some $3.4 million over a 10-year period, or less than two cents a month each.

In addition, Consumers was told it had to swallow some $645,000 in purchased power costs necessary because its Big Rock Point nuclear generating plant was not operating in May and had not been working as well as it should have for several months before that.

Since the PSC began making monthly adjustments, Edison bills have risen each month, while Consumers has given monthly credits to its customers. PSC chairman Daniel Demlow says, however, that the adjustments should even out by the end of the year.

PSC said Edison could write off through special accounting methods its planning expenses for the Fermi plant because the 1971 decision to build the plant was "reasonable and prudent."

But the commission also said the company could not include the $6.8 million expense in its rate base and earn a profit on it. "There's no investment there," said Demlow. "There's nothing there to benefit the ratepayer."

The plan was cancelled last year when predictions for high future energy demand soured.

Charges for the Fermi costs will not begin until the PSC decides Edison's pending rate request, not likely before the end of this year. In each new rate request the Fermi charge can be dumped if the expense is proven to be unreasonable, the PSC said.

Commissioner William Ralls, who dissented on the Fermi decision, said Edison should have to pay for its mistakes.

Ralls said plans to build the Fermi plant and two other nuclear units were approved by Edison's board of directors without a plan for raising the $2.5 billion the project would cost over four years.

In addition, he said, it was clear by 1973 that earlier forecasts of high future energy use were wrong, but that Edison continued to spend money on the Fermi plant.

"If stocking up on long underwear because of predicted cool summers is 'reasonable and prudent,' then Edison was reasonable and prudent in continuing and accelerating its expenditures on Fermi III through 1974," Ralls said.

Michigan Sheriff, Ex-Aide Indicted

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — Eaton County Sheriff Eugene Hoag and one of his primary election opponents have been indicted by a 17-member grand jury over their handling of a 1971 murder investigation.

Hoag, 47, was indicted Monday on three counts of perjury, three of wilful neglect of duty, two counts of perjury before the grand jury itself and one count of obstructing justice.

The grand jury also instructed the special prosecutor to petition Gov. William Milliken for immediate removal of Hoag as sheriff. Milliken can order the removal following a hearing. The petition was expected to be filed late this week or early next week.

The obstruction charge says Hoag impeded the administration of criminal laws by "suppressing evidence favorable to the accused."

Hoag is known as a tough law-and-order sheriff.

He has been in the department 15 years and his deputies have arrested such notables as Southern Michigan Prison Warden Charles Egeler, for intoxicated driving, and Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, for marijuana possession.

Hoag's former chief of detectives, Larry Lee Hamilton, also was indicted. Now a private investigator, Hamilton is trying to unseat Hoag in next week's primary election. Hamilton was charged with one count of perjury, one count of obstructing justice and one count of perjury before the grand jury.

There is one other Republican seeking the nomination for sheriff, Arthur T. Kelsey. No Democrats have filed for the post.

Hoag and Hamilton demanded examination on the charges at their district court arraignment. They were released on a $20,000 personal recognizance bond each. No hearing or trial date was set.

Perjury charges carry a maximum sentence of life in prison.

The grand jury, requested by special prosecutor Joseph Reid of Lansing, apparently wound up its testimony-taking Saturday but decided to wait until Monday to report its findings. The jury made its report to Eaton County Circuit Court Judge Richard Robinson.

The charges stem from a 1971 murder case, which involved two trials of Richard Morris of Southfield. Morris was accused of murdering Gary Herrero. The grand jury said Hamilton and Hoag lied when they testified about police actions taken during the investigation of the murder, including the origins of a blanket — with bloodstains — which was introduced as evidence.

The jury said failure to take action despite knowledge of the truth in the matter amounted to neglect of duty and obstruction of justice.

Morris was first convicted of first-degree murder, but the conviction was overturned by the Court of Appeals. During the second trial, the charges were dismissed by a three-judge panel set up to examine the conduct of law enforcement officials.

Both the Court of Appeals and the three-judge panel were critical of Hoag's conduct during the case. Eaton County Prosecutor Paul Berger asked for a special prosecutor because Berger was involved as a witness in some of the incidents of alleged perjury.

Reid, a Lansing attorney, asked for a grand jury to obtain the power to issue subpoenas and take sworn testimony. The grand jury started taking testimony last week.

Vacationer Killed By Car In Storm

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A 64-year-old Freesoil woman was killed and her husband was injured when a car struck them as they crossed M-140 during one of several heavy rainstorms which hit this area last night.

Mrs. Katherine Balcom, 64, was pronounced dead on arrival at Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo. Her husband, Harry, 74, was treated for a leg injury at South Haven Community hospital and released. The accident occurred south of Blue Star memorial highway, South Haven township.

Mrs. Balcom's death was the 13th on Van Buren county roads this year and the second in as many days on M-140. Sunday night a 15-year-old Coloma girl, Carolyn Smith, was killed in a car-motorcycle accident on M-140 south of Covert.

In last night's accident, troopers said a southbound car driven by Rhonda Carmichael, 18, route 2, Watervliet, struck the Balcom couple as they crossed M-140 about 10:25 p.m. during a heavy rainstorm.

The vacationing couple had just checked into a nearby motel and were walking to a restaurant when the accident occurred. The driver told police she didn't see the couple on the rain-shrouded two-lane unlighted highway. Balcom told police he didn't see the approaching auto. The accident remains under investigation, police said.

The South Haven Agricultural Experiment station reported that 1.52 inches of rain fell between 10 p.m. and midnight. The storm was limited to the South Haven area, causing power outages, fallen trees and flooded streets.

In the storm, two city police officers suffered an electrical shock when lightning struck an antenna outside the police station. Patrolmen William Kronbetter and Jennifer Bradley did not require medical attention. The officers were on telephones when the lightning struck. The department's two-way radio base station was damaged.

The storm also caused firemen to respond to four calls triggered when downed power lines set fire to trees and a

U.S. Is Suing Ship Builder

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is going to bat against George M. Steinbrenner 3d's American Ship Building Co. in a fraud suit that could cost the firm its claim to $5.4 million in cost overruns on a government contract.

The Justice Department contends the Cleveland company tried to recoup illegal campaign contributions by padding the extra expenses that it claimed in 1974 for building an oceanographic research vessel.

Power Firms' Rates Adjusted

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Customers of Consumers Power Co. and Detroit Edison Co. will pay bigger bills in August to reflect past expenses for power and fuel, under a decision Monday by the Public Service Commission.

Edison residential customers will pay about 92 cents more in August than in July and Consumers customers will pay about 43 cents more.

The Edison increase — amounting to about $13 million — covers the cost of power bought in May from other utilities.

The Consumers increase comes despite a $1.4 million credit being granted to customers as a result of lower fuel costs. Bills will increase because the credit is smaller than what the company returned to rate-payers in July.

The adjustments are made monthly by the PSC to recoup for the companies 90 per cent of what they spend on readymade power purchases or on fuel they use to generate their own electricity.

In a separate action, the PSC said Edison could write off $6.8 million it spent planning the Enrico Fermi III nuclear generating plant that it never built.

That decision will likely cost Edison customers some $3.4 million over a 10-year period, or less than two cents a month each.

In addition, Consumers was told it had to swallow some $645,000 in purchased power costs necessary because its Big Rock Point nuclear generating plant was not operating in May and had not been working as well as it should have for several months before that.

Since the PSC began making monthly adjustments, Edison bills have risen each month, while Consumers has given monthly credits to its customers. PSC chairman Daniel Demlow says, however, that the adjustments should even out by the end of the year.

PSC said Edison could write off through special accounting methods its planning expenses for the Fermi plant because the 1971 decision to build the plant was "reasonable and prudent."

But the commission also said the company could not include the $6.8 million expense in its rate base and earn a profit on it. "There's no investment there," said Demlow. "There's nothing there to benefit the ratepayer."

The plant was cancelled last year when predictions for high future energy demand soured.

Charges for the Fermi costs will not begin until the PSC decides Edison's pending rate request, not likely before the end of this year. In each new rate request the Fermi charge can be dumped if the expense is proven to be unreasonable, the PSC said.

Commissioner William Ralls, who dissented on the Fermi decision, said Edison should have to pay for its mistakes.

Ralls said plans to build the Fermi plant and two other nuclear units were approved by Edison's board of directors without a plan for raising the $2.5 billion the project would cost over four years.

In addition, he said, it was clear by 1973 that earlier forecasts of high future energy use were wrong, but that Edison continued to spend money on the Fermi plant.

"If stocking up on long underwear because of predicted cool summers is 'reasonable and prudent,' then Edison was reasonable and prudent in continuing and accelerating its expenditures on Fermi III through 1974," Ralls said.

Coloma Sets New Rezoning Hearing

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night set Monday, Aug. 16 at 7:30 p.m., as the date for a special meeting to conduct a public hearing on rezoning approximately six acres of land for a proposed 48-unit apartment development.

The hearing was originally slated for last night, but a wrong date in the legal notice published by the Herald-Palladium invalidated the hearing, according to Coloma City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beasley.

Fourteen residents residing near and around the proposed site slated for rezoning attended the meeting to express their opposition toward the rezoning from residential to multi-family, but were told to return at the August hearing by Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall. Petitions against the rezoning were submitted to the commission last night.

Coloma Twp. Planners Approve Subdivision

COLOMA — The Coloma township planning commission last night recommended to the township board that 56 acres of land be rezoned from agricultural to residential use for development into a proposed subdivision. The request was made by Ernest Ferguson during the commission's June meeting.

The property is located off Becht road and is known as "Secluded Acres", according to Charles Abrams, planning commission secretary.

The commission, in recommending the rezoning to the board, stipulated the zoning change include 28 numbered lots and streets included in the parcel, but excluding an unplatted area and property owned by Peter DeGroot. Action on the commission's recommendation is expected by the township board during its Aug. 2 meeting.

site, located on the west side of South Church street, was identified by Mrs. Beasley as James Dine, 4621 Red Arrow highway, Stevensville.

Proposed for the three parcels of land are the construction of three, two-story buildings, containing 24, one-bedroom and 24, two-bedroom apartments.

In other areas, city residents suggested the commission reconsider the scheduled replacement of a traffic light at the corner of St. Joseph street (Red Arrow highway) and Church streets with a four-way stop.

Residents said the crossing is used by school children and the change could create a hazard for the pupils.

The commission voted June 14 to remove the light, with two commissioners Norman Carothers and William Weybright voting against.

Coloma City Assessor Marvin Taylor told the commission he was resigning his position at the end of this year, after holding the post since 1966, because his certification was expiring.

Taylor added the job now requires more time and recommended the commission consider hiring a full-time assessor and take a stand in favor of having the entire county reappraised.

According to Taylor, the city was last reappraised in 1960 along with the county, and should be reappraised.

The commission approved leasing a 24 by 64 foot parcel of city owned property off Logan street to the North Berrien Senior Citizens organization for the site of a portable classroom being converted into a senior citizens center. The lease would be for two years, at a cost of $1 totally, and have a two-year renewal option.

A request to extend the hours of operation of a city recreation center beyond midnight was referred to the city police committee for review and recommendation.

signing of a contract with the state highway commission clearing the way for taking bids on a new Logan street bridge.

The commission took under advisement a storm drain study to learn of problem areas in the city resulting after heavy rainfalls.

The study was suggested for a portion of the city, by city engineers, but the cost of $4,000 was over the budgeted amount for such a study.

The commission approved a police committee recommendation to use Watervliet attorney Ronald Postell for all police legal services at a fee of $35 per hour.

The commission approved the purchase of a used speed radar gun from the Coloma township police department for $1,250 for use by the city police force.

Buchanan Names Development Unit

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan city commission last night named eight people to a proposed downtown development authority.

The commission also voted first reading approval for an ordinance creating the authority and charging it with the task of promoting growth and increased property values in the downtown area.

Approval of the ordinance on second reading would make it law.

Appointed to serve on the committee were Abel Rakowski, Ann Desenberg, Vincent Otteson, John North, Daniel Wisely, Boyd Nutting, James Jesse and Walter E. Schirmer.

Once the ordinance becomes law, the authority will have the power to encourage historic preservation of downtown property, acquire and dispose of land in the district and implement and develop plans.

The committee will oversee development in an area bounded on the north by Dewey avenue, on the east by Red Bud trail, on the south by Roe street, and on the west by the post office building.

A master plan for the area was outlined by Mayor Joseph Garbert II to the approximately 40 people who attended last night's hearing on the proposed authority.

The plan, prepared by Architect's Inc., of Elkhart, Ind., calls for closing a portion of Main street and Days avenue to traffic to make way for a pedestrian mall.

Garbert said the plan would be implemented as it becomes economically feasible.

The proposal also calls for reducing the number of residences and increasing businesses in the area.

In other areas, the commission voted to accept a bequest of 267 shares of Clark Equipment company common stock from the estate of the late Hazel S. Miles, an executive secretary at the Buchanan plant for many years. The stocks, valued at about $12,000, were earmarked for the Buchanan teen center.

The commission voted to purchase $1,757 in playground equipment for the tot lot at the Victory street park.

A report from the Niles-Buchanan commission on aging noted that the agency serves 4,538 senior citizens in the area, of which 169 live in Buchanan.

The commission voted approval for city crews to demolish the old Chamber of Commerce building on Days avenue to expand the adjacent parking lot. The building is owned by the city.

Mrs. Linda Shelles was appointed to the Southwestern Michigan Community Ambulance service board for a one year term and Walter Moore was appointed to the planning commission, replacing Joseph Garbert Sr.

Farm Laborer Arrested

State police of the Benton Harbor post reported a farm laborer wanted on three warrants was taken into custody Monday.

Det. Sgt. Jerry Clark said a man identified as Johnny Clay Easter, 21, was sought on warrants charging escape from custody in Mississippi, failure to appear in Jackson, Mich., for sentencing on a charge of auto theft, and another warrant from Monroe county, Mich.

Clark said Easter, who was arrested at the Adolph Dong-villo Jr. farm, 504 Niles road, Royaltown township, will be turned over to Jackson authorities.

Leak Source Hunt Narrows

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynt says the panel's hearings on the leak of a secret intelligence committee report have narrowed the search for the person who supplied the report to CBS reporter Daniel Schorr.

But Flynt refused to speculate if his committee would be able to identify the source after the $150,000 probe is completed.

KENSINGTON, Md. (AP) — The family of Daniel Gearhart will hold private funeral services for the slain mercenary at their local Roman Catholic church Wednesday morning.

Gearhart's body was brought home to this Washington, D.C., suburb Monday after repeated financial and diplomatic road blocks delayed its return from Angola, where Gearhart was executed two weeks ago.

South Haven Man Faces Fire Charge Second Time

By STEVE McQUOWN
Assistant State Editor

PAW PAW — A South Haven man has pleaded innocent, for the second time, to a charge of arson in connection with the November, 1974, fire at Lappo Lumbe yard in South Haven that caused an estimated $500,000 in damages.

Duane Allen Thompson, 25, entered the plea yesterday in Van Buren circuit court before Circuit Court Judge Meyer Warshawsky.

Thompson was convicted of the charge, in a May, 1975, circuit court jury trial, and was sentenced to a prison term of five to 10 years. But the state court of appeals reversed his conviction earlier this year, along with that of David Bowden, 23, an alleged accomplice in the fire.

Bowden had also been convicted by a jury and sentenced to a prison term of five to 10 years.

Bond for Thompson was set at $5,000.

In other Van Buren circuit court action, two brothers and their sister of Sodus township, two brothers from Benton Harbor and a St. Joseph youth all pleaded guilty to charges of attempted larceny in a building, a mobile home in Covert township in May of this year.

Pleading guilty were Anita Bone, 19, and her two brothers, Peter Bone, 17, and Rick Bone, 18, all of Sodus township; Kent Taylor, 22, and his brother Marc, 23, both of 3312 Eaman, Benton Harbor; and Michael Milnikel, 24, of St. Joseph.

It is alleged that the group broke into a Covert township mobile home, took a television and stereo set and some wooden salt and pepper shakers before a silent alarm brought police officers to the home.

Carl Edward Cooper, 21, Decatur, pleaded innocent to a charge of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree (rape). He and another man are accused of the April 18 rape of a 15-year-old Decatur girl.

Theodore E. Hewitt, 36, Mattawan, pleaded innocent to two charges of criminal sexual conduct (statutory rape). The charges involved a 10-year-old girl and an 11-year-old girl, both on Dec. 15, 1975, in Mattawan.

Judge Warshawsky sentenced Jimmy Webb, 21, Grand Junction, to a term of 18 months to two years in Southern Michigan prison as a result of his June 28 "no contest" plea to a charge of attempted delivery of marijuana.

Six Vie For $200,000

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Six men will compete for Thursday's $200,000 grand prize in the Michigan State Lottery Super Play drawing. The drawing will be televised at 7 p.m., originating at the studios of WKBD, Channel 50, in Southfield. The other prizes are for $25,000, $15,000, $12,500, $10,000 and the $5,000 "Comeback" prize which allows a contestant to return the following week to try again. This week's contestants are Klaus Bergmann, 43, of Roseville; Gerald Clinton, 59, of Warren; Howard Croft, 35, of Wixom; Gary Martin, 27, of Ionia; Robert Watkins, 51, of Perry; Thomas Kochan, 69, of East Detroit.

10,000 Tons Is Gone

HESPERIA, Mich. (AP) — Two Bosco & Volpe Construction Co. employees are being sought for what could be the heaviest heist of the century: the theft of 10,000 tons of gravel. The unidentified men allegedly stole the gravel — bit by bit — from a stockpile being used to build a section of U.S-31 between Shelby and Hart, north of Muskegon. State Police investigating the theft admit it's a "kind of funny" case. "You don't walk off with it in a lunch bucket, that's for sure," said Trooper Treton Gates.

Portage Man Killed

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — A 23-year-old Portage man was killed early today when his car overturned at the Columbia Avenue exit from Interstate 94, State Police reported. Police said the crash that killed Charles O'Connell was under investigation.

Their Jobs May Go

DETROIT (AP) — Some 1,200 federally funded Detroit employees may lose their jobs in the next year because the U.S. Labor Department contends the city has hired too many laid-off workers with the money. If those workers are laid off, it will cancel the effect of new federal aid the city is to receive under a massive jobs bill approved by Congress last week. Mayor Coleman Young said Detroit may be barred from proceeding with the planned rehiring of more than 200 laid off police officers with federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds.

Marysville Strike's Over

MARYSVILLE, Mich. (AP) — Members of United Rubber Workers Local 47 voted by a 3-to-1 margin Monday to end a two-week strike at the St. Clair Rubber Co. plant. Some 150 union members walked off their jobs July 10 after rejecting a company offer on a production incentive plan. The union is in the middle of a two-year contract.

Back To Work At Kazoo

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Members of United Auto Workers Union Local 1666 began returning to work today at the National Water Lift Co. after a five-week strike. Union officials said members of the local voted 229 to 97 Monday to accept a new contract calling for increased wages and fringe benefits totaling almost $2 an hour. The strike began June 19.

Two Sons Are Owners Of Meyer Pools Business

Meyer Pools, Inc., 1436 East Napier avenue, Benton township, is owned by Roger and Chris Meyer, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyer. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer own the building and property but not the business. An account in Saturday's Herald-Palladium on a suit involving right-of-way for the widening of Napier reported Henry Meyer as owner of Meyer Pools, Inc. A $10,000 award made for a strip of property condemned for the widening went to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyer as owners of the property.

State Audit Says...

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — A state audit substantiates charges of tax irregularities made by several western Wayne County communities in a lawsuit against county Drain Commissioner Charles N. Youngblood, the Ypsilanti Press reports. The Press quoted unnamed state sources saying the Treasury Department audit, which has not been released, will call for "millions of dollars" in tax monies to be returned to the communities where they were assessed. The audit was requested last winter by state Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, and Wayne County Treasurer Louis H. Funk. The Press said results of the audit back up claims by seven communities that they were assessed for work that was never done. The communities — Belleville, Romulus, Riverview, and the townships of Van Buren, Huron, Brownstown and Canton — filed suit against Youngblood earlier this year.

Coloma Twp. Planners Approve Subdivision

COLOMA — The Coloma township planning commission last night recommended to the township board that 56 acres of land be rezoned from agricultural to residential use for development into a proposed subdivision. The request was made by Ernest Ferguson during the commission's June meeting.

The property is located off Becht road and is known as "Secluded Acres", according to Charles Abrams, planning commission secretary.

The commission, in recommending the rezoning to the board, stipulated the zoning change include 28 numbered lots and streets included in the parcel, but excluding an unplotted area and property owned by Peter DeGroot. Action on the commission's recommendation is expected by the township board during its Aug. 2 meeting.

site, located on the west side of South Church street, was identified by Mrs. Beezley as James Dine, 4621 Red Arrow highway, Stevensville.

Proposed for the three parcels of land are the construction of three, two-story buildings, containing 24, one-bedroom and 24, two-bedroom apartments.

In other areas, city residents suggested the commission reconsider the scheduled replacement of a traffic light at the corner of St. Joseph street (Red Arrow highway) and Church streets with a four-way stop.

Residents said the crossing is used by school children and the change could create a hazard for the pupils.

The commission voted June 14 to remove the light, with two commissioners Norman Carrothers and William Weybright voting against.

Coloma City Assessor Marvin Taylor told the commission he was resigning his position at the end of this year, after holding the post since 1966, because his certification was expiring.

Taylor added the job now requires more time and recommended the commission consider hiring a full-time assessor and take a stand in favor of having the entire county reappraised.

According to Taylor, the city was last reappraised in 1960 along with the county, and should be reappraised.

The commission approved leasing a 24 by 64 foot parcel of city owned property off Logan street to the North Berrien Senior Citizens organization for the site of a portable classroom being converted into a senior citizens center. The lease would be for two years, at a cost of $1 totally, and have a two-year renewal option.

A request to extend the hours of operation of a city recreation center beyond midnight was referred to the city police committee for review and recommendation.

The commission approved the signing of a contract with the state highway commission clearing the way for taking bids on a new Logan street bridge.

The commission took under advisement a storm drain study to learn of problem areas in the city resulting after heavy rainfalls. The study was suggested for a portion of the city, by city engineers, but the cost of $4,000 was over the budgeted amount for such a study.

The commission approved a police committee recommendation to use Watervliet attorney Ronald Postelli for all police legal services at a fee of $35 per hour.

The commission approved the purchase of a used speed radar gun from the Coloma township police department for $1,250 for use by the city police force.

Buchanan Names Development Unit

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan city commission last night named eight people to a proposed downtown development authority.

The commission also voted first reading approval for an ordinance creating the authority and charging it with the task of promoting growth and increased property values in the downtown area.

Approval of the ordinance on second reading would make it law.

Appointed to serve on the committee were Abel Rakowski, Ann Desenberg, Vincent Otteson, John North, Daniel Wisely, Boyd Nutting, James Jesse and Walter E. Schirmer.

Once the ordinance becomes law, the authority will have the power to encourage historic preservation of downtown property, acquire and dispose of land in the district and implement and develop plans.

The committee will oversee development in an area bounded on the north by Dewey avenue, on the east by Red Bud trail, on the south by Roe street, and on the west by the post office building.

A master plan for the area was outlined by Mayor Joseph Garbert II to the approximately 40 people who attended last night's hearing on the proposed authority.

The plan, prepared by Architect's Inc., of Elkhart, Ind., calls for closing a portion of Main street and Days avenue to traffic to make way for a pedestrian mall.

Garbert said the plan would be implemented as it becomes economically feasible.

The proposal also calls for reducing the number of residences and increasing businesses in the area.

In other areas, the commission voted to accept a bequest of 267 shares of Clark Equipment company common stock from the estate of the late Hazel S. Miles, an executive secretary at the Buchanan plant for many years. The stocks, valued at about $12,000, were earmarked for the Buchanan teen center.

The commission voted to purchase $1,757 in playground equipment for the tot lot at the Victory street park.

A report from the Niles-Buchanan commission on aging noted that the agency serves 4,539 senior citizens in the area, of which 189 live in Buchanan.

The commission voted approval for city crews to demolish the old Chamber of Commerce building on Days avenue to expand the adjacent parking lot. The building is owned by the city.

Mrs. Linda Shelles was appointed to the the Southwestern Michigan Community Ambulance service board for a one year term and Walter Moore was appointed to the planning commission, replacing Joseph Garbert Sr.

Farm Laborer Arrested

State police of the Benton Harbor post reported a farm laborer wanted on three warrants was taken into custody Monday.

Det. Sgt. Jerry Clark said a man identified as Johnny Clay Easter, 21, was sought on warrants charging escape from custody in Mississippi, failure to appear in Jackson, Mich., for sentencing on a charge of auto theft, and another warrant from Monroe county, Mich.

Clark said Easter, who was arrested at the Adolph Dongville Jr. farm, 5016 Niles road, Royalton township, will be turned over to Jackson authorities.

Leak Source Hunt Narrows

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynn says the panel's hearings on the leak of a secret intelligence committee report have narrowed the search for the person who supplied the report to CBS reporter Daniel Schorr.

But Flynn refused to speculate if his committee would be able to identify the source after the $150,000 probe is completed.

Private Rites For Gearhart

KENSINGTON, Md. (AP) — The family of Daniel Gearhart will hold private funeral services for the slain mercenary at their local Roman Catholic church Wednesday morning.

Gearhart's body was brought home to this Washington, D.C., suburb Monday after repeated financial and diplomatic road blocks delayed its return from Angola, where Gearhart was executed two weeks ago.

South Haven Man Faces Fire Charge Second Time

By STEVE McQUOWN

PAW PAW — A South Haven man has pleaded innocent, for the second time, to a charge of arson in connection with the November, 1974, fire at Lappo Lumber yard in South Haven that caused an estimated $500,000 in damages.

Duane Allen Thompson, 25, entered the plea yesterday in Van Buren circuit court before Circuit Court Judge Meyer Warshawsky.

Thompson was convicted of the charge, in a May, 1975, circuit court jury trial, and was sentenced to a prison term of five to 10 years. But the state court of appeals reversed his conviction earlier this year, along with that of David Bowden, 23, an alleged accomplice in the fire.

Bowden had also been convicted by a jury and sentenced to a prison term of five to 10 years.

Bond for Thompson was set at

In other Van Buren circuit court action, two brothers and their sister of Sodus township, two brothers from Benton Harbor and a St. Joseph youth all pleaded guilty to charges of attempted larceny in a building, a mobile home in Covert township in May of this year.

Pleading guilty were Anita Bone, 19, and her two brothers, Peter Bone, 17, and Rick Bone, 18, all of Sodus township; Kent Taylor, 22, and his brother Marc, 23, both of 3312 Eaman, Benton Harbor; and Michael Minikel, 24, of St. Joseph.

It is alleged that the group broke into a Covert township mobile home, took a television and stereo set and some wooden salt and pepper shakers before a silent alarm brought police officers to the home.

Carl Edward Cooper, 21, Decatur, pleaded innocent to a charge of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree (rape). He and another man are accused of the April 16 rape of a 15-year-old Decatur girl.

Theodore E. Hewitt, 36, Mattawan, pleaded innocent to two charges of criminal sexual conduct (statutory rape). The charges involved a 10-year-old girl and an 11-year-old girl, both on Dec. 15, 1975, in Mattawan.

Judge Warshawsky sentenced Jimmy Webb, 21, Grand Junction, to a term of 16 months to two years in Southern Michigan prison as a result of his June 28 "no contest" plea to a charge of attempted delivery of marijuana.

Two Sons Are Owners Of Meyer Pools Business

Meyer Pools, Inc., 1436 East Napier avenue, Benton township, is owned by Roger and Chris Meyer, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyer. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer own the building and property but not the business. An account in Saturday's Herald-Palladium on a suit involving right-of-way for the widening of Napier reported Henry Meyer as owner of Meyer Pools, Inc. A $10,000 award made for a strip of property condemned for the widening went to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyer as owners of the property.

State Audit Says...

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — A state audit substantiates charges of tax irregularities made by several western Wayne County communities in a lawsuit against county Drain Commissioner Charles N. Youngblood, the Ypsilanti Press reports. The Press quoted unnamed state sources saying the Treasury Department audit, which has not been released, will call for "millions of dollars" in tax monies to be returned to the communities where they were assessed. The audit was requested last winter by state Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, and Wayne County Treasurer Louis H. Funk. The Press said results of the audit back up claims by seven communities that they were assessed for work that was never done. The communities — Belleville, Romulus, Riverview, and the townships of Van Buren, Huron, Brownstown and Canton — filed suit against Youngblood earlier this year.

Today In MICHIGAN

Six Vie For $200,000

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Six men will compete for Thursday's $200,000 grand prize in the Michigan State Lottery Super Play drawing. The drawing will be televised at 7 p.m., originating at the studios of WKBD, Channel 50, in Southfield. The other prizes are for $25,000, $15,000, $12,500, $10,000 and the $5,000 "Comeback" prize which allows a contestant to return the following week to try again. This week's contestants are Klaus Bergmann, 43, of Roseville. Gerald Clinton, 59, of Warren. Howard Croft, 35, of Wixom. Gary Martin, 27, of Ionia. Robert Watkins, 51, of Perry. Thomas Kochan, 69, of East Detroit.

10,000 Tons Is Gone

HESPERIA, Mich. (AP) — Two Bosco & Volpe Construction Co. employees are being sought for what could be the heaviest heist of the century: the theft of 10,000 tons of gravel. The unidentified men allegedly stole the gravel — bit by bit — from a stockpile being used to build a section of U.S-31 between Shelby and Hart, north of Muskegon. State Police investigating the theft admit it's a "kind of funny" case. "You don't walk off with it in a lunch bucket, that's for sure," said Trooper Treston Gates.

Portage Man Killed

Their Jobs May Go

DETROIT (AP) — Some 1,200 federally funded Detroit employees may lose their jobs in the next year because the U.S. Labor Department contends the city has hired too many laid-off workers with the money. If those workers are laid off, it will cancel the effect of new federal aid the city is to receive under a massive jobs bill approved by Congress last week. Mayor Coleman Young said Detroit may be barred from proceeding with the planned rehiring of more than 200 laid off police officers with federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds.

Marysville Strike's Over

MARYSVILLE, Mich. (AP) — Members of United Rubber Workers Local 47 voted by a 2-to-1 margin Monday to end a two-week strike at the St. Clair Rubber Co. plant. Some 150 union members walked off their jobs July 10 after rejecting a company offer on a production incentive plan. The union is in the middle of a two-year contract.

Back To Work At Kazoo

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Members of United Auto Workers Union Local 1666 began returning to work today at the National Water Lift Co. after a five-week strike. Union officials said members of the local voted 229 to 97 Monday to accept a new contract calling for increased wages and fringe benefits totaling almost $2 an hour. The strike began June 19.

School To Study Breakfast Plan

BLOOMINGDALE — The Bloomingdale school board last night voted to have a thorough study prepared on the costs and advantages of a breakfast and hot lunch program for students.

The action came in response to comments from some 30 people at the meeting, many of whom said they believed the school district had no business assuming the responsibility of parents to feed their children breakfast.

The board had voted July 13 to begin the breakfast program next fall. The program, which is partially funded by federal funds, would provide children with toast or a roll, fruit juice and milk each morning for 25 cents.

The hot lunch program has been proposed to replace the district's present policy of offering only hot sandwiches and milk for lunch.

Board members Fred Rawson and Roger Templeman voted against preparing the study, saying it was not necessary.

Board members voting in favor of the study were Ray Melvin, James Muenzer, Kay Johnson and Ronald Bodtker. Gerald Doolittle was absent.

Earlier in the evening, Melvin and Muenzer had been the only two to vote in favor of a motion to kill the breakfast program. The two had also opposed the program July 13 when it was adopted.

In other areas, the board agreed to hire the Lansing law firm of Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg as its attorneys for the next school year. The board agreed to pay a $200 retainer to the firm which specializes in school district legal matters.

The firm replaces Atty. Charles Wickert of Bloomingdale, who represented the district last year.

The board voted to approve a policy under which bids will be sought for any purchases over $500.

The board approved reactivating a citizens committee to study building needs. Supt. Donald Dragoo was appointed moderator and Muenzer was named to serve on the committee.

Ambulance Volunteers To Organize July 28

BERRIEN SPRINGS — An open meeting for all ambulance service volunteers in Berrien and Cass counties will be held Wednesday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Youth Memorial Building on the fairgrounds here. Joseph H. Garbert II, Buchanan mayor, said the purpose of the meeting is to organize an association of volunteer ambulance services to acquaint the public with work being done by volunteers and explore ways of cooperating for the mutual benefit of all. He said priority items would be plan of action in the event of a general disaster, exchange of information, coordinated training of volunteer and cooperative purchasing.

Twenty-Eight Face Judges In Berrien District Court

Three men demanded preliminary examinations when arraigned Monday in Berrien District court.

Jailed in lieu of $55,000 bond was Stephenson Taylor Flood, 27, Benton township, who was arrested on warrants charging delivery of heroin (second offense), and larceny in a building.

Held on bonds totaling $25,000 was Lee Edward Lowe, 28, Detroit, on charges of carrying a concealed .38 caliber pistol, a concealed 9 mm. pistol and possession of heroin.

Bond was set at $500 for Omer P. Vander Woude, 18, Dolton, Ill., on a charge of possessing a blackjack Sunday in Chikaming township.

Bound over to Circuit court yesterday from District court were:

Willie L. Dortch, 26, Detroit, accused of accused of assault with a dangerous weapon July 5 in Benton township against State Trooper James Delgado.

Wesley Gregory, 25, 1578 John Beers road, Stevensville, charged with attempting to break into the Cycle Path Bicycle shop, 5684 St. Joseph avenue, Bill C. Buck Realty and the office of Atty. John P. Collins, both located at 2727 W. John Beers road, with the intent to commit larceny.

Sentenced yesterday for the following violations were:

Driving under influence of intoxicants — Benigno Ramos, 27, Covert, $200 in fine and costs or 90 days in jail; Richard Fisher, 19, 2016 Fricke street, Benton Harbor, $152 or 30 days in jail; Belton F. Jones, 40, Dodge City, Kansas, $152 or 30 days in jail; James L. Walker, 28, Grand Rapids, $152 or 30 days in jail; Robert P. Fox, 26, Jackson, 10 days in jail and Caleb Steward, 50, Michigan City, $152 or 30 days. Use of marijuana — Thomas H. Nichols, 18, Detroit, $50 or 10 days in jail; Danny L. Brand, 26, Centerton, Arkansas, $50 or 10 days in jail; James S. Pequoen, Centerton, Arkansas, $50 or 10 days in jail and Lou Letter, 22, 5310 US-12-Buchanan, $50 or 45 days in jail.

Assault and battery — Frank Lewis, 21, 1830 Crystal court, Benton township, $152 or 30 days; Robert Whitfield, 26, 767 Pearl street, Benton Harbor, $50 or 30 days.

Also sentenced yesterday were:

Linda S. Holmes, 18, and Lydia Cotto, 22, both of 843 Waukunda avenue, Benton Harbor, each $121 or 30 days in jail for larceny under $100, from Family Foods, Benton township.

James C. Gary, 41, Columbus road, Dowagiac, $152 or 30 days in jail for driving under the influence of intoxicants and $65 or 30 days in jail for driving with a suspended license.

Russell L. Williams, 26, 5418 Lakewood drive, Coloma, 30 days in jail for driving with a suspended license July 24 in Coloma.

Glen Wilson, 22, 1687 Greenly avenue, Benton township, $75 or 15 days in jail for malicious destruction to property, a building at Lloyd Zech farm, Berrien Springs July 20.

Lawrence D. Kenneth, 18, 384 Colby, $120 or 45 days for conspiracy to enter a building at 950 Union street, Benton Harbor, without permission Nov. 2, 1975.

Gerald Barker, 26, Sodus township, 38 days in jail for probation violation.

Michael E. Burke, 24, 971 Ramona avenue, Benton Harbor, and Linda Pelkey, 20, 1136 Milton street, Benton Harbor, $40 each for illegal entry to a building July 24.

James Lovell, 17, 604 John Beers road, Stevensville, $152 and two years probation for reckless use of a firearm June 23 in Lincoln township.

Jerry F. Schneider, 33, 923 East Empire avenue, Benton Harbor, $300 and one year probation for impaired driving, second offense, Jan. 31 in Benton township.

Dismissed in District court were charges of larceny in a building against Darrell Jackson, 23, Chicago.

INDEPENDENCE Hall, started in 1732, was originally the statehouse for the colony of Pennsylvania. The Second Continental Congress met there May, 1775, and took the crucial steps that converted a protest movement into a resistance and independence movement. Fighting had already broken out in Massachusetts when this Congress met, and in June, 1775, they appointed George Washington as commander-in-chief of the Continental Army. A year later, on July 4, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was adopted by Congress meeting here. The World Almanac relates.

Portugal Has New Government

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's first democratically elected government in 50 years has taken office with a Socialist-dominated cabinet. Socialist leader Mario Soares, 51, was sworn in Friday night as premier along with his cabinet. He said he believed the Portuguese people want a "government that will finally govern." Following a military coup in April 1974, six successive military-dominated governments ruled Portugal by decree as the initial revolutionary euphoria subsided in the hard problems of inflation, recession, labor unrest and occasional violent clashes among groups competing for political power.

GM To Spend Millions For Improvements

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Chairman Thomas Murphy says he's optimistic an auto strike can be avoided this year, predicts a bright future for the industry and backed up his optimism over the weekend by announcing GM is earmarking another $200 to $300 million for capital spending in the next three years.

In addition, GM is expected to announce second-quarter profits of over $900 million this week. The United Auto Workers union has said it will try to use that profit report for bargaining leverage, but Murphy contended the earnings are not an issue in the talks.

Portugal Has New Government

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's first democratically elected government in 50 years has taken office with a Socialist-dominated cabinet. Socialist leader Mario Soares, 51, was sworn in Friday night as premier along with his cabinet. He said he believed the Portuguese people want a "government that will finally govern." Following a military coup in April 1974, six successive military-dominated governments ruled Portugal by decree as the initial revolutionary euphoria succumbed to the hard problems of inflation, recession, labor unrest and occasional violent clashes among groups competing for political power.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Eases Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced slightly today with a lift from a dividend increase by International Business Machines.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about a point, and gainers took a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

IBM declared a quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share, up from the former level of $1.75.

Analysts noted that news involving IBM, ranked No. 1 among all stocks in total market value, often exerts a psychological influence on the market as a whole.

IBM shares were delayed in opening for dissemination of the dividend news.

Chase Manhattan, the early volume leader among NYSE issues, was off 1/4 at 29. A 50,000-share block traded at that price.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average eked out a .60 gain to 991.51.

But losers held a 6-5 edge on gainers among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index slipped .01 to 55.62.

Big Board volume, at 13.53 million shares, was the lightest since the first session of the year on Jan. 2.

The American Stock Exchange market value index lost .0 to 104.57.

Firm Fined For Stream Pollution

Jeno's, Inc., was fined $500 in Berrien Fifth District court Monday for discharging industrial waste into Sucker brook, Sodus township.

District Judge John T. Hammond, who imposed the fine against the Sodus fruit processor, said a pump that usually discharges clean water broke down "sending a slurry of sugar and cherry pits" into the brook.

"The sugar soaked up all the oxygen and suffocated all the fish in the creek that day," the judge said.

The brook flows into Pipestone creek that empties into the St. Joseph River.

Richard E. Jones, a company official, pleaded guilty on behalf of the company when arraigned on the charges last week. At that time he said Jeno's would do all it could to correct the problem, Hammond said.

Michigan Department of Natural Resources officials claimed the waste flowed into the creek for three days while the company said the waste only flowed into the creek for one day, Hammond said.

Jones and DNR representatives told Hammond Monday in court that the problem was now corrected and an extra pump was installed to prevent the same thing from happening again.

Sealed Power Corp. Has Earnings Gain

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Sealed Power Corp. earned $3 million on sales of $46.7 million during the second quarter of this year, company officials said Monday. Corporation Chairman Gordon Reynolds said the figures compare with 1975 second quarter earnings of $2 million on sales of $36 million. For the six-month period ending June 30, the company had earnings of $5.3 million, compared to $2.6 million in the same period last year. Sales during the first six months this year were $90 million, compared to $67 million last year. The firm has plants in Belgium, Mexico and Canada as well as in the United States. It makes parts for the automotive industry. Edward Schalton, a native of St. Joseph, is president and chief operating officer of Sealed Power.

Canada To Increase Gas Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of natural gas imported to this country from Canada will be increased from the current $1.60 per thousand cubic feet to $1.80 in September, according to Wisconsin Congressman Les Aspin.

The increase will be passed on to Michigan natural gas customers as a jump of from two per cent to 4.7 per cent in their residential, commercial and industrial bills.

In addition, Aspin said he has learned from the Federal Power Commission that another 14-cent increase will occur next January.

The FPC report estimates the first increase will cost Michigan Consolidated Gas Company more than $20 million; Michigan Gas and Utility, just over $1 million; and Michigan Power Company $917,000.

The Canadian government said it is boosting prices to bring them in line with the cost of other energy resources, according to Aspin.

Michigan Business Optimistic

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan business leaders are more optimistic about the future than they were a year ago and don't expect any layoffs, the state commerce director said.

Richard Helmbrecht said Monday that a survey conducted by Market Opinion Research Inc. of Detroit showed business leaders have little expectation of laying off employees.

Helmbrecht said opinions on business conditions came from May and June interviews done for the department as part of its continuing Michigan Business Index Survey. This survey is based on 200 interviews each month with a random sample of general managers, production managers and managers of financial affairs for Michigan businesses.

He said 60 per cent of those surveyed are optimistic about conditions in their own businesses in the next six months.

"Only six per cent are pessimistic ... and the rest describe themselves as cautious," he added.

"Eighteen per cent of those surveyed expect to do some hiring in the next few months, while present employment levels will hold constant for most businesses," Helmbrecht said.

Elsman Files His Suit

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Democratic U.S. Senate candidate James Elsman filed suit Monday against one of his opponents, Secretary of State Richard Austin, to end what Elsman called the branch manager "kick-back" system. An Austin campaign spokesman called the suit "completely unfounded." The suit, filed in Oakland County Circuit Court, also requests that Austin be ordered to return to the state treasury approximately $1 million Elsman claims the secretary of state has received in campaign contributions from branch managers since he took office in 1970. The suit also seeks $500,000 in punitive damages from Austin and the other defendants named. Under the current branch manager system, the secretary of state makes appointments to the offices. Elsman and other critics have claimed such appointees have been coerced into making political campaign contributions to Austin and the Democratic party. Also named in Elsman's suit are Millender, chief assistant secretary of state Walter Elliot; and all 95 officers of the Branch Managers Association.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Get Off Margin; Go Back To Cash

Q. My broker persuaded me to change to a margin account so that I could borrow up to $5,000. I had a wonderful time spending the money. However, when I decided to buy a house I found I needed more money. I sold enough stock to raise $6,500 but was told I still owe the broker $3,000, which would have to be paid before I could draw proceeds of my stock sale. In the meantime, I'm being charged interest. What do I do?

A. You tell your broker you want to sell enough additional stock to get out of the margin account and back into a "cash" account.

I can't imagine what you had in mind when you borrowed money, spent it and then forgot that you were in debt.

If you owe the broker money he is NOT going to sell stock and send all the proceeds to you.

Q. I noticed that on a certain day Stock Exchange volume was 19,050,000. Was there not an equal amount of buying? Back in October, 1929 (the stock market break), weren't there also buyers for every seller? Is there ever an occasion when the brokerage firm will buy customers' stock in anticipation of selling later?

A. These are two different questions.

1) There is a buyer for every seller. You can't say 19,050,000 shares were sold without also saying 19,050,000 shares were bought. A grocer can't sell five pounds of coffee unless buyers come into the store for five pounds.

2) On any day the buyer may be you, or your neighbor, an investor halfway across the country or around the world, or a bank or brokerage firm or a mutual fund, or a closed-end investment company of a college trust fund. But there must be a buyer.

Q. I enclose the proxy statement of a company in which I own shares showing large loans to officers and directors — some at no interest — guarantees of bank loans to others, etc. What do you think of such goings on?

A. It's pretty obvious that the "insiders" are enjoying the best of both worlds — good jobs at good salaries and large loans to buy stock, homes, etc. Proxy statements like this make me wonder how long shareholders will stand for their companies being used as private preserves of the "insiders."

Q. I own 4,000 shares of a company which sell around 1/4 to 1/2. A reverse 1-for-5 split has been proposed, with a rise in par value from 10 to 50 cents. Would this reduce my chances of making some money?

A. No. You will wind up with 800 shares which will represent exactly the same portion of the company that you 4,000 shares represent now. (The

Candidates Hear From Experts

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — The lesson for today is economics as Jimmy Carter and Sen. Walter Mondale hear from another busload of experts.

They went through a thorough briefing Monday on the nation's defense, two hours later than expected because the bus assigned to carry experts here from Atlanta wasn't big enough.

The defense experts, including several former Pentagon officials, agreed with the candidates that the United States and Russia are roughly equal in strategic nuclear strength, Carter said.

He said he would consider using nuclear weapons against the Soviet Union "if I felt that the security of our nation or the security of a nation with whom we had a binding alliance was threatened."

Convention of the Democratic Party.

Also any additional amendments or propositions that may be submitted.

River Valley Teacher Pact OK'd

THREE OAKS — The River Valley school board last night ratified a master contract for the district's teachers for the 1976-77 school year.

The one-year pact calling for a 6.5 per cent total package increase had already been approved by the River Valley association, which represents the teachers. It included a $300 pay hike for teachers above the annual increment hike.

Presently there are 14 steps in the pay schedule and the contract also calls for 1.5 per cent pay hikes for each year above the 14th step and 1.5 per cent increases for those who have taken four semester hours during any five-year period thus qualifying for the advancement factor. Each step represents one year's experience.

Under the contract, the scale for a teacher with a bachelor's degree would be from $9,080 to $13,760 depending on experience. Last year the scale was $8,780 to $13,460. The scale for teachers with a master's degree would be $9,680 to $14,960. The range last year was $9,380 to $14,660.

The package increase also includes insurance and increment advances.

In other action, the board approved a request from Local 586, Unit 11, to adjust insurance premiums paid by the board for bus drivers and custodians to equal that paid for other non-instructional personnel. The union represents the bus drivers and custodians. The board agreed with the stipulation that the action was not to be considered an opening or reopening of any articles of the master contract between the board and Local 586, prior to the end of the contract's term. The agreement provides up to $78 per month in health insurance for bus drivers and custodians, retroactive to July 1.

The board also accepted the resignation of Miss Lynn Jackson, assistant band director. Miss Jackson has accepted a position at another district.

Dr. Charles Williams, superintendent, outlined the school calendar for the 1976-77 school year. New teachers will report on Aug. 30, and all teachers will report Aug. 31, Sept. 1-2, for three days of in-service training. First day of school for students will be Tuesday, Sept. 7. Last day for students will be June 10, 1977 and for teachers, June 13, 1977.

Mrs. Mary E. Ray, board secretary, was appointed to serve as representative on the Berrien-Cass school board association and Carl Anderson, board president, was named as alternate.

The administration was given permission to advertise for bids on selling three used school buses. Five new buses have arrived.

Proposed changes in the 1976-77 student handbook were distributed to board members for study and consideration for the next meeting Aug. 9.

Gobles Board Asks Voters For 2 Mills

GOBLES — The Gobles school board last night tentatively picked the week of Sept. 20 for a special election on a two-mill property tax issue sought for three years for school operations.

If approved, the two mills would raise about $34,000 locally the first year and a similar amount in state aid, school officials said.

The district has a current mill levy of 21.58 mills that in itself would raise an estimated $366,000 towards a tentative 1976-77 budget of $1,182,653.

The board failed in June, 1975, and again in August, 1975, to get voters to approve an extra two mills for operations although a three-mill renewal was approved in August of 1975.

Board members said they want to get state approval for the millage request before setting an election date.

The board also announced that it will invite members of a recently formed citizens' committee to interview the final three applicants for the newly created position of assistant high school principal.

RADAR POWER DIES
SANIBEL ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Dr. John Slater, whose research led to the development of radar during World War II, is dead at 75. Dr. Slater died Sunday at his home here.

Pipestone Approves Recreation Funds

EAU CLAIRE — The Pipestone township board last night approved paying $2,000 to the Greater Eau Claire Recreation commission for fiscal 1976-77. The commission is also supported by Eau Claire village and Berrien township so it can operate the area's recreation program. The board also paid its July fire bill of $1,107 and its share, $536, for operation of the tri-township landfill on Dean's Hill road.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, July 27, the 209th day of 1976. There are 157 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1953, an armistice was signed at Panmunjom, ending the Korean War after more than three years of fighting.

On this date:

In 1922, the United States formally recognized the countries of Albania, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia.

In 1941, Japan invaded French Indochina during World War II.

In 1954, Britain and Egypt agreed on terms ending 72 years of British control of the Suez Canal.

In 1960, a Republican National Convention in Chicago nominated Richard Nixon for president.

In 1969, President Nixon, visiting Indonesia, promised the Southeast Asian nation strong U.S. economic support.

Ten years ago: South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky renewed a call for an invasion of North Vietnam.

Five years ago: Communist raiders blew up five American helicopters at a base near Saigon.

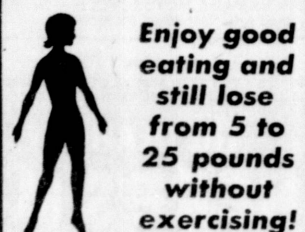

One year ago: Britons began evacuating strife-torn Angola by air as Americans prepared to leave the African country by ship.

Durocher is 70 years old.

Thought for today: It is a characteristic of wisdom not to do desperate things — Henry David Thoreau, American writer, 1871-1862.
